BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz., 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

A NEW POSITIVE WATER-METER TESTER.

The large majority of waterworks, particularly the smaller ones, seldom have accurate or positive means of testing their meters. Often when a meter is repaired, the man making the repairs simply blows through the meter to see if it runs, when it is again put into service with the assumption that it is accurate. Sometimes meters are hooked up in series with a new meter and water is run through to see if the readings check. This is better than the lung-power method, but still is far from accurate or dependable, in that the test meter may be in error by 2 per cent or even more. Several states have regulations governing water utilities, both municipal and private, and require a positive method of testing water meters in every meter shop.—American City Magazine.

ANNEXATIONS OF BOSTON.

East Boston in 1637; South Boston in 1804, being set off from Dorchester; Roxbury in 1868, a city of Norfolk County since March, 1846; Dorchester in 1870, a town since September, 1630; Charlestown in 1874, a city of Middlesex County since February, 1847; Brighton in 1874, set off from Cambridge and incorporated as a town of Middlesex County in February, 1807; West Roxbury in 1874, set off from Roxbury and incorporated as a town of Norfolk County in May, 1851; Hyde Park in 1912, a town of Norfolk County since April, 1868.

These annexations, which added to Boston, were by area as follows: East Boston, 1,435 acres; South Boston, 795; Roxbury, 2,450; Dorchester, 5,600; West Roxbury, 8,075; Brighton, 2,664; Charlestown, 424; Hyde Park, 2,869. Filled land increased the area later by 1,396 acres. In 1875 the annexed territory had a population of 201,250, or 58.86 per cent of city's total; in 1910 its population had increased to 477,311, or 71.18 per cent, Hyde Park not included. By 1915 the total was 549,139, or 73.67 per cent of city. By 1925 the total was 607,519, or 77.92 per cent.

JAMAICA SPENDS $1,000,000 ANNUALLY ON ROAD CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE.

Jamaica, an English possession, has a highway system which is almost entirely constructed of waterbound macadam, some 70 miles of which has been surface-treated. Many of the roads are under the supervision of the Department of Public Works and various parochial boards. There are about 2,500 miles of bridle and foot paths. The highway system connects all parts of the island in a very satisfactory manner, and the problem is not that of the construction of new roads, but the improvement of old ones, the surfacing and widening of these roads, and protective coatings. The roads are well maintained and, as there are not many heavy trucks, the maintenance is satisfactory. There are approximately 4,000 miles of highways, or 1.11 square miles of area to one mile of highway.

About a million dollars per year is spent on new construction and maintenance, the machinery used being both European and American.

(From a report of the American Road Builders' Association.)

RECREATION, ADEQUATE AS TO KIND AND AVAILABILITY.

Although the ratio of park acreage to population has been used as the simplest measure of the extent to which cities provide areas for the recreation of their people, it is by no means an accurate basis for determining this. If most of the total acreage is in one large park, if the parks are poorly distributed, or if they do not provide various types of recreation facilities, the park system may be inefficient even though the acreage is large. The efficiently planned park and recreation system will involve balanced relationship and well-distributed location of several types of properties, namely, children's playgrounds, neighborhood playfield parks, neighborhood parks, reservations, boulevards, and parkways.

BOSTON'S LIABILITY FOR METROPOLITAN DEBT, 1937.

Boston's liability for this contingent debt of the State (i. e., in the form of annual assessments for sinking funds and interest) incurred for Metropolitan parks, sewers, water, etc., was $28,559,995 (net) on July 1, 1937, or $1,283,454 more than in 1936 and $6,473,404 more than in 1927. It is divided thus: Water debt, $25,314,274; Park debt, $904,738; Sewer debt, $1,639,878; Charles River Basin debt, $701,105. The percentages paid by Boston in 1937 were 63.4515 on Water Debt; 48.6623 on most of the Park Debt; 36.25 on most of the Sewer debt, and on Charles River Basin debt the same as on Park debt.

Metropolitan assessments paid by Boston in 1937 amounted to $4,752,277.22, of which 64.23 per cent was for debt requirements and 35.77 for maintenance. Water assessment, $3,282,201 (usually paid from water revenue); park, $786,974; sewer, $470,545; Charles River Basin, etc., $212,557.

PITTSBURGH'S TRAFFIC SAFETY RECORD.

Pittsburgh has been adjudged the safest city in the United States in 1932, and the second safest in 1933 and 1934 among cities with populations over 500,000. Registrations in the city increased 4.4 per cent, gasoline consumption 7.7 per cent. In 1935, despite a 2.4 per cent decrease in traffic volume, adult fatalities increased 30 per cent, total fatalities 24 per cent, as compared with 1934.

FINANCING SEWAGE WORKS BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT IN IOWA.

The cost of constructing sewage disposal plants in a number of states, and in Iowa in particular, may be levied against the various lots, parts of lots or parcels of ground draining to, or susceptible to drainage to, the site of the disposal plant. Such assessments must be in proportion to the benefits to each property and must not, in any case, exceed one-fourth of the fair value of the property in question. These special assessments are payable in the same manner as other municipal improvement costs; that is, in ten annual equal installments, paid at the same time and place as the March 1 installment of ordinary taxes in Iowa. Any property owner may pay off the unpaid portion of such tax at any time. Interest on the deferred payment must not exceed 6 per cent.

WATER-SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1652 Boston introduced the first American public water supply. The first mechanical pumps were used in 1761 at Bethlehem, Pa., where Hans Christiansen, an American pioneer water-supply engineer, made his pumps work "after severe struggles." In 1850 there were only 100 water plants in the United States, and as late as 1875 only 243. In 1933 there were more than 11,000 public water supplies, some serving more than one community.

COACH

Term 1939-1940

(To take effect Sept. 7, 1939)

East Boston High School—Fredrick L. O'Brien.

Mr. Lee: On the matter of teacher coaches: I brought up the question last year of having the coaches appointed for a season of sport. I thought that was still an open question and that we had not decided as to whether we would have different teachers coach different sports, so as not to have a teacher taken from his classes too much, and thus giving an opportunity to other teachers.

Chairman: Nobody is taken from the class room?

Superintendent: No.

Mr. Lee: Would you qualify those appointments as just for this season?

Chairman: I would be glad to have the question discussed, but I think just now we should approve these appointments for the year.

Mr. Lee: If we qualify the appointments as for this season, we could later decide whether they should be for the year or not?

Mr. White: Why not approve the appointments for the year and then discuss the question as a matter of policy?

Mr. Lee: If you appoint them for the year it is too late to have different coaches for the mid-winter season and the spring season.

Mr. White: It is an important change. If we are going to make it, it should be given more thought.

Mr. Lee: Shouldn't we appoint just for the present season and we could have a fuller discussion on the matter of policy in a week or so?

Mr. White: If you are going to change, I think you should give the matter more thought.

Superintendent: The compensation is only $6 a day, for not more than two hundred days, not to exceed $1,200. It is a per diem rate of pay.

Mr. Lee: This action today only authorizes them to have that work now and does not commit the School Committee?

Chairman: They are appointed for the year.

Superintendent: But at a per diem rate.

Dr. Foley: This is a system that has proved its worth, and if we are going to discuss changing it let us discuss it when we have more time.

Chairman: Are you objecting now, Mr. Lee?

Mr. Lee: I would like to leave it open.

Mr. White: Why don't you approve these appointments and discuss the question later? You wouldn't stop them in the middle of the year? You would start them next year?

Mr. Lee: Have the secretary record my yes vote with the qualification that the School Committee will take up the question of division of employment into seasons at an early date.

The appointments of coaches were approved.

MAYOR GIVES SUMMER TUNNEL EMPLOYEES SIX-DAY WORK WEEK.

Upon October 25, the Mayor issued the following statement:

I am pleased to announce that I have made arrangements to reduce from seven days to six days the work week of the tollmen-guards employed at the Summer Tunnel. This policy will go into effect on Wednesday, November 1. The requiring of the tollmen-guards to work seven days a week has been in effect since the opening of the tunnel on June 30, 1934. I am confident that the change to a six-day week will improve the morale of these employees and result in a marked increase in their efficiency. In order to effect this change it will be necessary to employ three tollmen-guards in addition to the thirty-four now employed. Despite, however, the increase in the per diem wages of these employees and the adding of three tollmen-guards to the present personnel, the change will be effected at no additional cost to the city. The tollmen-guards will receive $36.50 for a six-day week, as compared with their former and present salary of $38.50 per week for seven days. At my direction, two conferences were held within the past ten days, between Public Works Commissioner Hyland and a representative group of six tollmen-guards, to discuss the change to a six-day week, at the above stipulated weekly wage. This proposal met with their enthusiastic approval.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DEPARTMENT HEADS ON THE NEW CAPITAL BUDGET.

In accordance with instructions from his Honor the Mayor, the City Planning Board is preparing a Capital Budget for 1940 and a Capital Program for 1940-45. Blank forms have been sent to each City Department or Board with the request that the data be submitted by November 1.

The budgeting of capital accounts is as essential as the budgeting of current accounts and the principles involved are much the same; such accounts are for physical developments in contrast to operating costs. The Capital Budget, however, is not separate and distinct from the city's usual budgetary procedure, but is rather a part of it, and may be considered as a study of long-term investments for Boston.

The City Planning Board has prepared a report on the capital expenses of each department for the last twenty years and the groupings and definitions in City Document No. 87 have been followed. They include:

1. Purchase of land.
2. Purchase of equipment.
3. Purchase of materials.
4. Special Appropriations—Bridges, Ferries, Sidewalks, Parkways and Roadways, Streets and Street Signs.
5. Contracts for construction, for grading or for planting of trees and shrubs.

New York City and Syracuse are two municipalities in which long-term Capital Budgets have been in operation a number of years. Here in Massachusetts, Winchester was the first to adopt a six-year recurring program.

Some of the advantages of establishing a six-year "program" in addition to a one-year "budget" is that the investment of principal may be adjusted to both the city's financial condition and to the emergency need for public works to give relief employment. The relative urgency of such investments may be determined by the Mayor and the length of time for bond issues may be adjusted to stabilize the annual payments on interest and principal.

With the changing trends in population between the districts in the city and the corresponding changes in the use of property the long-range investment in land or buildings or motor equipment should be studied together with the effect of such investments on the increase or decrease both in operating costs and in tax returns.

THE CITY PLANNING BOARD.

FELLOWSHIP STUDIES IN TRAFFIC CONTROL.

Fifteen graduate fellowships, each with a stipend of $1,200-plus up to $200 for travel and field investigation have been announced by the Bureau for Street Traffic Research of Harvard University. The regular annual tuition fee of $400 will be deducted from the fellowships, which have been made available through a gift to the University by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association. The officers of instruction are Miller McClintock, Director of the Bureau, and Maxwell Halsey, Assistant Director. Each of two full courses in street and highway traffic control consists of three one-hour periods a week, and additional problems, assignments and field work.

CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF BOSTON MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 31.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1939.

No. 44

MAYOR TOBIN TELLS MEMBERS OF ROTARY CLUB OF BOSTON HOW THEY MAY BE OF GREATER SERVICE TO THEIR CITY—ASKS THEM TO AID IN REBUILDING BUSINESS OF PORT OF BOSTON THROUGH THEIR NATIONAL BUSINESS AND COMMERCIAL ASSOCIATIONS—POINTS OUT TO THEM THE FACT THAT BOSTON INVESTMENTS HAVE BUILT AND ARE SUPPORTING GREAT ENTERPRISES IN WEST AND THAT ROTARIANS ACTIVE IN THIS COULD GREATLY AID BOSTON BY USING PORT AS POINT FROM WHICH TO SHIP TO FOREIGN LANDS.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Boston, on Wednesday, November 1, Mayor Tobin made an urgent plea to all Rotarians that they use their industrial and commercial influence to aid in bringing back to the Port of Boston the activity that it was accustomed to enjoy in its earlier days. He was discussing the subject, "How Can Rotary Help the City of Boston?" The meeting was under the direction of the Community Service Committee.

In the course of his remarks the Mayor said that he was surprised to discover on his recent trip to Cleveland that many Boston residents and citizens had invested heavily in and were supporting with their capital businesses in Cleveland and other western cities. Many of these investors and controllers of business west of the Hudson river were members of the Rotary organization. The Mayor pointed out that one of the best services the organization could render to the city was to have those industries and commercial enterprises in which they were interested use the Port of Boston more, in sending their products out of the country to Europe and other countries.

Mayor Tobin also pointed out to the members of the Rotary Club that Boston and New England were at a peculiar disadvantage, from a railroad point of view, as compared with other sections, in that the railroads in this section were controlled by outside interests that had no special desire or will to aid this section. Rather it was that they discriminated against this section by striving and succeeding in having business that would ordinarily come to and pass through the Port of Boston as the logical gateway to the trade routes of the sea take routes through other ports. This meant a great loss to the port and thus a constant retardation of the progress that might be ours were conditions different.

Mayor Tobin called to the attention of the assembly the advantages of the port in point of shipping distance from Europe and many of the South American countries as compared with other cities and asked their aid in seeing that Boston got what should, of geographical right, be hers in the commercial world. He also stressed the advantage a metropolitan population rating could give the city.

After stressing this work by which the organization could serve the city he went on to compliment the organization on its other and already active services to the city and the community. He cited the fact that the Boston club was the seventh in historical order of its founding and that its record of helpfulness had been unquestionable. This was especially true of the philanthropic work that was being continually performed.

Among the specific works of a philanthropic nature performed by the club was the establishment of a Boy's Work Fund, by which educational aid is given to worthy students of our high schools and other institutions. Another of their activities which had been of great advantage to the city and the making of good future citizens was the establishment of an apprenticeship system by which young men are fitted into jobs and made useful to the community.

After further commenting on the activities and the success of the club locally and all over the world to which its influence has extended, Mayor Tobin expressed the wish, in concluding, that the organization might continue to grow and expand until its influence reached out into all phases of life in every land and would continue to be the instrument of good that it has proven since its founding.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"
From Boston Centennial Poem by
NATHAN HASKEL DOLE.

I desire to call to the attention of members of the department, for their information and guidance, the following excerpt from a letter received from Ulysses J. Lupien, Director of Civil Service, dated October 13, 1939:

"I feel that the Division of Civil Service should make every effort to establish the police departments of various cities and towns of Massachusetts on the highest possible plane. For that reason I intend to be very critical of the police records of all applicants for police examination and will take rather drastic action relative to reinstatements of police officers who have been guilty of drunkenness or violation of rules. There will, no doubt, be a number of such instances where the officers will be refused reinstatement by the Civil Service Division."

PROCLAMATION ON MARINE CORPS DAY.

On the tenth day of November, in the year of our Lord 1775, the Continental Congress enacted the law by which the United States Marine Corps was created.

In the one hundred and sixty-four years which have passed, the United States Marine Corps has served as our first line of defense in Tripoli and China, in Haiti and the Philippines, in the most remote islands of the seven seas and in the blood-stained mud of Belleau Wood.

The Marine Corps has been the bulwark of the Monroe Doctrine, which guarantees the Americas from foreign intervention and aggression. In tiny islands and trackless jungles the Marine Corps has restored order and promoted stability of government; salvaged the enslaved from tyranny and freed the downtrodden from dictatorship.

Now, therefore, I, as Mayor of Boston, direct that on Friday, November 10, 1939, Marine Corps Day, the flag be flown from all public buildings and ask that it be flown from homes and places of business in recognition of the anniversary of the United States Marine Corps and in memory of its hallowed dead.

MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 401.

The Superintendent of Police is hereby directed to make the following details for duty at the City Election in this city on Tuesday, November 7, 1939:

1. Three patrolmen for duty in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners, 111 City Hall Annex, on arrival of ballots for the City Election at about 11 o'clock a. m., Monday, November 6, 1939, such details to continue until all ballots cast at the election have been returned.

2. An officer of rank above that of sergeant for duty at the City Hall Annex, to supervise the police detail for motor trucks from 5 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, November 7, 1939, until relieved, and a patrolman from 8 o'clock p. m., on the same date, until relieved, for duty at the same place, to keep clear the approaches to the office of the Board of Election Commissioners for motor vehicles returning from the polling places with ballot boxes, etc.

3. The necessary number of patrolmen from the several police divisions to attend the several polling places in this city on City Election Day, to preserve order and protect voters in the full exercise of their rights.

4. Twenty-three sergeants, one to a motor vehicle, to report at the office of the Board of Election Commissioners in ample season to be prepared to leave that office for their respective destinations, according to the following schedule, in such vehicle with ballot boxes, ballots, etc., and deliver such ballot boxes, ballots, etc., to the police officer detailed in each precinct.

SCHEDULE FOR HOURS OF DEPARTURE OF SERGEANTS SO DETAILED FROM OFFICE OF BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS ON MORNING OF NOVEMBER 7, 1939.

One motor vehicle for each of the twenty-two wards, excepting Ward 1, East Boston, for which two trucks have been engaged.

Wards 1 to 7, both inclusive, 6 a. m.
Wards 8 to 10, both inclusive, 5.30 a. m.
Ward 11, 5 a. m.
Ward 12, 5.45 a. m.
Wards 13 to 17, both inclusive, 5.30 a. m.

Wards 19 and 20, 5.20 a. m.

5. For proper coordination in the delivery of ballot boxes, ballots, etc., by the sergeants, as herein set forth, to the police officers detailed at the various precincts, it is of the utmost importance that such sergeants leave the City Hall Annex promptly on time as per schedule.

6. One patrolman to report at each of the three hundred and eighty-six precincts, as hereinafter set forth, on Tuesday, November 7, 1939, to receive ballot boxes, ballots, etc., from the sergeants detailed on motor trucks.

From the opening to close of the polls, there shall be detailed an additional police officer outside of each of the three hundred and eighty-six (386) polling places in the city. This provision is made to prevent alleged continued violations of the election laws relative to distribution of campaign literature within 150 feet of a polling place, and to remedy conditions at polling places, reported by the Board of Election Commissioners, which have brought complaints from voters to the effect that campaign workers and loiterers outside the polls have hampered their progress to and from voting.

NOTE.—The Board of Election Commissioners points out that a candidate running on stickers (or his representative) may stand at the entrance to the polling place to distribute his stickers.

In Ward 22, Precinct 3, from the opening to close of the polls, an additional officer will be detailed outside the polling place, making two officers, in all, on the outside, at that location.

Ward 22, Precincts 10 to 12, both inclusive, and Precincts 15 to 17, both inclusive, 6.40 a. m.

Ward 22, Precincts 13 and 14, 7 a. m.

7. Commanding officers are to take notice that it is of the greatest importance, also, that the patrolmen herein detailed report at the polling places in the various precincts promptly according to schedule.

Failure for any reason of an officer to be on hand at a polling place at the appointed time delays the sergeant in the motor vehicle in his delivery of the ballot boxes, ballots, etc., and interferes as is plainly seen, with the balance of the delivery schedule.

8. This detail of patrolmen at the various precincts will continue until the ballots are counted and the results declared. The officers are then to bring the ballots and returns to the Election Commissioners' office.

9. Cards with the ward and precinct number and location of voting booth printed thereon will be forwarded to the several police divisions, on which the division commander will write the name, the division number, and the number of the officer detailed at the time stated on the morning of November 7, 1939, at the voting booth of each respective precinct on his division. This card, to be given to the officer so detailed at the voting booth, will be retained in his possession until delivered by him to an employee of the Board of Election Commissioners, who will arrive accompanying a sergeant on motor vehicle from the Election Commissioners' office on the morning of November 7, with the ballot boxes, ballots, etc., as hereinbefore stated.

This card, when returned by such employee to the office of the Election Commissioners, will be its receipt that the ballot boxes, ballots, etc., have arrived at their proper destination.

10. On receipt by the patrolman from the sergeant, detailed on motor vehicle, as herein provided, of registering ballot box, ballots, voting lists and such other documents as may have been received from the Election Commissioners, the patrolman detailed at polling place will deliver same to the warden or clerk of the precinct, allowing no person to take or handle them before such delivery, and hand the key of the registering ballot box to the warden. On delivery of the ballots to the warden, the patrolmen will take from him a receipt for the same, which receipt will be returned to the Election Commissioners.

11. After the warden has opened the box and allowed the election officers and the public to see that it is empty, the box is to be again locked and the key given to the patrolman who is to retain it until after the polls have closed, except that, at the request of the warden, the patrolman may allow him to open the box for the purpose of pressing down the ballots, in order to make room for more ballots after which the patrolman will see that the box is again locked, and the key returned to the police officer.

12. The patrolman will obtain from the warden copies of poster, which will be sent to the latter, in relation to smoking and the use of liquor in polling places, and post same in conspicuous places where they may be easily read. Tacks will be sent for the purpose.

13. The warden will deliver to the patrolman detailed at the polling place for his use at that place a copy of the descriptive voting list, which must be returned to the warden at the close of polls.

14. When the polls are opened, the patrolman will mark in the place indicated on tag attached to the key the figures which the register shows before any ballots are cast.

15. At 8 p. m., Tuesday, November 7, when the polls close, one sergeant will report in each of the twenty-two wards (excepting Ward 1, East Boston, for which two sergeants and two motor trucks are provided), to meet motor vehicle at last point of morning distribution; thence to proceed to each of the several precincts in his respective ward, and receive registering ballot box (which must be locked) and key thereof, voting lists envelope, signed by the warden and other election officers, receipts for ballots, unused ballot envelope, sealed and certified (containing unused and spoiled ballots), stamps for marking spoiled ballots, receipts for ballots and checklists, carry them to the Election Commissioners' office and deliver same to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners.

16. When the polls are closed, the patrolman will mark on the same tag the figures which the register shows after all ballots have been cast. He will then hand the key to the warden, who will open the box and take out all the ballots to be sorted and counted. The warden will then cause the voting lists, including the list used by the police officer, to be sealed up in an envelope and the envelope certified by the signatures of himself and the other election officers and the same returned to the Election Commissioners, as described in section 15 of this order. The patrolman will not allow this envelope to be put into the ballot box. The sergeant who will report on motor vehicle will keep it about his person until delivery at the office of the Election Commissioners. The unused and spoiled ballots are then to be put in the envelope for unused ballots and the envelope sealed and certified.

17. When returning from polls, all motor vehicles must drive to the easterly side of City Hall Annex, Court square, where ballot boxes will be conveyed by chute to the basement.

18. It is important that the patrolman sees that the voting lists' envelope is signed by the warden, clerk and all the inspectors. The patrolman will also see that the special book for signatures of voters is returned in the registering ballot box.

19. In case a patrolman is detailed to relieve another after the close of the polls, the commanding officer will see that he is properly instructed as to the duty of bringing the official returns, the box of ballots cast, and the press return to the Election Commissioners' office as soon as they are delivered to him by the election officers.

20. When the ballots have all been counted, the ballots thus counted, tally sheets and nothing else, shall be placed by the warden in the leatheroid box for that purpose, which must be sealed up and signed by all the election officers. The patrolman will particularly see that this box is properly sealed up and that all the election officers have signed their names to the certificate on the box. The patrolman will then bring the box, official return, record book, and press return to the City Hall Annex, Court square, and deliver same to the Election Commissioners. The patrolman is directed not to allow the official return, press return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box.

21. While the polls remain open, an officer of rank will visit the polling place in each division at stated intervals, to be designated by the captain, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer of the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division the officer in charge will communicate immediately with Headquarters.

22. Attention is called to the fact that the polls at the City Election on Tuesday, November 7, 1939, shall open at 8 o'clock a. m. and close at 8 o'clock p. m.

23. Commanding officers of divisions will see that the officers detailed for duty on City Election Day are furnished with a copy of the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners, entitled: "Instructions to Police Officers on . . . Election Days."

24. The counting of ballots will be done on one table only with two inspectors counting and two inspectors watching the count.

Notes.

(A) Attention is again called to the last paragraph of the circular, "Instructions to Police Officers on . . . Election Days," which reads: "The police officer is directed not to allow the official return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box."

That this may not happen (as it has in the past, notwithstanding repeated instructions) in any of the precincts of this

HOUSING CONTRACT AWARDED.

Upon October 26 the Boston Housing Authority issued the following statement:

Chairman John A. Breen of the Boston Housing Authority today announced the approval by the United States Housing Authority of the recommendation of the Boston Housing Authority for the award of the general construction contract for its Ward 9, Roxbury, project, to the C. J. Maney Company, Incorporated, of Somerville, Mass. The bid approved was for the general construction of the project, including the demolition, mechanical work and site improvement, in the amount of $1,073,000. The contractor receiving the award was the low bidder.

The well-known firm of Maginnis & Walsh, architects for the project, had previously approved the award of the contract to the C. J. Maney Company, Incorporated.

This is the third award of the Boston Housing Authority for construction of housing projects, the first award having been made for the construction of a project in Charlestown and the second award for the construction of a project in the Mission Hill section of Roxbury.

Construction of this project is expected to start immediately and will be completed within approximately one year. Construction of the project will provide employment for hundreds of building trades' mechanics and laborers at prevailing wage rates.

The general contract calls for the demolition of all the unsafe and unsanitary dwellings now occupying the site.

The site, which is about two miles from the center of the city, is bounded by Kendall street, Shawmut avenue and Lenox street, and extends to within approximately 100 feet of Tremont street.

The plans which were approved by the United States Housing Authority call for the construction of three-story walk-up structures, of the apartment house type, with brick walls, concrete floors and roofs, and entirely of first-class fireproof construction. The apartments will be heated by a central heating plant. In addition to the 306 dwelling units, there will be administration space and space for recreational and social activities created within the buildings.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

city at the coming election, the officer of rank who will visit the polling places in each division (provided for in section 21 of this order) shall, at an appropriate time, call to the attention of the police officer and of the warden on duty at the polls, that the official return, press return and record book are not to be placed in the leatheroid box.

They shall be handed to the police officer who will deliver them as set out in the paragraph immediately following.

(B) The officer going to the office of the Board of Election Commissioners with the leatheroid box, after the counting of the ballots, will take with him, in a separate package, the official return, press return and record book, which he shall safely deliver to the Election Commissioners with the leatheroid box, as provided in section 20 of this order.

(C) The police shall enforce the order that smoking is prohibited within the confines of the polling places, during the entire day, while the polls are open, as well as after they are closed.

The Board of Election Commissioners makes special request that the officers detailed at the 386 precincts be instructed to see that this is enforced.

As polling places and their approaches and exits are, in many instances, in buildings used for places of religious worship, to say nothing of the danger to valuable property from careless persons, the importance of these instructions is apparent.

Commanding officers will take notice, and provide means to correct, the following conditions set out in a paragraph of a letter received by the Police Commissioner from the Board of Election Commissioners:

"May we again call your attention to the law which prohibits smoking in any polling place, and ask you to have the officers who are detailed to the three hundred and eighty-six (386) precincts make a special effort to see that there is no smoking during the entire day, while the polls are closed as well as after they are open."

(D) The following matter was on a previous occasion brought particularly to the attention of the Police Commissioner in writing by the Board of Election Commissioners. Commanding officers will see that this cause of complaint, if it again occurs, is corrected:

"During the hours from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. there has been a large increase in the number of persons who congregate outside the polling places. This makes it disagreeable to voters who are entering and leaving the polling places. May we ask that the police use every effort to relieve this congestion?"

(E) Under date of October 27, 1939, the Board of Election Commissioners wrote to the Police Commissioner as follows:

"We also request that the officers assigned to the polls be reminded that it is the privilege of the voters to watch the count of votes cast; the law specifically states 'The voting lists and all ballots removed from the ballot box shall be kept in open view of the voters present until enclosed and sealed up, and all proceedings in the canvass and counting of votes shall be public and in open view of the voters.' It is understood, of course, that no disturbance or crowding is to be allowed and that the voters are to remain outside the rails."

(F) Wardens have been instructed that no checkers are to be allowed in the polling places, and we expect that the officers will assist them in enforcing this rule.

(G) The following precinct changes set out by the Board of Election Commissioners are brought to the attention of the department:

Ward 2, Precinct 2, now a part of Precinct 3.

Ward 2, Precinct 4, now a part of Precinct 5.

Ward 7, Precinct 18, a new precinct.

Ward 10, Precinct 1, now a part of Precinct 2.

May we again emphasize the need for care in handling the ballot boxes. Many of the boxes are old, but since we cannot afford to replace them at this time we try to handle them with the greatest care. We trust that the officers detailed to polling places and to trucks will be careful of the boxes and will see that nobody else is permitted to mistreat them.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

General Order No. 402.

I wish to take this opportunity to extend to the members of the Force my sincere appreciation for the fine cooperation and unselfish spirit shown on the occasion of the Halloween parties given to the children in the various sections of the city last night.

I am cognizant of the great responsibility attached to the care of such a large number of children and I am grateful to all those who participated in helping to make these parties such a splendid success, which were not marred by a single accident.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

VETO OF SIDEWALK ORDER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 16, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my signature and rejected, a lien order for sidewalks along Perkins street, Ward 19.

I am advised by the Commissioner of Public Works that lien orders are not required for this particular type of work.

In view of such advice I have vetoed the inclosed order.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
October 10, 1939.

William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—I return herewith sidewalk construction lien order that the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Perkins street (Ward 19 side), and to be built of tar.

VETO OF SIDEWALK OPENING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 23, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith without my signature and disapproved, petition for a sidewalk opening at 272-278 Washington street, Brighton. In my opinion the proposed petition contemplates a sidewalk opening far in excess of ordinary requirement, and for that reason I have vetoed the granting of the license for this opening.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO OF LICENSE TO MODERN BUS LINES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 18, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my signature and disapproved, the vote granting a license to the Modern Bus Lines to operate motor vehicles from the Dedham Line to Forest Hills Station over Spring street, Centre street, Belgrade avenue and Washington street.

Washington street, from the New Haven Railroad Bridge at Forest Hills to Roslindale square, a distance of about a mile, is now under process of reconstruction, necessitating one-way traffic, which will be necessary for some months to come.

I believe that because of the traffic congestion created by the above described conditions that consideration of this permit should be postponed.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Sir,—In compliance with the City Council order of October 2, brought to our attention by your communication of October 5, the Board of Election Commissioners has this day ordered from the City of Boston Printing Department cards bearing the new penalty upon illegal voting—General Laws, chapter 56, section 33, as amended by chapter 299 of the Acts of 1939. These cards will be posted outside the polling places on the day of the City Election.

Please be assured that we are glad to cooperate with you in this matter.

Very truly yours,

BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS,
WILLIAM A. MOTLEY, JR., Chairman.

Placed on file.

USE OF WILLIAM EUSTIS SCHOOL, ROXBURY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 23, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Executive Director of the Public Welfare concerning your order of October 2, 1939, relative to making alterations and repairs to the William Eustis School, George street, Roxbury, for the purpose of creating a center for all Welfare, W. P. A. and Old Age Assistance activities for persons residing in Ward 8, Roxbury.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Overseers of the Public Welfare,
October 20, 1939.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.
Attention of Mr. William T. Doyle.

Dear Sir,—This department has received your communication with inclosed copy of an order from the City Council, dated October 2, 1939, reading as follows:

"Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor direct the Bureau of Overseers of Public Welfare to make alterations and repairs to the William Eustis School, George street, Roxbury (to wit—second and third floors), for the purpose of creating a center for all Welfare, W. P. A. and Old Age Assistance activities for persons residing in Ward Eight, Roxbury, which are now handled at the following branches:

Hancock Street, Dorchester.
Glenway Branch, Franklin Park.
Whittier Branch, Roxbury.
Concord Street Branch, South End.

Further Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor direct the Bureau of Overseers of Public Welfare to transfer to the George Street Branch immediately upon completion of necessary alterations and repairs supervisors, clerks and visitors now assigned to the above mentioned branches and engaged in Welfare, W. P. A. and Old Age Assistance activities pertaining to persons residing in Ward Eight."

May I report that this order was presented to the Board of Overseers of Public Welfare at their meeting as of October 16, 1939, and the Board felt that at this time nothing could be done toward the establishment of a district unit for Dependent Aid cases at the George Street School.

With reference to Old Age Assistance cases there are only two units operating outside of the main building, one of which is located at 57 East Concord street, in Boston proper, and the other on Glenway street, in the Dorchester district.

The Old Age Assistance units and the Dependent Aid units are never allocated to the same building. It was not felt necessary by the Board of Overseers of Public Welfare to add another unit for Old Age Assistance cases at this time.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM G. O'HARE,
Executive Director.

INCREASE OF W. P. A. QUOTA.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 16, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—In reply to your order of October 9, 1939, requesting that I confer with the officials of the W. P. A. for the purpose of increasing the present W. P. A. quota in Boston, I beg to state that this conference was held and I have been assured by said officials that the quota for Boston will be increased to the extent of one thousand persons.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Placed on file.

SALE OF PIGS, DEER ISLAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 16, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the attached communication from the Deputy Commissioner of the Penal Institutions Department who desires authority to dispose of one hundred (100) surplus pigs at the House of Correction totaling approximately ten thousand pounds. In the opinion of the Deputy Commissioner the sale of these surplus pigs at the present market price will realize between six and seven hundred dollars.

I accordingly recommend adoption by your Honorable Body of the accompanying order for the sale of the said pigs at public or private sale to the highest bidder.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Penal Institutions Department,
October 13, 1939.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—We have on hand at the present time at the House of Correction, Deer Island, about one hundred (100) pigs which are ready for market. These pigs will weigh approximately one hundred (100) pounds each, a total of approximately ten thousand (10,000) pounds.

In my opinion, at the present market price, this department should receive between $600 and $700 from the sale of these pigs.

Your Honor's approval to dispose of these pigs at public or private sale, together with the approval of the City Council, is respectfully requested.

Respectfully,

JOHN J. SHIELDS,
Deputy Commissioner.

Ordered, That the Penal Institutions Commissioner be authorized to sell at public or private sale, to the highest bidder, the surplus stock of pigs at the House of Correction, Deer Island, amounting to approximately 10,000 pounds.

Referred to Executive Committee.

SALE OF OLD MATERIALS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, October 19, 1939.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works requesting permission for the sale of junk accumulated in the demolition of the buildings in West Roxbury, formerly known as the Veterans' Hospital.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
October 14, 1939.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—Under the sponsorship of the Public Works Department, a project is now in operation for the demolition of the buildings located in West Roxbury adjacent to Spring street and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Parkway, formerly known as the Veterans' Hospital.

It is contemplated using the salvaged materials, where possible, on W. P. A. projects sponsored by any agency or department of the city. By utilizing these salvaged materials for such purposes, a saving in the amount of the normal market value of such materials will accrue to the city.

We have, however, a large amount of materials that are of junk value only or cannot be used to advantage by the City of Boston for any purpose in the future. These materials include four horizontal steam boilers, an electric generating engine, and two hot water heating tanks. I feel that it would be to the best interests of the city to dispose of such materials by one or more public auctions. I anticipate that the revenue derived from the sale of these materials will be in excess of $500.

I respectfully recommend that an order be introduced in the City Council authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works to dispose of, at one or more public auctions, all materials resulting from the demolition of the buildings at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hospital, West Roxbury, that are of junk value only or cannot be utilized to advantage by any agency or department of the city.

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be, and hereby is, authorized to sell, at public auction, the materials accumulated in the demolition of the building in West Roxbury, formerly used as a Veterans Hospital, which, in his opinion, have only a junk value or which cannot be used by the city to advantage for any purpose in the future.

Referred to Executive Committee.

Respectfully,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 16, 1939.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of September 18, 1939, concerning the making of a sidewalk along both sides of Van Winkle street, between Carruth and Bushnell streets, under the W. P. A. type of construction.

Respectfully,

Dear Mr. Doyle,—I return herewith order in City Council that the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Van Winkle street, between Carruth and Bushnell streets, under the W. P. A. type of construction.

A canvass of this street has been made and the abutments have signified their intention to pay their proportionate share of the cost of this work and, when the necessary lien order is approved in City Council to have artificial stone sidewalks installed, we will submit this work on a W. P. A. project for approval.

HOURS OF TOLLMEN AND GATEMEN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 23, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of October 2, 1939, concerning the tollmen and gatemen employed in the Ferry Division working forty-four hours instead of the present forty-eight-hour week.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
October 19, 1939.

Mr. William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—I am in receipt of a copy of the following order that was passed in the Council on October 2:

"Ordered, That the Public Works Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to have the tollmen and gatemen employed in the Ferry Division work forty-four hours instead of the present forty-eight-hour week."

While I am interested in seeing that the working conditions are improved in all branches of this department, I am, nevertheless, of the opinion that there are other groups of employees in this department who are working under more adverse conditions than are the tollmen-gatemen in the Ferry Service, and, because of this should be given priority when consideration is being given to reducing the number of hours per week that the employees in this department are required to work.

In the Summer Tunnel Service, the tollmen-guards are required to work seven days a week as are the first assistant drawtenders and the drawtenders in the Bridge Service. It is my opinion that arrangements should be made to allow the tollmen-guards in the tunnel and the bridge tenders in the Bridge Service to work a six-day week before any consideration should be given to reducing the present work week of the tollmen and gatemen in the Ferry Service from forty-eight hours to forty-four hours.

I respectfully recommend that this order be discontinued.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

ELEVATED FARES.

Coun. SULLIVAN offered the following: Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston Elevated be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to rescind its recent action whereby the nickel fares on several lines throughout the city would be shortened or suspended.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

FIVE-CENT FARE ZONES.

Coun. SULLIVAN offered the following: Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be instructed, through his Honor the Mayor, to call upon the Department of Public Utilities to hold a public hearing relative to the proposal of the Boston Elevated Trustees to abolish and curtail the five-cent fare zones in various sections of the El system.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Mr. President, the citizens of this metropolitan area have recently been enraged by the action taken by the trustees of the Boston Elevated road to curtail and abolish a large number of five-cent fare zones in various sections of the Elevated system, thereby imposing an additional burden upon many of the residents along local lines. This is a distinct breach of trust on the part of the trustees toward the people of the metropolitan area generally. The people in the different communities had been given to understand that the five-cent fare zone in their communities were to be permanent, and, of course, they were all surprised to pick up the paper recently and find that on seventy-one local lines the five-cent fares are to be rescinded. And it was done without any proper notice to the people of the district. These lines run between points where people particularly wish to travel, and the result of abolishing those five-cent fares will be to probably ruin many small business men, while at the same time placing a burden upon and seriously injuring the riding public. I think the Elevated trustees might well take into consideration the interests not only of the people of Brighton but of other sections in this matter. The Boston taxpayers and those in the metropolitan area generally are quite sufficiently burdened financially at the present time, with things as they are, and certainly if it is now proposed to place this extra burden upon them more serious consideration should be given to the matter and the people should be given a proper opportunity to be heard. I think it is absolutely a shame and a disgrace for the trustees to put such a shame into effect. They should amend their tactics at once, and I believe if they do not do so there will be serious results to them. They still have a chance to show that they are endeavoring to keep faith with the people of the area, and if they are to do so they should certainly give the people a proper hearing.

Coun. ROSENBERG—Mr. President, I heartily agree with the remarks of the gentleman from Brighton, as I myself have a similar order that I was intending to present this afternoon. I have just sent a second communication to the Board of Public Utilities calling upon them to hold up the trustees of the Elevated from putting this plan into effect, certainly until proper time can be given for consideration and a hearing on the question. This plan will certainly seriously inconvenience and injure people now traveling in the local five-cent zone areas. For example, if you get on a Blue Hill avenue car and want to travel to some of the churches, synagogues or Y. M. H. A's, you will now be stopped half-way and will have to pay another five-cent fare. This program that has been promulgated or contemplated practically proposes to put into effect a ten-cent fare throughout the City of Boston. It is unfair to the citizens and to all of the car riders throughout the metropolitan area. The trustees knew, of course, when they inaugurated the five-cent fares, that travel would increase enormously along the way, and that it would mean a great deal to the local riders. To take away that five-cent riding at the present time will mean a great hardship to our people. Certainly, when in other cities five and seven cent fares are given to the people, the trustees of the Elevated should realize the demand of the times in this respect and should not, without very serious consideration and giving the people a chance to be heard, increase the fares. I think that is a question that the trustees,—particularly when the guaranteed dividends to the stockholders are taken into consideration and when the taxpayers of the different communities are required to meet the deficits of the road,—should consider very seriously. The citizens of Boston, the car riders, are not only paying these fares, but are contributing toward the deficit. For all these reasons, I don't think it is fair at this time to increase the fares in these local five-cent areas. The people have not yet reached an area of prosperity, and they are now paying out all they can stand. I certainly hope that the trustees will give heed to the wishes of the Mayor and the Boston City Council and will see to it that this proposed revision is not put into effect without very serious consideration. I trust also that the members of the Board of Public Utilities will remember that they owe an obligation, not only to the citizens of Boston but to the honorable citizenry of the Commonwealth, and will not allow such a move to be put into effect without the opportunity for a public hearing where the representatives of the different communities can be heard. The Board of Public Utilities should be very careful in its action. Already there is a cry going up that that Board should be elected by the citizens of the Commonwealth, and not appointed by the Governor, so that they may feel more strongly their responsibility to the citizens. I trust, therefore, that the order will be passed this afternoon and that the Board of Public Utilities will restrain the Elevated from putting into effect this proposed new zoning system. I feel strongly that that will be the result of public hearings at which not only the Elevated trustees but the public at large and their representatives may be given an opportunity to be heard and express their feeling in the matter.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President. I have also prepared an order requesting the members of the City Council to go on record against the proposed curtailment of the five-cent fare service. Some time ago I introduced a resolve in this Body requesting the Council to indorse the Finance Commission's proposal to investigate the Boston Elevated Company. But somehow that order has been lost or laid on the table. I now insist, especially in view of the fact that the Boston Elevated Railway Company seems to be unable to properly carry on the work it is supposed to do, that something should be done with that original order requiring investigation of the management of the road. When a concern pays $30,000 to one man and also pays other large salaries, it is about time to determine why the people of Boston should be the ones who are principally called upon to meet this guaranty when it should be spread over a larger territory, if not over the entire state. It seems to me the salaries being paid are a good deal too large, and that the guarantee of the dividends is a distinctly unjust burden. I cannot understand why such a burden was ever imposed upon our citizens in the first place. The taxpayers of Boston are paying large sums of money year in and year out to meet the deficits of the Elevated, resulting from paying these guaranteed dividends to the stockholders and paying these large salaries. I also introduced an order some time ago looking to the Boston Elevated road being put under public ownership, and I think that is a matter that should be brought before and seriously considered by the Legislature. It is about time that the people of this city should not be expected to pay the freight to any such extent, allowing the stockholders of the Elevated to receive these large guaranteed dividends, and to suffer the burden of these large salaries. They cannot afford to carry such a burden.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, the Board of Public Trustees, which promulgated this order, are not appointed by the stockholders but are appointed from time to time by the Governor. They are bound by the law under which Public Control was established. It is not for them to question the payment of dividends. They are simply acting under the law, and the law requires that these dividends be paid. They have to pay them. They have to comply with the law. If they fail to pay them, they will be breaking the law. They are also required under the law to fix fares which shall meet the cost of service. Last year the deficit was about $2,800,000. This year it will be somewhat smaller, perhaps $2,000,000. The City of Boston pays about two thirds of that deficit, and it is an addition to the tax rate. It is the duty of the trustees to cut down the deficit as much as possible. The five-cent fare areas have grown more or less like Topsy since they started establishing them some years ago. In fact, they have covered in some cases routes that are not local at all, such as Watertown to Kenmore square, which is now cut out. Obviously, such routes as that are one of the causes for the deficit we have, and it is the duty of the trustees to do as much as possible to wipe out that deficit. The trustees are simply acting under the law and facing the facts.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, I can see no logic or reason which should actuate the trustees of the Boston Elevated in permitting a five-cent fare from Arlington Heights to practically every other part of the road and require a ten-cent fare from Roxbury Crossing to Berkeley street and Tremont. Where is the logic in that? There is absolutely none at all. If you go into a store you can buy half a pound of sugar and pay 50 per cent of what you would pay for a pound. Why not apply the same principle in this case? Surely we are interested in trying to reduce the Elevated deficit. Surely it has a marked effect on our tax rate. Why, therefore, should not some sense be applied to the establishing of these fares in different parts of the system? Why should it cost ten cents to ride from Roxbury Crossing to Berkeley street and cost only ten cents to ride from Arlington Heights to Park street? Why not have a proper zoning of fares on the Elevated for the different distances that people ride? That is the logical way to tackle this problem. Certainly the citizens of Boston have reason to be more than alarmed by this plan that the trustees are attempting to carry out.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, I have an order here similar to the one introduced by Councilor Sullivan. I certainly agree with what he stated and what has been added by the other speakers. I, too, feel with Councilor Taylor that there should be an investigation of the Boston Elevated, an investigation that should be conducted with the greatest possible haste. It is about time that the car riders of the Boston Elevated and the taxpayers should be able to sit down together with the trustees and with the Department of Public Utilities and see what this is all about. So far nobody has been able to get information which should be readily available. I see that two of these five-cent trips which have been cut out are from Jamaica Plain carhouse to Roxbury Crossing via Centre street, and Roxbury Crossing to Berkeley street via Tremont street. I cannot believe that the financial troubles of the Elevated are because of these five-cent zone fares, but that they are because of other reasons. It does seem to me that this whole question might be dealt with in a much better manner by the trustees. These five-cent routes have been very convenient to people wishing to get to shopping points. The routes have been well patronized and, I believe, have carried themselves financially. But I believe personally there is no justification, in line with what has been suggested by the councilor from Ward 4 (Coun. Chase) for making short-haul routes that have now been so seriously curtailed made to pay, for instance, for people who are brought in to Boston from Melrose, Arlington and many other suburban points. I trust, therefore, that the Board of Trustees of the Elevated will rescind their action curtailing these five-cent routes until the taxpayers have had an opportunity to obtain the facts and until we know what the amount of the deficit this year is to be.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, there is one point that I forgot to mention, bearing upon what was stated by Councilor Shattuck. He said that as a matter of law the trustees had no discretion in the matter. Well, I appreciate that fact, and I believe, as an attorney, that the citizens and towns in this particular area where the Boston Elevated operates should satisfy themselves as to the constitutionality of the act. It is not very long ago that I put in an order requesting the Mayor to initiate some action along that line. That is the only way in which we can test out the constitutionality of that particular act. I would, therefore, ask that the Mayor refuse to pay, so that the question might be tried out as to why the people of this area should bear this particular burden when, as a matter of fact, it should be borne by citizens throughout the state.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, I think if Councilor Carey will read the annual reports of the trustees, he will see what the receipts and expenditures of the road are and why there is a deficit. Those reports are very complete in detail. So far as the law and the constitutionality of the law are concerned, to which reference has been made by Councilor Taylor, I believe the question has been before the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the act. It has been argued in the court and the act has been found constitutional. I know it has been before the court at least once.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, I might say, for the councilor's information, that I have at various times read the reports of the Boston Elevated. But there has been a demand for years for a public accounting, a public auditing of those books. Sometimes figures may mean something, but often they don't mean anything. So for years a cry has been made for information, that the taxpayers have a chance to examine those books, and that is what I had in mind in my remarks.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

REOPENING OF EAST BOSTON RELIEF STATION.

Coun. SULLIVAN offered the following:

Whereas, By the reopening of the East Boston Relief Station his Honor the Mayor has manifested splendid sincerity of purpose and intensive interest in the people of this major sector of the city, and

Whereas, The vigorous and intensive efforts of City Councilor Francis W. Irwin have contributed greatly to the accomplishment of this worthwhile cause, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the City Council congratulate his Honor the Mayor and City Councilor Irwin upon the action taken in this matter.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

REINSTATEMENT OF FORMER EMPLOYEES, EAST BOSTON RELIEF STATION.

President MURRAY, for Coun. Irwin, offered the following:

Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston City Hospital be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to reinstate all former employees of the East Boston Relief Station in their old positions when said Relief Station reopens.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

ACCEPTANCE OF COLUMBIA PARK, WARD 14.

Coun. ROSENBERG offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out as a public highway Columbia park, Ward 14.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

CHANGE OF FIVE-CENT FARE ZONES.

Coun. ROSENBERG offered the following:

Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to reconsider its recent action changing the local five-cent fare zones.

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to call upon the Board of Public Utilities to hold a public hearing on the proposed reduction of the five-cent fare zones.

Severally passed under suspension of the rule.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

Coun. SHATTUCK, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following:

1. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred October 9) for loan of $1,300,000 to be expended for Public Welfare and Soldiers' Relief departments—that same ought to pass.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, this is a report of a majority of the committee, all of the members of the committee except myself having voted for the order. I dissented from the report, and I will state briefly the reasons for my dissent. I do not criticize the amount stated in the order. It appears to be necessary to complete the payment for the year of Dependent Aid, Old Age Assistance and Mothers' Aid. As far as I know, the work of that department is administered efficiently. I am sure that Mr. O'Hare is doing the best he can. I dissent because I believe the expense should be financed in another way. I am opposed to so much borrowing annually for these regularly recurrent relief items. Including this borrowing, the totals this year for relief loan and bond issues will be $4,900,000. We are retiring this year $2,064,000. On December 31 last year the relief loans outstanding amounted to $17,106,000. If the bonds under this loan are issued this year, as I assume they will be, and also the bonds of the recent $150,000 loan authorized, the relief debt of the city on December 31 of this year will be $19,942,000. In other words, our relief debt will have increased by about $2,800,000 in one year. At the start of the borrowing for relief, in 1933, we thought we were meeting a temporary situation. We now know that the situation we are meeting is not temporary. We know that the expense of Mothers' Aid and Old Age Assistance is more likely to go up than to go down. We know that, while Dependent Aid fluctuates considerably according to the volume of employment, the Dependent Aid loan will always be high, and may be still higher than it is if the Federal Government should still further curtail its W. P. A. program. So we should plan for something that will happen every year, and should pay for it each year as we go along. We haven't gained anything except temporarily by this borrowing for current expenses. If we had not borrowed anything for current expenses our tax rate would be about the same as it is now. Assuming that we pay this year for everything we expend, instead of borrowing several million dollars, we could pay all our bills this year out of tax levy and still not seriously increase the tax rate. In order to hold down our tax rate we are borrowing this amount of money, but we have accumulated in the last few years considerable debt charges for current expenses. Were it not for these debt charges we would be better off. In a few years our debt charges will be equivalent to the amount of borrowing. Our debt this year will amount to about $135,000,000; last year it was $132,000,000, and the year before $131,000,000. But the point is that we are not getting ahead. We did decrease the tax rate this year by $1.40. I believe it would have been better to have decreased the tax rate somewhat less and to have borrowed correspondingly less. I believe in the long run we would be better off and would not be facing the recurring problem that we will now have to face each year, year in and year out. Those are my reasons for dissenting from this report.

Coun. SHATTUCK submitted the following table:

Relief Bonds, 1933-1939.

	Issued.	Retired.	Outstanding. (Dec. 31.)

The report was accepted, and the order was passed, yeas 19, nays 1:

Yeas—Coun. Carey, Chase, Englert, Fitzgerald, Galvin, Harris, Hutchinson, Irwin, Kelly, Kerigan, Langan, Lyons, McMahon, Murray, Norton, Rosenberg, Sullivan, Taylor, Wilson—19.

Nay—Coun. Shattuck—1.

Later in the session Coun. CHASE said:

Mr. President, I would ask unanimous consent to make a statement. I would like to go on record as stating my reasons for voting favorably on the loan order. I believe it is in the interest of the poor people of Boston that this money be appropriated. I, like other members of the body, dislike the policy of borrowing money to pay current expenses, but under the circumstances it seems to me that we have no alternative. We have to pass the order or else the poor of Boston will be unable to live as they should.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RULES.

Coun. FITZGERALD, for the Committee on Rules, submitted the following:

1. Report on order (referred October 9) that Licensing Board should not allow liquor licenses in future cases to locate within near vicinity of churches—that same ought to pass.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I think I should make an explanation of the action taken by the committee on the resolve referred to, filed by Councilor Chase and referred to the Committee on Rules on October 9. There has certainly been a misunderstanding of the issue, as is shown by what has been stated in the papers and as set forth by the debate in the Council minutes. The newspapers give the impression that the Council as a whole was in favor of having liquor licenses at the doors of churches. After the discussion here the matter was referred to the Committee on Rules, which held a meeting, attended by the members of the Licensing Board. I don't think any member of the Body would favor granting a liquor license at the door or near the door of a church. I believe myself that the A. B. C. Board has been very lax and has let down the public in this and other matters. I am also satisfied that a bold, brazen attempt is being made by the liquor interests of this city to have licenses granted not only in the vicinity of churches, but near residences, and that if we do not look out we will have a worse situation than prevailed in Boston in the past, when those engaged in the business were so bold and brazen that they wanted to control the politics of the city. Unless that sort of thing is curbed now something is going to happen, and the result may very well be a law that will act to the detriment of those interests and place them in a worse position than they have been before. I for one would never vote to put a license next to the doors of a church.

Coun. LANGAN—Mr. President, I would like to ask the councilor a question. What constitutes the "near vicinity" of a church?

Coun. FITZGERALD—We simply voted as the order before us read. Nothing in that respect was specified. The old law prevented a saloon from operating within 500 feet of a church.

Coun. LANGAN—But didn't the committee find out what was meant by the language, what constituted the "near vicinity of a church"?

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, perhaps the gentleman who introduced the order can answer that question better than I can.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, the Licensing Board today has a right to grant a license within two feet or within six inches of a church. There is no restriction on their licensing power. Their power is entirely discretionary. What the order aims at is keep at a distance that any reasonable prudent man would consider proper in the exercise of sound discretion. That is what I had in mind in using the term that I did use in the resolution. Of course, circumstances would differ in different places.

Coun. LANGAN—Mr. President, I am again confused, and still continue confused as to whether it means 75 feet or 25 feet. Of course, I think we all realize that a proper distance in some cases might be 500 feet, in a particular district, and in another 200 feet or less.

Coun. CHASE—Well, of course, you realize that every liquor location would have certain individual surrounding circumstances and it is up to the discretion of the Board in granting the license to use reasonable judgment as to what constitutes a near vicinity. I might say that there is pending in the Licensing Board a proposed transfer of license from a liquor store in Charlestown to a point directly opposite Trinity Church, less than 50 feet from the church. I question whether members of this Board would consider that a proper distance, bearing in mind the surroundings, so far as Trinity Church is concerned. I might also call to your attention the fact that not so long ago a license was granted in South Boston in the near vicinity of a church, as I understand it, within two doors. Of course, as I say the circumstances in each case may differ. But what we are asking is that the Licensing Board use proper discretionary power in deciding what is near proximity, as reasonably prudent men.

The order was passed.

PLEBISCITE ON FEDERAL HOUSING IN BOSTON.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be urged to consider further the request made by the City Council in orders passed on June 5 and September 18, 1939, that a plebiscite or referendum be provided at the coming city election which will permit the voters of Boston to express approval or disapproval of further extension of Federal low-rent housing in Boston.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, speaking very briefly on this order, it is simply in line with an order passed unanimously by the Council last spring, and I would now seriously urge the Mayor's reconsideration of the request made of him by the City Council that a plebiscite or referendum be provided at the coming City Election which will permit the voters of Boston to express approval or disapproval of further extension of Federal low-rent housing in Boston. I am aware of the fact that a similar vote was passed by the Cambridge City Council in October, to this effect: "Ordered, That the following question shall be submitted to a vote of the registered voters of the City of Cambridge at the election to be held in the city of Cambridge on November 7, 1939:

"Shall the city of Cambridge agree to allow new federal housing projects to be constructed in the city of Cambridge?" That was adopted by an affirmative vote of twelve members of the Council of the city of Cambridge on October 3 and approved by the Mayor the next day. I am not sure whether the election department of the city of Cambridge will place the question on the ballot, although I am inclined to believe that they will. Obviously, there is a distinction between a state-wide referendum and a referendum of this kind placed on the ballot at a city election. I frankly concede the argument that the result of such a referendum on election day, on a matter of this kind, would not be binding as a matter of law, but it would allow the people to express their wishes on this very important question now confronting us. It would not be binding, of course, on the Housing Authority or on the Mayor but we would be able to get the opinion of our citizens on a very important controversial question. We have had the opinion of the people on the dog track question in certain sections of this city, and it seems to me much more important that we should have the opinion of the people of the entire city on such a controversial question as that of Federal housing. I can see no legal impediments or logical reason against allowing the people of Boston to express their thoughts on such an important matter as that of low-cost housing projects in the City of Boston. I hesitate to think that there are those in our city who are afraid to record the sentiment of our people on such a matter or to allow them to express their wishes. I hate to think that the reason why such a question cannot be on the ballot on November 7 is because the Housing Authority does not wish to know the sentiments of the people of this city on a project that may involve the expenditure of $119,000,000. So I again urge the passage of this order, and urge the Mayor to reconsider his decision on the question, so that the citizens and taxpayers of Boston may have an opportunity to express their wishes and their feelings on such an important matter, more important than any problem that is apt to come before us in the future. I certainly trust that this question may be placed on the ballot on election day, so that we may at least know the feeling of our citizens in regard to it.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

COMMISSIONS PAID BY BOSTON HOUSING AUTHORITY.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council whether a two per cent commission is being paid to authorized persons obtaining signed options on parcels of real estate incident to plans for the contemplated new housing projects; and further Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council the names of such persons authorized and the amount of commission paid in each case to date.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, of course some day when a certain group perhaps does not have everything within its control, the facts and figures in reference to public housing in Boston will be disclosed to the public, and I certainly can see no reason why such facts and figures, in a matter which so intimately concerns our citizens, should not be made now a matter of public record. Certainly there can be no reason, when takings by eminent domain in a matter of this kind are proposed and are being carried out, why the citizens of Boston should not be made aware of all the facts and figures involved, unless there is some reason for keeping the facts and figures back. The item referred to in this particular order is perhaps a minor one. This order merely requests the Boston Housing Authority, through the Mayor, to advise the Council whether a 2 per cent commission is being paid to authorized persons obtaining signed options on parcels of real estate in connection with the contemplated new housing projects, and to give the names of such persons as are authorized and the amount of commission paid in each case. The ordinary way in regard to other public services is to lay the cards on the table, but, as I understand it, a number of brokers have been going around investigating properties and neighborhoods, going out to Roxbury, South Boston and so on, meeting men in the district and investigating conditions in regard to property, and asking people to sign on the dotted line, and when they found that property was worth, we will say, $3,500, getting the owner to sign for $2,500 or $2,000, getting, we will say, a $50 fee for just a few minutes' work. I think it is well to get the facts in this matter. That is the purpose of this order, and I am going next week to ask for the passage of an order that I introduced some weeks ago asking information concerning parcels in these different sections, giving us the assessed value of the different parcels and the ownership. I am going to press for this information. It may not be given to me as a member of the Council. If it is not, and if these are facts and figures that will not stand the light of day, I now make the public prophecy that the day will come when the Housing Authority of the City of Boston will disclose ever figure and every bit of information that they have in their possession. It may be that I am now the subject of a little horseplay and they may think that they are giving the laugh to Councilor Wilson of Dorchester; but the day will come when the taxpayer of Boston is going to be able to look at these figures and facts, when they are going to be placed before the public, and when the Boston Housing Authority is going to present those figures and facts. I ask them to do so now, because some day they will have to do so.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, as a friend of the Housing Authority and as a believer in the work that the Authority is doing, I feel satisfied that if any citizen of Boston wants the facts he can go to the Authority and get them. That is the easiest way of arriving at information desired. I can see no reason why they should not be given. Let the sunlight of day in on all activities of the Boston Housing Authority.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

DISCIPLINARY MEASURES AT CITY HOSPITAL.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston City Hospital be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council what disciplinary and corrective measures, if any, have been taken at the City Hospital with reference to certain employees and doctors acting in collusion with so-called "ambulance chasing" attorneys.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I see in the papers recently that apparently some steps are being taken to iron out at least one angle of a situation that concerns not only the citizens of Boston generally and the members of the legal and medical fraternities, but the Boston City Hospital as an institution. I believe one angle, the legal one, has been dealt with somewhat, in an endeavor to clean up the practice of law in the City of Boston in this respect, and that is as it should be. The thing that is bothering me now is, what is being done to clear up the other angle? I realize, of course, from the newspaper standpoint, the amount of hysteria that is aroused for some reason with every unfavorable criticism of some of the things that happen in connection with the hospital, and I have read editorials in Boston papers sharply criticizing me, sometimes by name, for uttering as a city official one word of criticism of the administration of the hospital. There was, for instance, this editorial comment in regard to a criticism made by me: "Lest some folks fear that the threat of ambulance-chasing lawyers is again rearing its ugly head at the Boston City Hospital, it is well that they be reassured. There is no cause for alarm. Since last spring, when Dr. James W. Manary, superintendent, and his staff clamped down on these unwelcome encroachers, it was believed that the latter would cease their sordid activities. That one might slip in by subterfuge once in awhile was shown recently," and so on. And then it goes on to show, or endeavor to show, that, after all, this matter is really of no great importance. Let me say for the record that 90 per cent of the lawyers of Boston, certainly 90 per cent of those familiar with City Hospital activities, know that it is not a question of some individual ambulance case slipping in to the Boston City Hospital once in awhile by subterfuge. It was a matter of sufficient importance for the Finance Commission to make an investigation, and although the report of the Finance Commission, as a result of the investigation, was somewhat like the side-wise movement of a familiar shelled creature of the beach, it was obvious that there was a little more fire than was expected. I think the public is entitled to the facts, and I think the taxpayers of Boston are entitled to have the situation cleared up; also, that the great majority of doctors at the Boston City Hospital, who are not involved, are entitled to have the situation straightened out. I am not going to weary you, Mr. President, or the members of the City Council, with any long oration, but I would like to cite only a few facts, not for the purpose of a post-mortem, but to point out certain angles in the ambulance-chasing situation, showing possible collusion. On December 27, 1938, a man was taken to the City Hospital. On the 8th of January his only living relative, so far as I know, a sister, contacted me and asked me to go in and see him, in view of the fact that he was seriously injured, had developed pneumonia, and was being visited daily by some man who came in at six or six thirty every single day, whose name was not even known to her brother, who brought in delicacies and paid the patient all sorts of unexpected attention. She asked me to go to see him, and I did on Sunday night. I asked for Doctor Manary, but he was not there, and I explained to the man in charge that I wanted to see the patient. So I went up. I will not go into the long story, except to say that there was this man who called every afternoon, whose name he did not know, a total stranger to him, who was paying him this attention. On January 9, I forwarded to the patient the usual form of written authority, for his signature, and upon obtaining that I forwarded to the hospital the authorization of the patient, requesting that there be sent to me his complete hospital record, stating that I would forward check. I sent that to Doctor Manary's office on Thursday, January 12, with the written authority, stating that I wished the record of the patient in Surgical No. 7, and that when I was so advised I would forward check in proper amount. I waited some time and then wrote again, on January 23, inquiring as to the reason for delay in forwarding to me the medical report in the case of the patient in Surgical 7, stating that I had sent the authorization and letter on the 12th of January, and that I had received no reply. Under date of January 24, I received a letter, with a partial copy of the hospital record in the case, with bill, and stating that the remainder of the record would be forwarded to me when completed, but that the patient was "still confined to the ward." The letter, which was dated January 24, was postmarked January 28, and I received it on January 30. On January 30 I answered the same, inclosing check for partial record, down to and including January 21, and stating that I understood that the remainder of the record would be forwarded to me when completed. In my letter I stated that I was unable to understand why the letter and bill dated January 24 failed to reach me until the morning of the 30th, or why the envelope should be postmarked Saturday, January 28, although the letter and bill were dated as of the previous Tuesday. But I learned later that the patient, whom I was told was still confined to the ward, was discharged from the hospital on or about January 24, or January 23. So I wrote Doctor Manary on February 16, stating:

"On January 12 I forwarded to the Boston City Hospital an authorization of 'X,' then a patient in surgical No. 7, to forward me his completed hospital record. After some delay the hospital record was forwarded me with your statement in the sum of $67.71. The hospital record was forwarded to me with letter dated January 24, which letter stated that the patient was 'still confined to the ward.' You also advised me that the remainder of the record would be forwarded to me when completed.

"There are elements concerning this case that are beginning to give me considerable bother. I think it will make it a lot easier for all of us if my requests for information are promptly complied with. I understand that the patient was discharged from the hospital on or about January 24. Kindly advise me the date of his discharge and forward the promised remainder of his record, also any advices you may have as to the convalescent hospital to which I assume he was sent. I would appreciate your response during the current week without fail. Very truly yours."

To that letter I received no reply, so I wrote Dr. Manary again on February 23, as follows:

"Dear Dr. Manary: At your convenience I would appreciate an explanation concerning the hospital record of the patient in Surgical 924.497. In accordance with my request I received a letter from your office dated January 24, inclosing a partial copy to date of the hospital record in the case of 'X,' who is still confined to the ward. Under date of February 17, I am now in receipt of a complete copy of the hospital record, which shows that 'X' was actually discharged from the Boston City Hospital on January 23, twenty-four hours before the letter of January 24 in which I was advised that he was 'still confined to the ward.'"

The point I am trying to make in reference to this matter is this. This patient was sent to the hospital on December 27, 1938. His sister told of an unknown man visiting him there at the hospital every day at about six. On January 8, 1939, I visited him at request of his sister, who wanted me to act as an attorney in the matter. I found him in Surgical 7, and I certainly could not understand why this man had been visiting him if some doctor at the City Hospital had not sent him. That is a matter that requires explanation. In the second place, I have received no explanation of why the hospital failed to send to me the record of that man; also I cannot understand why a letter to me which was dated January 24 was not postmarked until January 28, and why I did not receive it until January 30, or why the letter dated January 24 should say that he was still confined in the ward and that the remainder of the record would be forwarded to me when completed, although he was discharged from the hospital, as I understand, the previous day. In my own mind, I think I know the reason. It was to give some other party an opportunity to date back a writ and start suit. There was evidently some collusion with somebody in the City Hospital. Now, the public is entitled to the facts. Let us know what they are. I would like to ask these questions. Is it a fact that a private detective agency made an investigation of this condition at the hospital? Was that private agency paid by the hospital or by Mr. Manning personally in his desire to get to the bottom of the matter? Isn't it a fact that the findings were so confidential that they were reported to Mr. Manning personally? Isn't it a fact that on the day last year when the Holy Cross-Boston College football game was held, there was a conference at the home of Mr. Manning, at which Superintendent Manary and representatives of a private detective agency were present? Is it a fact that Mr. Manning's disgust on hearing of the existence of certain conditions was one of the chief causes for his regrettable resignation as a trustee? Why were these conditions then kept so secret by the hospital authorities? What was done about it? I have one additional thought. It has been brought to my attention that when certain City Hospital doctors appear as experts in the trial of accident cases there is included in their bill a charge for "retainer $250." Retainer for what? So I urge the passage of the order I have offered for the reasons I have stated. First, I believe that the Council and the City of Boston are entitled to the information; second, it should be obtained in fairness to the hospital and to the great majority of doctors and employees of the City Hospital, who have been on the level and who are entitled to a disclosure of the facts, in simple justice to them. Since the legal end of the controversy is being ironed out, I call on the trustees to iron out the hospital end, not for purposes of punishment but to prevent a repetition of the sort of thing that has been going on as soon as the present excitement has died down.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

OPPOSITION TO CURTAILMENT OF FIVE-CENT FARES.

Coun. TAYLOR offered the following:

Resolved, That the Boston City Council hereby places itself on record as opposed to the recent ruling of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company curtailing the five-cent fare.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

INTEREST CHARGE TO TAXPAYERS.

Couns. TAYLOR and FISH offered the following:

Ordered, That the City Collector be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to rescind his decision to charge all taxpayers who do not make payments on or before November 1st interest on their bills retroactive to October 1st.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I read in one of the Boston newspapers that the City Collector, in the event that people do not pay their taxes on November 1, is going to charge them interest retroactive to October 1. I am at a loss to understand why the City Collector insists on imposing such a hardship on the taxpayers. In ordinary business houses, where a bill is sent out, the concern sending it out expects payment in thirty, sixty or ninety days. The City of Boston, I understand, has always adopted the same procedure—that is, sending bills out early in the summer and expecting to collect October 1st. But this year the bills were not sent out until October 1st and the taxpayers are expected to pay by November 1 or pay interest retroactive to October 1. Our City Collector is putting in new rules of his own, and the rule now is that if you do not pay your tax bill by November 1 you pay back interest to October 1. I cannot understand the attitude of the City Collector. As soon as he assumed office there were more homes lost by their owners than in any first-year period of a Collector in office. Not only that, but the City Collector now intends to place this greater burden and hardship on the taxpayers. If he wanted to charge interest from October 1, why didn't he send out the bills earlier? We are told that that is so because the state did not give notice to cities and towns earlier, and that he was unable to do so. That may be true, but it is no reason why he should charge interest back to October 1 where the bill is not paid by November 1. It is about time that the poor taxpayer should receive some consideration from our City Collector.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, it would seem that the councilor wants to change the law. The City Collector is carrying out the rule of the office for years. Bills are payable October 1, and have been, and the taxpayer has thirty days' grace. If they are not paid until after November 1, interest is charged from the day when they are due. It is a long existing law that the Collector is carrying out, and why should he be blamed for carrying out the law?

Coun. TAYLOR—I would say in answer that bills have always been supposed to be paid October 1, the bill being sent out at an earlier date, and if they were not paid the interest was then charged from that day on. But under this new ruling if they are not paid by November 1 the taxpayers are charged interest from October 1 to November 1, although they may not have received the bill until November 1. I don't see why they should be charged interest in that case from October 1.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, I think if the councilor looks at his tax bill he will see that it is payable October 1, but if you pay by November 1st you don't pay interest. If you pay it after November 1 the interest is dated back to October 1. That, I understand, has been the law for years. The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

"ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS" WEEK.

Coun. TAYLOR offered the following:

Whereas, Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer prize play of 1939, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," is at once a penetrating study of a great man, a sincere patriot, and a significant commentary on the American democratic spirit; and

Whereas, The distinguished star, Mr. Raymond Massey's magnificent and impressive interpretation of the Great Emancipator causes one of the most beloved of national heroes to live again; and

Whereas, The author, in his play, depicts that vital period in our history which he aptly terms "solidifying," with many of the lines the recorded words of Lincoln, the characters and the action in his drama skilfully designed as a background for the Great American; and

Whereas, The Playwrights Company's presentation of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" has been accomplished with consummate art, dignity and understanding; and

Whereas, It is generally agreed that "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" is the one play most likely to become a classic to be played again and again as a permanent living drama; and

Whereas, In these troublesome times this play, more than anything else, demonstrates, visualizes, and teaches the true spirit of American democracy and becomes a great instructor of American history and American patriotism; and

Whereas, The Playwrights Company presents Raymond Massey in Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize Play of 1939, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," at the Boston Opera House during the week starting Monday evening, October 23, and that this will be the only engagement within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; therefore, be it

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested and hereby is requested to issue a proclamation to welcome "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" to the City of Boston and to suggest to the people, in so far as it is within their means, that they avail themselves of this opportunity of witnessing this really patriotic, helpful, instructive and interesting play; be it further

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be also requested to designate the period from Monday, October 23, to Saturday, October 28, as "Abe Lincoln in Illinois Week" in the City of Boston and to ask our citizens, without interference with their private and commercial pursuits, to benefit themselves by the powerful lesson in Americanism which is graphically, impressively, and entertainingly taught in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

EDWARD J. WHITE SQUARE.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY CASES.

Coun. NORTON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Mayor of Boston consider the advisability of conferring with the school and police authorities relative to the matter of seeking legislation so that the question of prosecution in juvenile delinquency cases in Boston may be handled by a committee made up of educators, police officials, clergymen, child experts and others.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, I am asking in this order that the Mayor of Boston consider the advisability of such a conference with the school and police authorities relative to the matter of seeking legislation so that the question of prosecution for juvenile delinquency cases in Boston may be handled by a committee made up of educators, police officials, clergymen, child experts and others. Here, in a nutshell, are the facts. As I understand it, every year in this city a large number of youngsters, say of eighteen years of age or under, are arrested and are branded as criminals for life. I talked with one of the professors in Harvard, who studies such questions, and he has sent me certain data. I find that in other cities juvenile cases go to a hospital. If, for example, a youngster is picked up by a policeman and put in a patrol wagon, he is taken to a local hospital until this commission has had a chance to look into the case, and in nine out of ten cases the commission does not favor criminal action. In other words, when I think of the things I did as a youngster in Hyde Park, for which I could have been locked up as a juvenile delinquent, I am very sorry for the youngsters out there at the present day. I know that you are just as much interested in this matter as I am, and will pass the order. Let us see if this is not feasible. This is done in other places and should be tried out here, and it will certainly prevent a large number of our youngsters being arrested and branded for life as juvenile delinquents.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

LIGHTING AND POLICING, GROVE HALL DISTRICT.

Coun. ROSENBERG offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to make an immediate inspection of the lighting facilities in the Grove Hall district, with the view of installing additional street lights at strategic points in order to better light the streets and make them safe for public travel, and reduce the possibility of molestation and crime.

Ordered, That the Police Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to assign additional foot patrolmen to police the outlying area of the Grove Hall section of Dorchester, particularly from Quincy street and Blue Hill avenue to Columbia road and Quincy street, over Washington street to Columbia road, more particularly in night patrol of the district.

Coun. ROSENBERG—Mr. President, I have introduced the lighting order and the request for additional foot patrolmen in the Grove Hall section in view of the tremendous crime outbreaks in that immediate vicinity. I believe that a great deal of the crime problem is undoubtedly due to the poor lighting of side streets in the immediate vicinity. I feel also that there is need of additional patrolmen being placed on the streets, particularly at night. You have only recently read of the attack made on a young girl of nine in that neighborhood. When I call attention of the Council to the attack on this youngster,—and there are others who have been attacked,—I am in no way casting reflection on the Police Department, particularly in Station 9. I believe that Captain Duggan of Station 9 is a fine officer and is doing everything humanly possible with the limited number of men in that station. I believe additional men should be assigned to foot night duty to cover the side streets and dark alleys. Local women are afraid to send their youngsters out after nightfall in that particular location. I believe we should take action this afternoon on this matter, first referring it to executive session, as there are people who would like to have something to say on both of these orders.

The orders were referred to the Executive Committee.

CHARLES E. MACKAY SQUARE.

Coun. MURRAY and KERRIGAN offered the following:

Ordered, That the junction of Preble street and Old Colony avenue be named the Charles E. Mackay square in honor of the former School Committeeman, a lifelong resident of South Boston.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

ANSONIA ROAD, WARD 20.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out Ansonia road, Ward 20, as a public highway, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

ASSESSMENTS IN WARD 20.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Assessors be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to instruct their local assessors not to increase valuations in Ward 20 unless same is warranted.

Coun. LYONS—Mr. President, relative to this order, let me say that in my section of Ward 20, probably 80 per cent of the people own their own homes. In the past year they have had $300 to $500 tacked on to their valuations, and I have received quite a few complaints in regard to the additional assessments on various homes in the district. Homes assessed for $5,000 last year this year are assessed for $5,500, with no additions whatsoever to the property. Therefore, I would ask the Board of Assessors, through the Mayor, to instruct their assessors starting out in January to assess property at a fair valuation and not to increase the valuations unless the same is eminently warranted. We all know that much business has left the City of Boston because of high valuations.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Mr. President, I was astounded to find out that property which had been assessed at the same rate for the last four years has this year been determined by the assessors, for no apparent reason, to be more valuable than it was in the last four years. That has been the case in spite of the fact that there has been no improvement added to the property. I certainly trust that favorable action will be taken on the request in cases where assessments have been raised on various properties.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PROHIBITION OF HEAVY TRUCKING, WELD AND WALTER STREETS.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to prohibit heavy trucking on Weld and Walter streets, via Centre street, Ward 20.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALKS, WARD 20.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install sidewalks on the following streets in Ward 20, under the W. P. A. plan of construction:

Chesbrough road; Birchwood street; Baker street, from Spring to Centre streets.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

ABATEMENT OF TAXES TO WIDOWS.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to draft a bill for presentation to the Legislature providing that widows with no source of income and owning real estate in the City of Boston, without any mortgage, be given consideration in the matter of abatement of taxes on said property.

Coun. LYONS—Mr. President, I find that in my section, and I suppose it is true throughout the City of Boston, there are quite a few widows who have their estates paid up in full, without mortgage, but who are still with no source of income, and to whom the payment of taxes is a very serious problem. There are many such cases where there should be abatement of taxes. As the law reads, however, if the equity exceeds $2,000—in other words, if the estate is paid up in full—the City of Boston will give no assistance to a widow. These people of whom I speak are widows, mostly around the age of sixty, who have estates without a cent of mortgage on them, but who have really no source of income. I think the Corporation Counsel should be requested, through the Mayor, to draft a bill covering that situation. I believe that these are deserving cases for consideration.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

ACCEPTANCE OF WHITBY TERRACE, WARD 13.

Coun. HUTCHINSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out Whitby terrace, Ward 13, as a public highway, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

MEMBERSHIP IN BOSTON RETIREMENT SYSTEM.

Coun. HARRIS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Retirement Board be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to consider the advisability of obtaining legislation which will permit school teachers in the City of Boston, who failed to become members of the Boston Retirement System within the time limit, to join said system.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

RECESS.

The Council voted at 3.50 p. m., on motion of Coun. LANGAN, to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the chamber at 4.56 p. m. and were called to order by President MURRAY.

Coun. ROSENBERG—Mr. President, accompanying the orders, I have submitted to the clerk a list of 375 signatures of residents in the community who have presented their petition, stating the conditions existing at the present time, and I think that the list of petitioners should be placed on file.

The petition referred to from Rebecca Cohen and others, for various improvements in Ward 14, was placed on file.

LETTERS SUBMITTED BY COUNCILOR ROSENBERG.

Coun. ROSENBERG submitted the following:
October 16, 1939.

Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty,
Boston Police Headquarters.

Dear Commissioner,—The vicious criminal assault on a nine-year old child in my district on Sunday evening has caused a reign of terror throughout that portion of Dorchester.

It has been reported that for some time past vicious characters have been roaming the streets at night, and in at least two instances prior to the atrocious occurrence of Sunday night small girls have been molested on the streets, but have escaped because of the presence of passersby.

As spokesman for the residents of Ward 14 I urge that additional patrolmen, emergency squads and police cruising cars be sent into our district. Needless to say, I know that you will spare no effort to find the perpetrators of the vicious crime of Sunday night.

Very truly yours,
SIDNEY ROSENBERG.

City of Boston,
Police Department,
Office of the Commissioner.
October 19, 1939.

Please be advised that as a result of this last assault, additional plain-clothes officers on foot, as well as automobiles, have been assigned to patrol this particular section, with a view to apprehending the guilty parties. Every effort is being made by this department to solve this last case and you may rest assured that our efforts will continue unabated until every possible clue is run down.

Very truly yours,
EDWARD W. FALLON,
Acting Police Commissioner.

The amount of cash refunded as a result of these withdrawals was $329,343.04. BOSTON CITIZENS NOT COMPELLED TO ADMIT STUDENTS AS INVESTIGATORS THOUGH ACCOMPANIED BY HEALTH OR OTHER INSPECTORS—SUCH IS RULING HANDED DOWN FROM LAW DEPARTMENT AT REQUEST OF DOCTOR WATTS, HEALTH COMMISSIONER—WHEN OBJECTION IS RAISED, STUDENT BECOMES TRESPASSER AND MAY BE REJECTED—LAW CONFERS RIGHT ONLY ON DULY AUTHORIZED OFFICER.

By ruling of the Corporation Counsel, Henry Parkman, Jr., Boston citizens may, if they wish, prevent students from entering their homes on tours of investigation, for study purposes. The ruling was handed down from the Law Department at the request of Dr. H. F. R. Watts, Boston Health Commissioner. The ruling is expounded in the following communication:

BOSTON, October 23, 1939.

H. F. R. WATTS, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

DEAR COMMISSIONER.—I have your letter of October 11, 1939, in which you ask my opinion as to the legality of students accompanying a sanitary inspector on his official inspections of private premises.

Section 20 of chapter 382 of the Acts of 1885 provides as follows:

"Every officer of the board of health, and every officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred, shall have free access to every part of any lodging or tenement house, when required, in the proper execution of the duties of his office."

The only persons who have a right to enter premises on health matters are those to whom the right is given by the law. The law confines this right to an officer of the Board of Health and every officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred. A student is not an officer of the Board of Health nor an officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred and, therefore, the student has no right to enter the premises on health matters. The owner of the premises could forbid the student's entrance, and if the student entered without the consent of the owner, the student is a trespasser. In other words, the student has no more right to enter premises than any other private individual. I find nothing in the law relative to the Health Department which gives an inspector the right to take students along with him during official investigations.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendations of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Upon November 1 the Mayor approved a contract with the Quincy Dry Dock and Yacht Corporation for repairing machinery, etc., of ferryboat "Ralph

AS TO PROPRIETY.

You ask me further, however, as to the propriety of a student accompanying a sanitary inspector upon his official inspection of private dwellings, including lodging and tenement houses. Granting that there is no legal right of entry, may it be proper under certain circumstances, and if so, what are those circumstances? I understand from your letter that the purpose of his doing so would be to carry out the arrangement made by your department for mutual cooperation with the Harvard School of Public Health, Tufts College Medical School and Simmons College, and I assume that it is in the general interest of the development of the efficiency of your department and of the public generally to help train students of these institutions in the practical demonstration of public health activities. Thus, while there is no legal right for a student to enter a private home, there may be an indirect public interest in his doing so under proper circumstances. It is traditional in our jurisprudence that a man's privacy in his home be maintained, and this right to privacy must yield only to a greater public interest on the terms specifically expressed in the law enacted for the benefit of all, or if the person in charge of the home consents. With the specific consent of the person in charge I do feel it may be proper to permit the practice you inquire about. I would suggest, however, that great care be taken that the consent be clearly and unequivocally given, and preferably in writing. Furthermore, it should be made abundantly clear at the time consent is sought, that the occupant has the right to exclude any unauthorized person from entering on his premises. In other words, there must be no question that the consent is freely given and without suggestion of compulsion in any form.

With these general principles before you, perhaps you will be able to work out an arrangement satisfactory to all concerned.

Very truly yours,

HENRY PARKMAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

J. Palumbo" at an estimated cost of $2,660. The following bids were received October 26:

MAYOR AIDS BRIGHTON TAX-PAYERS.

From the Mayor's office the following statement was issued:

The local assessors in Brighton deprived the small property owners—400-odd—of the reduction in the tax bill, which was rightfully theirs. The tax warrant in 1938 was $64,000,000; in 1939 the tax warrant is $61,000,000, a reduction of $3,000,000, and by one, two and three hundred dollar increases in these small residential properties, they were deprived of any reduction, and in some instances, would have to pay a bill slightly higher.

I have instructed the Board of Assessors to notify each of the property owners that he has a right to an appeal on or before November 15.

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

The following notices have been sent to Brighton taxpayers:

November 2, 1939.

Dear Sir or Madam.

By order of his Honor, Maurice J. Tobin, Mayor of Boston, we are writing you with reference to the assessment on your property for 1939.

Complaints have come to our attention that a number of assessments on residences have been increased this year despite the fact that these properties have not appreciated in value either because of physical improvements or economic conditions.

As we have no intention of unjustifiably increasing assessments in the city, we respectfully suggest that we will gladly review your case if you will call at this office and file an application for an abatement on or before November 15, 1939.

Yours very truly,

JOHN P. DOHERTY,
Secretary to the Board of Assessors.

BUDGETARY CONTROL.

Prior to installing the present system of budgetary control, effective as of January 1, 1939, the city of Newark had no centralized accounting control over its budget commitments. The city's general ledger contained accounts for the various budget appropriations, and reflected disbursements out of the appropriations. However, commitments for work and material were not recorded in the city's accounts until after bills submitted by the vendors had been approved for payment by the Board of Commissioners. Consequently, financial reports could only show the amount of appropriated moneys that had not been disbursed out of any account. No recognition could be given in these reports to the unpaid purchase commitments, since the amount was not known. The American City.

MANY TYPES OF W. P. A. PROJECTS.

The Works Progress Administration has placed in operation a total of more than 300,000 projects. Except for the more pretentious types of construction, these projects have covered almost the whole field of American endeavor in meeting the primary objective of relieving unemployment. The American City.

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE; PEACE BOARDS.

Two large cities, Philadelphia and Toledo, have "peace boards" operating for conciliation between capital and labor in the local field, the magazine "Public Management," official organ of the International City Managers' Association, points out. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia has just appointed such a board for New York City and Newark's Commission has just created by ordinance a Municipal Labor Relations Board.

Toledo's Peace Board has eighteen members; five named by the Central Labor Union, five by the Chamber of Commerce and eight selected at large. Representatives at large include two judges, two attorneys, a Catholic monsignor, a Jewish Rabbi, a merchant and the county relief director, all serving without pay.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

Upon October 24 the Mayor approved a contract with Casey and Hayes for moving and relocating the Municipal Court. A communication from Charles M. Davenport, chairman of the Court House Commission, was as follows:

October 23, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

Moving Municipal Court from Young's Hotel to Pemberton Square Court House.

DEAR MAYOR TOBIN,—For your information, the new Commission for the Care, Custody and Control of the Suffolk County Court House, by advertisement in the City Record, have solicited proposals in writing for moving and relocating the Municipal Court, with its subdivisions, from its present location in Young's Hotel, at a rental cost of $5,000 per month, to the third and fourth floors of the old portion of the Pemberton Square Court House.

The proposals were opened today and the lowest one was that of Casey and Hayes of 8 Province court, Boston, who submitted a bid of $4,974 for everything except motor transportation on the highways between the two points, and for the latter additional service a separate rate of $3.00 per hour per truck and driver in traveling to and from Young's Hotel to the Court House. There are sufficient funds in the County Court House Custodian appropriation for 1939 for payment of the above moving.

The firm of Casey and Hayes appears to be a competent and experienced moving concern for doing the work required, and the Commission, after due consideration of all of the circumstances, is about to award the contract to the lowest bidder upon the above terms, subject to the execution of a contract satisfactory to the Corporation Counsel and accompanied by a liability bond in the full amount of the contract.

Because of the nature of the work, and the necessity of the least interruption of the Courts, it will be necessary to start the work on Thursday, October 26, 1939, at noon, and to work continuously, unless the transfer is accomplished sooner, until eight-thirty Monday morning, October 30, 1939; and, therefore, it is hoped that when the proper contract is available for your Honor's signature that it may be executed at your early convenience.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES M. DAVENPORT,
Chairman, Commission for Care,
Custody and Control of Suffolk County Court House.

36,400 MOTOR DEATHS IN 1935.

According to the findings of the National Safety Council motor traffic deaths in 1935 totaled 36,400, compared with 1934's record of 36,000.

The only decrease was among school children up to fifteen years of age. Motor vehicle accidents to children have increased much less than those of adults since 1922, when safety education began on a national scale. October, November and December were the reddest months. Two-thirds of the accidents were in places under 10,000 population; more than 40 per cent of the victims pedestrians.

Thirteen states decreased traffic deaths 7 per cent or more: Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming and Washington.

The American City.

SEWAGE TREATMENT PLANT CONSTRUCTION ON THE INCREASE.

Owing to the economic conditions prevailing during the past year, there was but a relatively small volume of sewage treatment plant construction. Within recent months, however, there has been a decided impetus to new construction of this type growing out of the Public Works Administration allotments. Nearly 700 cities have received allotments of funds from the P. W. A. for sewerage or sewage treatment, involving an aggregate expenditure of well over $200,000,000.

"RELIEF" DECLINING.

Two-thirds of the nation's relief expenditures in recent years has been centered in ten industrial states, the "Year Book's" section on Financing Relief and Recovery points out. Half the Federal Work Relief Funds and two-thirds of all available funds have been expended in the fifty largest cities, including about 25 per cent of the population. Industrial urban population is more vulnerable to unemployment. In addition, living costs are higher, requiring greater relief allotments, and the cost of giving employment to a city group is higher than in rural areas.

WATER-SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1652 Boston introduced the first American public water supply. The first mechanical pumps were used in 1761 at Bethlehem, Pa., where Hans Christiansen, an American pioneer water-supply engineer, made his pumps work "after severe struggles." In 1850 there were only 100 water plants in the United States, and as late as 1875 only 243. In 1933 there were more than 11,000 public water supplies, some serving more than one community.

INSPECTIONS OF DWELLINGS BY SOCIAL AGENCIES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 30, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letters from the Corporation Counsel and the Health Commissioner relative to your order of October 9, 1939, concerning the inspections of dwellings being made by social agencies not members of the Health Department.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, October 24, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—I am in receipt of a communication from your office dated October 13, 1939, attaching a copy of an order of the City Council, which order asked you in part to confer with the Corporation Counsel to ascertain if "non-official inspections of dwellings being made by social agencies" are not in violation of the Acts of 1885, chapter 382, section 23.

I have today rendered an opinion to the Health Commissioner in answer to his request for advice as to whether students from certain schools might accompany sanitary inspectors of the Health Department on official inspections in order that they might receive practical instruction in public health activities. That opinion is equally applicable to members or representatives of social agencies. In that opinion I stated that the only persons who have a right to go into one's house for the purpose of health inspection are those upon whom the right has been conferred by the law.

The pertinent provision of law is to be found in the Acts of 1885, chapter 382, section 20, which reads as follows:

"Every officer of the board of health, and every officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred, shall have free access to every part of any lodging or tenement house, when required, in the proper execution of the duties of his office."

By virtue of the provisions of the foregoing section, certain persons in the health service of the city are given legal authority to enter lodging or tenement houses in the exercise of the duties of their office. This authority cannot be extended by such persons to other persons not so authorized.

The students (and representatives of social agencies), of course, are not officers of the Board of Health nor are they officers upon whom any duty or authority is conferred. Consequently, unless authority to do so is given by the owner or occupant, they have no right of access to private premises for the purpose of inspection in health matters.

Section 23 of chapter 382 of the Acts of 1885 provides as follows:

"Every member of said board of health, and every inspector acting under said board shall, before entering upon the duties of his office take and subscribe an oath before the city clerk of said city that he will faithfully and impartially discharge such duties, and the city clerk shall make and keep a record of such oath. Every member of said board and every such inspector who enters upon or discharges such duties without having taken and subscribed such oath shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, but such omission shall not render invalid any act or proceeding of said board."

The requirement of this section, it will be noted, is the taking of an oath by members and inspectors of the board of health prior to entering upon their duties and the penalty is imposed for violation of this requirement. Consequently, there is, strictly speaking, no violation of this section if, as suggested in the order of the City Council, social agencies or their representatives have been making "non-official inspections of dwellings." Regardless of the oath, however, all city employees are bound to "faithfully and impartially discharge the duties" assigned to them and there always exists a presumption that they do so act. In this case I am aware of no facts, and none are presented or suggested in the order of the Council, that indicate that members of the Health Department have not been acting in good faith. A different situation would exist, however, if such employees, after being advised of the limitation of their authority, as set forth above, persisted in permitting unauthorized persons to accompany them on their official visits.

Very truly yours,

HENRY PARKMAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

City of Boston,
Health Department, October 25, 1939.
Mr. William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—In replying to your memorandum, requesting consideration and report upon the subject of the City Council order of October 9, 1939, concerning the non-official inspections of dwellings being made by social agencies not members of the Health Department and also to confer with the Corporation Counsel to find out if this is not a violation of the Acts of 1885, chapter 382, section 23, I have this to say.

As a part of the instruction in public health, given in this department to post-graduates and undergraduates in medicine and to student nurses, some undergraduate medical students of Tufts College Medical School were recently allowed to accompany some of the sanitary inspectors for the purpose of observing this phase of public health work.

Within a very short time the legality of this practice was challenged, whereupon I ordered it stopped, pending further consideration of the matter.

I have consulted the Corporation Counsel as to the legality or illegality of the practice and I append copies of correspondence with the Corporation Counsel anent thereto.

Yours respectfully,

H. F. R. WATTS, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Health Department, October 11, 1939.
Henry Parkman, Jr., Esq.,
Corporation Counsel.

Dear Mr. Parkman,—In connection with the educational program in which this department is engaged in cooperation with the Harvard School of Public Health, Tufts College Medical School, and Simmons College, students of these schools are receiving instruction and demonstrations of the practical application of public health activities and procedures by members of this department.

I am in doubt as to the legality or propriety of students, or a student, accompanying a sanitary inspector on his official inspections.

Inasmuch as sanitary inspectors are sworn officials of the department, whose duty it is to enter upon private property for the purpose of making legally prescribed and necessary examinations of premises, it has been the policy of the department to consider all information secured by these inspectors as "privileged" and available to no third party except to the owner of the property, when such owner is deemed to be responsible for the abatement of a nuisance, except as it may be required under subpoena in a court action.

I ask your opinion as to the legality or propriety of a medical student, or other private individual, accompanying a sanitary inspector of this department on his official inspections.

Yours very truly,

H. F. R. WATTS, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Law Department, October 23, 1939.
Henry F. R. Watts, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

Dear Commissioner,—I have your letter of October 11, 1939, in which you ask my opinion as to the legality of students accompanying a sanitary inspector on his official inspections of private premises.

Section 20 of chapter 382 of the Acts of 1885 provides as follows:

"Every officer of the Board of Health, and every officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred, shall have free access to every part of any lodging or tenement house, when required, in the proper execution of the duties of his office."

The only persons who have a right to enter premises on health matters are those to whom the right is given by the law. The law confines this right to an officer of the board of health and every officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred. A student is not an officer of the board of health nor an officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred and, therefore, the student has no right to enter the premises on health matters. The owner of the premises could forbid the student's entrance, and if the student entered without the consent of the owner the student is a trespasser. In other words, the student has no more right to enter premises than any other private individual. I find nothing in the law relative to the Health Department which gives an inspector the right to take students along with him during official investigations.

You ask me, further, however, as to the propriety of a student accompanying a sanitary inspector upon his official inspection of private dwellings, including lodging and tenement houses. Granting that there is no legal right of entry, may it be proper under certain circumstances, and if so, what are those circumstances? I understand from your letter that the purpose of his doing so would be to carry out the arrangement made by your department for mutual cooperation with the Harvard School of Public Health, Tufts College Medical School and Simmons College, and I assume that it is in the general interest of the development of the efficiency of your department and of the public generally to help train the students of these institutions in the practical demonstration of public health activities. Thus, while there is no legal right for a student to enter a private home, there may be an indirect public interest in his doing so under proper circumstances. It is traditional in our jurisprudence that a man's privacy in his home be maintained, and this right to privacy must yield only to a greater public interest on the terms specifically expressed in the law enacted for the benefit of all, or of the person in charge of the home consents, with the specific consent of the person in charge I do feel it may be proper to permit the practice you inquire about. I would suggest, however, that great care be taken that the consent be clearly and unequivocally given, and preferably in writing. Furthermore, it shall be made abundantly clear at the time consent is sought, that the occupant has the right to exclude any unauthorized person from entering on his premises. In other words, there must be no question that the consent is freely given and without suggestion of compulsion in any form.

With these general principles before you, perhaps you will be able to work out an arrangement satisfactory to all concerned.

Very truly yours,

HENRY PARKMAN, JR.,
Corporation Counsel.

SIDEWALK, HAWTHORNE STREET, WARD 19.

SUSPENSION OF FIVE-CENT FARE ZONE ORDER.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:
Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to confer with the Department of Public Utilities in an effort to hold up the establishment of new schedule of five-cent fare zones on the Boston Elevated system until after such time as a public hearing is granted on the matter.

Coun. LYONS—Mr. President, last week we had quite a bit of discussion in this Body about the proposed doing away with the five-cent Elevated riding zones as it affected people in different parts of the city, Rosindale and other sections. The proposed reduction in the five-cent riding zones, unless something is done about it, goes into effect November 1. I understand that neither the Mayor nor anybody else has effected anything that will hold up the putting into operation of the new schedule. The Elevated service covers fourteen cities and towns of the metropolitan district, and the proposed new schedule, unless something is done to hold it up, will go into effect on the first of November, and after that probably nothing can be done about it. I have, therefore, introduced this order requesting the Mayor to confer with the Department of Public Utilities in an endeavor to hold up the establishment of the new schedule until such time as a public hearing may be given on the matter by the Department of Public Utilities.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, I think the order offered by the gentleman from Ward 20 is an excellent one. I understand that there is considerable confusion on the part of operators of buses and street cars as to what is to happen with the putting into effect of this new fare schedule. This is a very important matter, and it has some interesting side angles. For example, we have at the present time too many one-man street cars and one-man buses, and the one-man operator of these cars and buses is held responsible for the safety of the riders on those vehicles. If anything happens to any of them he has to go to court, and the responsibility placed upon him of watching passengers getting on and off the cars, in addition to his duties as an operator of the conveyance, is altogether too great. It would seem that the present responsibility is to be increased by this proposed new plan and, therefore, I think it should be given very serious consideration before it goes into effect. Certainly the riders have an opportunity to be heard before the change is made effective. I feel, therefore, that the order which the councilor has introduced is a good one and should be passed.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALK, WYMAN STREET, WARD 10.

Coun. CAREY offered the following:
Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install an asphalt sidewalk in front of 86 Wyman street, Ward 10, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

LIQUOR LICENSE NEAR TRINITY CHURCH.

Coun. CHASE offered the following:
Whereas, The Boston Licensing Board has an application pending before them for a transfer of a liquor license from Charlestown to Clarendon street, about thirty feet opposite the Trinity Church; and

Resolved, That the Boston Licensing Board reject such application for transfer on the grounds that it is too near a place of worship; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Licensing Board.

CORRECTION IN "PLEBISCITE" SPEECH OF OCTOBER 23.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I would like with unanimous consent to make a statement with reference to the minutes of October 23. On page 445 of the City Council Minutes of October 23, with reference to a "plebiscite" on Federal housing in Boston, I am represented as saying that the project referred to may involve the expenditure of $119,000,000. It should be $191,000,000. While on my feet, after making the correction, I would like to ask the clerk if there has come through the Mayor any response to my request with reference to having a plebiscite at the coming city election on Federal housing in Boston, or on the order asking the Boston Housing Authority, through the Mayor, to advise the City Council whether a two per cent commission is being paid to authorized persons obtaining signed options on parcels of real estate incident to plans for the contemplated new housing projects.

President MURRAY—The Chair is informed that there has been no response.

ACTION ON FIVE-CENT FARE ROUTES.

Coun. SULLIVAN offered the following:
Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston Elevated be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to defer action on the matter of changing five-cent fare routes in Brighton area until public hearings have been held.

Whereas, The Mayors and Selectmen of the metropolitan area, under the leadership of Mayor Tobin, by reason of their representations before the Boston Elevated Trustees, were successful in halting the abandonment of all five-cent fares some months ago; therefore, be it

Resolved, That such officials be again requested to confer with Elevated officials to halt the partial rescission of five-cent fares in the metropolitan area.

On motion of Coun. TAYLOR the order was amended by including every section of Boston as well as Brighton.

The question came on the passage of the order and adoption of the resolution.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Mr. President, some months ago, when the abandonment of five-cent fares was proposed by the Boston Elevated Trustees, the Mayors and Selectmen of the metropolitan area, under the leadership of Mayor Tobin, were successful, in their representations to the trustees, in halting the abandonment of the five-cent fares at that time. Mayor Tobin and the Corporation Counsel were successful in the metropolitan area in bringing about that result, the trustees being then induced to abandon their plan. I believe, therefore, that if the Mayor, with the backing of the people of the metropolitan area, appeals at this time to the Elevated officials to at least halt the present plan of reducing the five-cent fare routes until public hearings have been held, attention will be paid to that request. All these people who are getting the benefit of five-cent fares are also helping to pay the deficit, and at a time like this, when such unusual burdens are being placed upon the taxpayers, I believe we should not add to their troubles by curtailing the five-cent zone areas. I believe the continuance of these five-cent fares is of extreme importance to all of our people, and I believe it is up to the trustees to observe the wishes of the people.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. IRWIN, at 4.02 p. m., to meet on Monday, November 13, 1939, at 2 p. m.

CORRECTION.

In the October 23 minutes, in the debate on "Five-Cent Fare Zones," Coun. Chase, on page 442, second column, was reported as saying:

"Mr. President, I can see no logic or reason which should actuate the trustees of the Boston Elevated in permitting a five-cent fare from Arlington Heights to practically every other part of the road and require a ten-cent fare from Roxbury Crossing to Berkeley street and Tremont".

The word "five," referring to the fare from Arlington Heights, should be "ten."

MAYOR TOBIN MAKES APPEAL FOR RED CROSS—OPENS GREATER BOSTON CAMPAIGN FOR 1939 WITH BROADCAST OVER WEEI STATION, FOR RALLY TO AID OF INSTITUTION WHICH STANDS ALWAYS READY TO AID WHEN SUFFERING VISITS HUMANITY AND HUMAN COMMUNITIES—ASKS ALL CITIZENS OF METROPOLITAN DISTRICT TO JOIN IN ROLL CALL AND TO CONTRIBUTE ACCORDING TO MEANS, THAT WORK OF RELIEF MAY NOT LAG—NEED IS FOR 100,000 MEMBERS FROM BOSTON AREA.

In joining the Red Cross roll call for 1940, Mayor Tobin made the following appeal in advance of Greater Boston and national campaign which opened on Monday, November 13:

Once more the Red Cross asks all Americans who are the friends of mercy in any occasion of critical human need, whether it be to rescue the life of one man from drowning or to lift up and restore a whole community engulfed by sudden disaster, to stand up and be counted.

Only once a year does that Red Cross call "come" to each one of us. But constantly throughout the year the Red Cross holds itself ready to answer every call of emergency. The response is forthcoming whether the sound of the call be loud and clamorous with public necessity or spoken in a soft voice telling only of individual need. The Widow Jones may have no one to carry her each week to the treatment she needs at a public hospital or private clinic, but experienced volunteers of the Red Cross here in Boston are prepared and eager to use their own automobiles for just such a service. Merciful errands of exactly this kind were performed last year in Boston by the Red Cross Volunteer Motor Corps to the number of over eleven thousand.

Neighborhood Service.

My fellow citizens, that single branch of the Red Cross relief service means more than thirty-one calls answered by the Red Cross chapter in Metropolitan Boston each day and night of the year. And those thirty-one trips from suffering homes to the help afforded by hospitals, I ask you to note and especially mark, are a neighborhood service given by the Red Cross that many of you hardly know is happening right here in your midst.

You hear the siren-blast of a police ambulance, and you are glad to know that where a fellow human being has been stricken down by an accident there the city is sending quickly an agent of help and of mercy. But you are scarcely aware that the plain, unmarked private automobile which flashes by you in the highway on an unannounced errand may be equally an agent of mercy — a car sent by the Red Cross to fill a human need quite as real as any that may arise in a moment of accident.

And I have doubt also whether many of you are aware of a dozen other types of service daily and weekly carried on by the Red Cross — the preparation of nearly 700,000 surgical dressings, the sewing of more than 20,000 new garments to clothe families bereft of necessary raiment, the transcribing of more than 17,000 pages in Braille for instruction and comfort of the blind, and the ministrations of friendly, trained visitors at the bedside of invalids and shut-ins during a total of 22,079 hours of service.

You or I give as much as an hour a week to calling on friends in hospitals or aged relatives who can no longer leave their homes, but here is a record of scores of thousands of such visits made by the kindly "Gray Ladies of the Red Cross," as these visitors are called by those whose drab lives they brighten.

And all that, and many another service besides, is merciful work by the American Red Cross in Greater Boston, which most of us do not know is happening, and may often forget if we ever did know about it.

But what every man, woman and school child within the sound of my voice does know about the work of the Red Cross is the instant preparedness of this great and long-experienced and all but sacred organization of the spirit of mercy, to give swift aid in time of public disaster.

In Every Trouble.

Whether in peacetime or war, when earthquake hurls homes into a yawning pit of destruction, when fire burns a hundred or a thousand dwellings in a dread conflagration, or when hurricane sweeps over a city and storm clouds bring ruin and threaten disease and starvation — on all such occasions every man of us quickly remembers the Red Cross, and the Red Cross remembers and reaches every one of the sufferers.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NATHAN HASKEL DOLE.

In the year just passed the American Red Cross answered no less than 157 disaster calls. The signals of unexpected distress came from forty-three states of the Union, and involved perils of life and death for 129,988 human beings.

Everyone within the sound of my voice knows what the Red Cross is prepared to do in all such times of emergency, whether the cry comes from afar or most shockingly near at hand, as on that day in September a year ago when the hurricane of 1938 cut a mammoth belt of destruction across the face of New England.

That disaster came to us, you will recall, practically without any warning. The storm known to be moving northward up the Atlantic Coast was expected to pass off to the east of us and over the ocean; but the hurricane struck straight at the homes and into the heart of New England.

And now, in the autumn of 1939, we in the United States cannot say that we are without warning of the presence of man-made hurricanes in the world today against which America must stand prepared and on guard to meet any contingency. Forces of war and destruction have been unleashed over all Europe. We are resolved to stand clear of them, and we will hold to that resolve beyond question.

But the winds of fate are not more precisely predictable than the winds blown upon the Atlantic by the forces of meteorology.

NEED IS URGENT.

We know that there is especially urgent and evident need for the United States to stand prepared in the year 1940 to deal with possible conditions of stress and strain double the normal risk faced in peace times.

With that fact in mind, the American Red Cross is calling for double the enrollment of citizens in 1940 by comparison to the number who enlisted last year under the Red Cross banner of mercy.

Ten million members are needed, and that means 100,000 from Greater Boston. I trust and I know that when the Red Cross roll is called this week you will be willing and prompt to answer "Present."

RE-ELECTIONS TO BOARD OF TRUSTEES, TEACHERS RETIREMENT FUND

The terms of Mr. Lee and Mr. White as members of the Board of Trustees of the Teachers Retirement Fund having expired, the School Committee proceeded to fill the vacancies.

On roll call, the members respectively stated that they voted to fill the first vacancy as follows:

Dr. Foley—For Mr. Lee
Mr. Lee—For Mr. Sullivan
Mr. Smith—For Mr. Lee
Mr. Sullivan—absent
Mr. White—For Mr. Lee.

On roll call, the members respectively stated that they voted to fill the second vacancy as follows:

Dr. Foley—For Mr. White
Mr. Lee—For Mr. White
Mr. Smith—For Mr. White
Mr. Sullivan—absent
Mr. White—For Mr. Sullivan

The Chairman thereupon declared Messrs. Lee and White re-elected members of the Board of Trustees of the Teachers Retirement Fund for a term of two years, ending October, 1941.

REVISION OF COURSES IN ECONOMICS

Mr. Lee: I have something to say about the report of the Board of Superintendents on the suggestions I made with reference to the study of governmental problems.

Dr. Foley: I have a pressing engagement at seven o'clock and I would like to keep it, if I can. This has something to do with our American government and the flag, so I will remain.

Mr. Lee: What I have, I think will not call for any immediate action. It is in special reference to that phase of American government which was discussed at our last conference, where my suggestions for a more accurate study of governmental problems in the class room were unfavorably reported on by the Board of Superintendents, and that unfavorable report was later accepted by the School Committee.

What I want to suggest is that that report of the Board of Superintendents be entered on the public records of this meeting as a sort of landmark in progress backward.

My proposal was one chance to acquaint the child with how his government actually works. It makes no difference to me what criminal practices are mentioned. If you can tell the story without mentioning the criminals or the bad practices, well and good. All I do care about is that the machinery and the forces and the interplay of circumstances which actually do control our government, be brought out in the class room. I do not see any possible way of dealing with conditions in our city or our state or with our national problems, unless the child gets some idea of what actually happens and what forces he has to reckon with. That was the sole purpose. Those points which I brought out just ask definite questions as to why things are as they are in our city and our state.

I wish the Board would change its mind on the action they took. The whole thing reminds me of an old stage coach where the driver is driving down to the edge of a precipice where danger is waiting, and the passengers are riding innocently inside the coach. We are driving our school children to the point where in later life they will not be able to cope with the affairs of city or state any more than the present generation does, and we are doing nothing to give them a straight steer ahead of time.

In a previous record I have said—and I am glad to say it here—that if my particular points and my particular suggestions are not approved of, get somebody else in. I suggest John Bantry's articles in the Sunday Post and another series of articles in the daily Post ten years ago, describing the particular workings of life at Washington in Congressional circles. The same objections could be raised there, perhaps, that these articles stress the sordid side more than mine did. I am not didactic about my particular points. All I care is that this Committee do something to educate our children as to how government actually works. In speaking of that, way back last year, I said that it seems that the function of school committees has been allowed to be that of keeping children ignorant of and at a distance from many of the problems of modern life. It is scarcely educational, if we do that.

In that same meeting I said that the view has been expressed that in school we should teach the pleasant and beautiful things of life and not the sour ones. This is part of a system. Persons engaged in so-called illegal enterprises do not want the public burrowing into their affairs. Certain business men do not want the public burrowing into their affairs. And certain politicians do not want the public burrowing into their affairs, and all three know that the place to stop such curiosity is in the schools. So they stop it. That is the situation I complain of.

I think we ought to put before the child the challenge of understanding his government and how it really works. Point out and let him see the obvious lawlessness we have with our 80,000 arrests in Boston each year.

Pick out, if you will, the cases in the newspapers where there have been obvious breaches in the law, not to plunge into the total, but to study into the work of how those things occur, how they are accounted for, and how as members of the community they can find their way through the situation to get better results.

I will conclude by saying that it is absolutely essential that we earn a living and it is absolutely essential that we understand our government, because our government stands as a group of referees who referee the industrial scrimmage and blow the whistle when the scrimmage seems to lead us into financial policies which bring on depressions, and as the result of the study of these scrimmages and these depressions, there can be set up humanitarian legislation or needed improvements in the economic field.

I have always stood for an understanding of our job situation and our business situation just as we should have an understanding of our political situation.

Certainly the most sordid thing today is the world war in Europe. And we talk about that in the class room and there can be no objection to talking about our immediate problems.

Where there has been lawlessness and so forth, we ought to go at that in the class room and see if we cannot blast a road for the child to follow and enable him to blast a road himself.

I hope the School Committee will reconsider their action. I would be just as glad to have somebody else's article used instead of mine, so long as there is a realization that the place to correct these things is with the fundamental education of the child. It is a matter of really coming to grips with the subject and not sliding around the edge.

Dr. Foley: How nice it is, when we hear a knock at the door, and find that it is only the milkman. How thankful we should be that we live in a great country.

Superintendent: I note that Mr. Lee wishes the report of the Board of Superintendents incorporated in the minutes of the meeting. I have no objection to that, but I think along with it should be incorporated the questions and answers submitted by Mr. Lee, so that anybody reading the report of the Board of Superintendents will know specifically to what the report refers. I would suggest that both be included.

Dr. Foley: I would so move.

Chairman: I think that is a good suggestion.

Mr. Lee: I have no objection.

It was unanimously agreed to spread upon the records the questions and answers submitted by Mr. Lee to the Board of Superintendents and the reply of that Board to the same.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS SUBMITTED BY MR. LEE

BRINGING BOSTON'S POLITICAL IDEALS AND PRACTICES INTO FOCUS

(A textbook on Government)

1. Why do people have the impression that politics is dirty?

The reason is as follows. In seeking popularity at the time of elections, the politician shows different sides of himself to different groups. He does this somewhat more so than the average citizen would. This gives an impression of duplicity. For instance, an anti-labor candidate talking to a labor group asserts his favorable disposition toward the American working man, toward the deserts of honest labor, and concerning any labor connections which he may have had in the past,—through his father or grandfather, for instance, once having had a union card. He omits the fact that he is against all pending labor union legislation.

Further, any candidate during a campaign and later, must seek to harmonize diverse elements of the population. By voting for legislation, ordinances, and appropriations in keeping with the wishes of financial, industrial, or economy-minded groups, and by giving a degree of immunity to the criminal element, but, again, by talking vociferously against both these elements in public, he pleases all three parts of the public, and can do more for each than if he bucked any one. This calculation of the effect of a move, in terms of how it places him or advances him among these three groups, seems to the observing citizen like triple-dealing. It really is just helpfully acting as bargainer or broker between inimical interests.

Classroom example: Johnny Smith wants to organize a soccer game for after-school hours in the school yard. He makes himself the "best of pals" with the boy in the classroom who has the property of a football; and thus gets him to produce the ball, agreeing sympathetically all the while, "Of course soccer isn't much fun." Then he goes to the chronic trouble-makers in the classroom, who would spike any organized game, and sells them the idea that they can be goal guard, captain, or coach, or whatever else pleases them. Then he talks up the fun of the sport to the average classmate who is ready to think so: and with all elements thus harmonized, he is able to set up the game. In later life Johnny Smith will similarly harmonize discordant elements of the public by concessions and agreeableness to them, so that they will agree on maintaining him in office.

2. Why do people feel that nothing can be done about government and its ways?

People feel that nothing can be done about government and its ways primarily because we live in such a dense population. In such a closely interrelated country as ours, where the man in Boston stands packed as close as a brother to the man in Iowa and New Zealand—from the first of whom, under modern rapid communication, he imports his daily wheat and bread, and to the second of whom he sells the product of his soap factory,—under these conditions, no citizen can move without moving many other citizens. All are bound together by an intricate set of laws and regulations which keep these economic or civic channels between them intact and holding.

Classroom example: Johnny Smith's mother and father are members of the recreation subcommittee of their local Planning Committee, and want to secure an unused school building as a recreation center for the adults of the neighborhood, including themselves. The building has been closed for three years, and is on the same plot of land as another school building which is being used for schooling. Johnny's parents' committee want the lights turned on and the water turned on in this empty building; and a WPA janitor and recreation instructors stand ready to take charge. After holding several neighborhood meetings and extensive correspondence with the WPA authorities, they make bold to approach the School Committee. After a delay of a month and a half, they hear from the secretary of the School Committee that nothing can be done, as it is contrary to regulations. They then hire a lawyer or talk with a member of the School Committee, if they are lucky enough to know one and if he is a lawyer; and they find out that the building which they have in mind was built under a statute designating the expenditure of school money only for structures confined to teaching boys and girls. Likewise, the current school department funds were raised from the taxpayers primarily for teaching boys and girls. Thus the building itself cannot well be used for adult recreation,—at least in a program not under the School Committee. And even though the local Recreation Committee can pay for water and lights, no one in the School Department can see how this is legal, unless the School Committee first goes to the expense of putting the light and water on a separate circuit, from new lines. These complicated rules and regulations were set up to make sure that an extensive school system and its complex divisions and sub-divisions would not spend taxpayers' money in a way offensive to the many persons supplying the taxes in the city's dense population. One small act by a few citizens involves all the taxpayers and many of their selected or appointed deputies.

Note: Also the citizen does not understand the relationship pictured under this item and under the previous item, so that he does not know even what problems and factors he is dealing with, in going about to set the involved mechanism of modern life in motion toward a quicker expression of individual interests and hope. (Thus individualism is dead. Our classrooms are doing little to acquaint the child with the new order.)

3. Why are improvements fewest in sections of a city where the machine is strongest?

Where a political machine is strong, it has become strong because its members did not seek to serve their own district but to serve other districts. For example, the representatives from an area like old Ward 8, at the State House shaped their votes in line with state-wide interests, who at different times sought a street car franchise in Worcester, or water-power rights in the Berkshires, or favorable insurance rates for local companies, favorable bank rates, and so forth. This made the local representatives from the machine district useful to and beloved by established interests all over the Commonwealth. In exchange the representatives of the machine district never destroyed that love by seeking to take from the State's treasury moneys for improving their own district nor sought to make laws in favor of their own constituents. But the local machine did, in exchange, ask a few personal favors in the way of public job placements, which their constituents needed, and occasional immunities for their constituents from brushes with the law. Also in exchange, they reserved the power to nominate governors and senators and influence the political complexion of the state. While this building of machine strength was, on the surface, in disregard of their constituents, nevertheless the machine became so strong that it could do very effective personal case-work in the way of securing jobs and other aid for its constituents: so that it came to help the local constituents in the direction they most needed help. Thus the system was a very helpful one.

Classroom illustration: The citizens of a machine district want a traffic light installed at a dangerous crossing where 120 people have been injured and 7 killed in the last six years. Representatives of the local machine point out to the neighbors' committee that if they ask this aid from the City's limited treasury and services, they cannot expect to go into the Mayor's office again and ask for as many jobs for their neighbors.

Query: is it better to be killed by automobiles or to starve to death for want of a job? Which way should the machine work in this predicament?

4. Why do people faintly resent but strongly admire what the newspapers term "gangsters"? (as manifest especially at the time of their funerals and also manifested especially by school children.)

People admire gangsters for two reasons. First place, every one wants to assert himself in life and assert himself more elementally and directly than the restrictions of modern civilization allow. Hence we witness the popularity of football and other games, where men and boys re-create their more primitive natures. Accordingly, our instinctive emotions tend to admire the gangster, who lives a simpler, assertive, and more tribal life.

Second, we learn that gangsters have a power which we as average citizens cannot hope to have. The racketeer has a frenzied desire to gain immunity from the law so that he can go on with his business and not go to jail. Hence he finds that he can cement himself with those who rule the city by helping them and working for them at times of election. The racketeer is often in a position, through selling number pool chances or running taverns, to contact large numbers of the population, so that he is in a good field for canvassing votes for candidates. He is sometimes in a position to offer money, especially to men already in office, when he has some one whom he wishes released from jail or paroled from State's prison. Furthermore, the racketeer can do valuable work in supplying strong arm squads on election day to intimidate unsympathetic voters; likewise can sell the strong arm squads to employers who are seeking to break a strike, and are glad politically to work in sympathy with forces that can help them. Besides this the racketeer and his associates, by the private nature of their calling, have excellent discipline, which is of advantage and is helpful in getting reliable repeaters to visit the polls. Thus the valuable help which racketeers can give the candidate is apparent and the candidate comes into office under obligation to this illegal element. Consequently the racketeer has unusual power, and the community soon finds out that he can call off the police, get cases fixed, receive immunities, and associate with the leaders of the state in a way in which the hard, industrious toiler could not hope to do. This brings to the racketeer the respect which men yield to those who are stronger and smarter than themselves.

Classroom example: Why did practically all candidates for higher office at the last City election feel it necessary to attend Beano Breen's dance the night before he was shot?

5. Do the police need to be lords or associates of the so-called 'racket' operators in order to control them? Would it disrupt police work if this arrangement did not exist?

An ounce of heroin is valued at $30. Yet it is as small as a poultice on a boy's tooth. How can the vigilance of a police department detect the importation, shipment, and distribution of such a small and destructive commodity? They can't very well. However, if the police can be pals of people engaged in criminal activities, they can offer immunity to the small user of heroin, if that user can identify the source from where he gets it. Then the police have a chance to apprehend the merchants and importers of this commodity. It would seem that this system of making friends with the small criminals is an effective one. Warranted criticism should only come when this friendship, having led to the trail of larger criminal manipulators, spares these manipulators from prosecution because of a further three-cornered friendship embracing the man in public office. In other words, the answer to this question is both ways. The police do need to be lords and associates of the lesser criminals in order to keep tabs on the bigger ones, but they do not necessarily have to be associates of the bigger ones, except on account of protection fostered for these bigger criminals by political affiliates.

Classroom example: A pickpocket is working at a subway exit. If the police arrest him, it drives the pickpocket subsequently to work in obscure places out of sight of the police. If the police know that the pickpocket is working at the subway station and they keep his takings down to a reasonable amount, it keeps the situation in hand. On the other hand, by good detective work, they might, perhaps, stamp pickpockets out. Which is best?

6. What services in supplying wants do so-called racketeers perform which makes the average one of us not unsympathetic to their practices?

Racketeers supply games of chance which men, rich and poor, from time immemorial, have enjoyed. They do this definite service for the community. This serves to redistribute wealth. And it serves as an emotional escape for people held down by the harness of humdrum occupations. Racketeers also supply women for sex purposes, which fulfills one of man's wants. It may be argued that this is undesirable because it diverts income from the family: case of a married man, and is likely to spread disease, and even complicates the inheritance of fortune for a wealthy man who may have an extra-marital offspring. If accepted as a part of the high school boy's ideology, it would doubtless tend to disrupt the unity and firmness of family life in society. The worst feature is probably on the part of the girls involved, who may become involved in the occupation against their better interest and will. The point I wish to make is that we both want it and that we don't want it. Public opinion has not said "No" in the sense that it has tried to say "No" to the peddling of dope.

Classroom example: Discussion might follow the line that the matter should be taken out of the racket class,—particularly in view of the length to which this business of pandering will go if it remains illegal and therefore furnishes incentive for the operators to establish alliances with the men who police our City, for protection. For instance, a sentence to a vocational school—it might be brought out in a many-sided discussion—might supersede any criminal punishment for those engaged in this activity.

7. Why has the desire of the man in public life to help everybody—those at variance with the law, the wealthy corporations, and the average citizen alike—led to piecemeal and disorganized policies, lack of convincing leadership, and a lack of confidence on the part of the ordinary citizen?

Obviously, if men in public life are forced to be primarily occupied in appeasing diverse elements in the community, as noted heretofore, without any advantage in sight from bucking any of them or in seeking change, leadership in our public life gets more and more disorganized and public psychology gets more and more at variance with itself and too confused to understand its own problems. Hiding the situation from the public in the schools makes the public more impotent and more sour in later life—in its un-information and mis-information ready to accept any absurd panacea or demagogue. Efforts by individuals or organizations toward improvement find no soil of public enlightenment to guide themselves in or guide others in, and usually proceed in pointless or ineffectual directions. And thus no solution is reached by a serious consideration of the stresses and obstacles which the majority of the citizens have ahead of them.

Classroom example: Ceasing to hide and pussyfoot is, of course, the answer—beginning with the classroom.

8. How could the average citizen take part in political campaigns so that the officials elected will feel primarily obligated to them and not to paying and privilege interests? How can the average man be given faith to contribute financially to campaigns?

He can't. However, if he understands these problems which he is dealing with, he can at least be more effectual than he is now. The few leaders which emerge in any community will then not only see in which direction adjusted leadership lies, but they will be speaking to a public which has an acquaintance with its own problems. The voter will develop a distaste toward political leaders talking only in platitudes and circumventing the problems with which the people are in actuality confronted. Moreover, welfare organizations will not hopelessly buck conditions where there is no possibility of effectuality, but will know how to organize and direct their progress wisely and congenially according to actual factors which prevail. Thus leadership of genuine benefit to the now disharmonious body of the community will evolve.

Classroom example:

1. (Concerning governmental administration.) A sub-division of the State has been given $200,000 by a wealthy widow to develop the City's greatest recreation area: the money established for supplying equipment for programs. The governmental division refuses to develop and open the area. The public is banned and robbed of its play space. Years have gone by. How would you organize a citizen's group to restore this branch of the government to lawful functioning? How much money for organizing would it take? How would you raise the money? Could you do it without funds and organization?

2. (Concerning legislation.) A bill is up before the Legislature for compelling business not only to put a "true label" on their products, but to hang up a sign to explain the conditions of work to applicants for employment. They would have to state the hours of work, the pay for overtime, the policy in regard to holidays, Christmas shopping, and summer vacations, the sanitary conditions, the provision made in case of sickness, the warning and recompense given at time of discharge, and so forth. The bill was introduced by a civic-minded businessman, but there has been the opposition of industrialists. How would you organize a successful citizen's committee to create public understanding and legislative success for this proposal?

3. (Concerning elections.) A candidate is running for City Council pledged to fiscal and economic reform (though claiming to be not as optimistic as Dr. Townsend), pledged also to spading up the layout of illicit enterprises (although without animosity),—as well as to spending public money through hospitals, recreation programs, and general City departments to the best advantage without political favoritism.

How can you adjust the illicit element of the population and their friends to back this candidate? If they do not back this candidate, who will have enough financial and organizational interest in him for him to win? Are the schools teaching you how to organize and proceed toward the election of such a candidate? Are you not being taught in school by implication either that politics is dirty and you should not mix up in it, or that government is perfect and there is no need of critically taking part in it?

What is your own attitude toward such a candidate as described? Why should you work for him, if he is not going to dispense patronage for your benefit afterwards? As a family man, how will you be able to afford time to help this candidate?

Is there some larger group, however, to which you might contribute twenty-five cents a year which will be able to back this candidate, so that you would be able to vote for him, with some chance of success?

What do you want out of your candidate anyway?

Is your school system teaching you to look at these problems and weigh them in the light of your own interest?

9. Why do we elect men to public office to over-ride and abrogate the law—in fixing cases, granting exemptions to departmental rules, disregarding competitive bidding, and so forth—and then turn around and call them "dirty" politicians and deplore the results?

We do this because we do not understand the situation as summarized under the previous headings. Under the secrecy that surrounds our public life we do not know what we want as a community or how to get it: our ideals also are at variance with our practice; and our school system does nothing to bring these into focus.

We try perforce to salvage something from the candidates whom we thus elect hit-or-miss. This takes the form of our asking from them personal favors or exemptions from the law. It also takes the form of asking personal favors which are not in violation of the law, but consist of getting the cumbersome, complicated political machinery to turn,—which the politician is able to do from his vantage-point, but which we are less well able to do without his guidance.

However, disgusted at our own divided mind and discrepant ideals, and seeing the politician live by doing a lot of favors inside or outside the law for other persons besides ourselves, we get discouraged at the confusion and at the continuous compromising, and call the whole thing 'dirty.'

Classroom example: Are most of the requests coming to politicians in the course of a day directed toward abrogating the law or carrying out the law?

What policies of leadership do different politicians around the city have?

10. Why is a plutocracy such as the President and his listeners believe we have in America considered broadly better than dictatorship where there is no rule of wealth?

So long as you have a rule of wealth, you have cut up the king's sceptre into flakes and given every citizen a flake called a dollar bill. Out of this, he becomes a king and "orders" farmers to raise wheat, coal miners to mine him coal, sheep herders to grow him wool, and steam captains and locomotive engineers to distribute these to him. The citizen becomes the immediate sovereign of people all over the world, the disposition of whose life he controls and whom he orders to supply his wants for him. Likewise, he is subject to the same orders of other citizens when he is on the earning end. Thus through the rights of private property, the right of contract, restrictions against unfair trade practices, and the preservation of an open market, each citizen makes treaties—without intervention of the State—with other citizens, with whom he exchanges his services. On the quarter deck of a dollar bill you can ride the world without dictation of any interloping sovereign. This form of anarchy, carried on without intervention of an authoritarian state, is a very ideal and rather Utopian condition of society,—provided the medium of exchange is preserved and not dried up by bankers' lapses. Where sovereignty is taken from the individual, by paralyzing his right to spend money as he wishes and work for such persons as he wishes and under such terms of price as both may arrive at; and when, further, this regulation of affairs between man is put into the hands of a dictator, enforced by bayonets, the system is not only cumbersome and ineffective but tyrannical and harsh.

To be sure, the advantages and exemptions which we now give to certain private or corporate aggregates of wealth, in the way of private arsenals for corporations and too modest inheritance taxes for individuals—as symbolized, perhaps, in the public's mind by 'Wall Street'—are in the nature of bribes or ransoms by which we induce these powerful earners and buyers to leave us our liberty.

However, these prerogatives should be gradually shaved off without exciting opposition, so that the system becomes more truly American and competitive, and each man starts in on life on equal footing, without undue prerogatives of inherited fortune or undue corporate immunities,—and hence without the need of gangster elements at once expressing the emulation of and protest toward the powerful financial interests.

Classroom example: What things or what persons can you order with dollar bills? What persons can order you with dollar bills?

11. Why do we maintain a 'hush hush' policy towards children about the way our political and economic system works, so that they come out of school unprepared to understand or handle our American form of government?

We retain a 'hush hush' policy in school because our school system is subservient to a community which now keeps harmony only by hiding the issues which are at odds between different elements of the community or athwart the path of the majority of the citizens. The elected and non-elected members of the school system are bred in this same tradition, and have not the interests of the children seriously enough at heart to give them a correct steer toward perceiving their own community's mechanism. It is regrettable, however, that the school system should try thus to keep composure in the community by diverting attention from how conflicting to our ideals our practices are, and how unhelpful to our practices our ideals are.

Classroom example: Why are vital Student Council meetings discouraged?

Why are meetings of the students outside of school on current affairs discouraged?

Why are Home and School Associations discouraged?

Whom does a teacher hear complaints from, if she tries to bring vital matters, in connection with relationships in the City to attention?

REPLY OF THE BOARD OF SUPERINTENDENTS

October 5, 1939

To the School Committee in Conference:

On March 27, 1939, the School Committee referred to the Board of Superintendents a list of questions—thirteen in number—the answers to which Mr. Lee hoped would constitute a course of study. Under date of May 16, 1939, Mr. Lee sent to the individual members of the Board answers to twelve of the questions which had been referred to the Board. This series of questions and answers carried a caption.

BRINGING BOSTON'S POLITICAL IDEALS AND PRACTICES INTO FOCUS

(a text book on Government)

These twelve questions and answers, with the omission of No. 5 and the modification of others, were published in the Boston Transcript in its issues of August 23, September 6, 7, and 8, 1939. In the first instalment the general heading is "Government Today;" in the other three instalments the general heading is "Good Government." All four issues designate the questions and answers as a text book on "Political Ideals and Practices."

The Board of Superintendents assumes that Mr. Lee has abandoned his original intention of outlining a course of study, and now purposes to ask that the questions and answers as printed be recommended by the Board of Superintendents to the Superintendent and by him to the School Committee for adoption as a text book.

The usual procedure in the adoption of text books is reference to and examination by a text book council and by a Committee of Principals, recommendation by both to the Board of Superintendents, and its recommendation in turn to the Superintendent. The Board of Superintendents in this instance is not averse to dispensing with the customary preliminary steps. There is question as to what subject of the curriculum the questions and answers relate and consequently as to what text book council they should be referred; there is also question as to what type of school could use them profitably and consequently as to what group of Principals they would be referred; and there is further question as to whether the series as a whole can be said to constitute a text book.

Dispensing with the preliminary steps and waiving all other technicalities, the Board of Superintendents has carefully considered the material submitted by Mr. Lee and is unanimously of the opinion that the material cannot be recommended to the Superintendent for adoption as a text book.

The subject matter of the series of questions and answers is not suitable for presentation or discussion in classes below college level. Problems and situations involving the seamy side of life, corrupt police, machine politics, gangsters, racketeers, and denizens of the underworld should not be presented to high school pupils whose judgment is unformed and whose power to remedy the conditions portrayed is nugatory. Discussion of crime and criminals under such circumstances is either futile or worse. It may even lead to the development of criminal tendencies in immature youths. Those charged with the duty of instructing youth in our democracy recognize the importance of character development in citizenship training, and appreciate the value of the poet's admonition:

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

Even the average teacher confronted with Mr. Lee's original questions might well exclaim in the words of one of the characters of O. Douglass' simple tales, "I must have led a dreadfully circumscribed life for I've only met decent people." Boys and girls from sheltered homes of God-fearing parents should not be exposed in our schools even vicariously to the allurements of vice, and should be spared the sordid details of delinquency, depravity or degeneracy.

Rather than treat seriatim the questions, answers and classroom examples, the Board of Superintendents would make the following general observations:

Some of the questions are manifestly unfair in a catechetical form of presentation. Some of the illustrations would seem to indicate strong personal bias. Some of the topics included are impossible of discussion in any public school classroom. Some of the conclusions suggested or intimated are inconsistent and contradictory. The tone of the entire series is negative rather than constructive, defeatist rather than inspirational, morbid rather than stimulating. The worst feature of Mr. Lee's proposed text book is the absence of definite ethical standards. Its underlying philosophy would appear to enthrone expediency as the criterion of morality. The very first classroom example would seem to encourage hypocrisy and deceit among pupils. "The police do need to be lords and associates of the lesser criminal in order to keep tabs on the bigger ones." The craft of the pickpocket is condoned under certain conditions. Sex traffic, though undesirable because of social results, may perhaps be legalized and thus removed from the racket category. Any exposition of the ideals mentioned in the sub-title is strangely missing. One looks in vain for any reference to the ideals of moral training in preparation for citizenship which the statutes of this Commonwealth make mandatory in the following unequivocal language:

"Instructors of youth shall exert their best endeavors to impress on the minds of children and youth committed to their care and instruction the principles of piety and justice and a sacred regard for truth, love of their country, humanity and universal benevolence, sobriety, industry and frugality, chastity, moderation and temperance, and those other virtues which are the ornament of human society and the basis upon which a republican constitution is founded."

Respectfully submitted,

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE; PEACE BOARDS.

Two large cities, Philadelphia and Toledo, have "peace boards" operating for conciliation between capital and labor in the local field, the magazine "Public Management," official organ of the International City Managers' Association, points out. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia has just appointed such a board for New York City and Newark's Commission has just created by ordinance a Municipal Labor Relations Board.

Toledo's Peace Board has eighteen members; five named by the Central Labor Union, five by the Chamber of Commerce and eight selected at large. Representatives at large include two judges, two attorneys, a Catholic monsignor, a Jewish Rabbi, a merchant and the county relief director, all serving without pay.

BUDGETARY CONTROL.

Prior to installing the present system of budgetary control, effective as of January 1, 1939, the city of Newark had no centralized accounting control over its budget commitments. The city's general ledger contained accounts for the various budget appropriations, and reflected disbursements out of the appropriations. However, commitments for work and material were not recorded in the city's accounts until after bills submitted by the vendors had been approved for payment by the Board of Commissioners. Consequently, financial reports could only show the amount of appropriated moneys that had not been disbursed out of any account. No recognition could be given in these reports to the unpaid purchase commitments, since the amount was not known. The American City.

MANY TYPES OF W. P. A. PROJECTS.

The Works Progress Administration has placed in operation a total of more than 300,000 projects. Except for the more pretentious types of construction, these projects have covered almost the whole field of American endeavor in meeting the primary objective of relieving unemployment. The American City.

BENEFITS TO BE DERIVED FROM COOPERATION OF CITY OF BOSTON WITH FEDERAL HOUSING PROGRAM OUTLINED TO MEMBERS OF CITY COUNCIL AND MAYOR TOBIN—JOHN A. BREEN, CHAIRMAN OF BOSTON HOUSING AUTHORITY, DELIVERS ADDRESS DURING LUNCHEON FOLLOWING TOUR OF SUB-STANDARD AREAS IN CONGESTED DISTRICTS—ELIMINATION OF SLUM SECTIONS WHERE UNDER-PRIVILEGED DWELL POINTED OUT AS ONE OF GREATEST MODERN CIVIC DUTIES—MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF PROPERTY IN DECAY AND RUIN INSPECTED DURING TOUR.

The following is the address of John A. Breen, chairman of the Boston Housing Authority, at the luncheon with Mayor Maurice J. Tobin and members of the Boston City Council, at the Hotel Statler, on November 20, following a tour of Project sites:

In the midst of heated discussions of land acquisition policies, rehousing of poor families, injunctions, tenant selection methods, doorbells and negotiator's fees, it is difficult for those favorable to housing to get the opposition to confine itself to fundamentals.

Now it occurs to me that the first fundamental is a premise upon which we all can agree, and that is, that slum areas are not an asset to any nation or city. I think it is safe to say that all thoughtful persons believe that slum conditions should be eliminated, but even the most hasty perusal of available statistics and facts promptly leads to the conclusion that the activity of slum elimination cannot be undertaken by private enterprise.

The first broad difference of opinion with regard to subsidized housing develops when it is proposed that slum clearance be undertaken and slum dwellers rehoused by using funds received from taxation of the people as a whole.

The Federal and State legislative bodies, after long study and consideration, have enacted legislation for providing funds for the elimination of slums and the rehousing of the under-privileged through a program of subsidy, and the high courts of every state have ruled that such action was not beyond the powers of legislative bodies, so that those who subscribe to a political philosophy which is opposed to that which has been sustained by the courts of the land should become realistic and adjust their notions of the proper scope of government in this democracy.

Problem for Congress.

That does not end the story, for we can differ as to how much of this form of subsidy expenditure our Federal economy can support. From this viewpoint I am not inclined and very likely not equipped to discuss the amount of subsidy which the Federal Government can engage to provide annually to clear slums and to rehouse the slum dwellers over a sixty-year period.

This is the problem of the Congress of the United States. Your problem, as members of the government of the City of Boston, is to determine to what extent the city may cooperate in any program of subsidy which may be authorized by the Congress. Cooperation boiled down means tax exemption of low-rent housing projects and the acceptance of a service charge in place of taxation.

Today we have visited many areas in the city—we have viewed conditions at first hand—we have seen many millions of dollars of assessed value of residential property in decay and ruin. Is the solvency of this city dependent upon the taxes yielded from these shacks? Is the financial stability of Boston resting upon such a foundation? Are we going to refuse to accept millions of Federal funds made up of taxes to which we here in Boston contribute in a large measure, and are we going to refuse to exempt homes for the under-privileged from taxation, in order that this great city may suck the last nickel out of these hovels which pay taxes out of the miserable pittance the most unfortunate in our city pay as rental for the privilege of living in the midst of filth and disease.

What are the facts? Net loss of revenue to the city as a result of providing new homes for about 3,300 families on the four sites now under construction is approximately $100,000 annually. On the same basis the loss of revenue occasioned by providing for 33,000 families would be ten times as great, or $1,000,000 annually, but you will argue, in providing for that number of families, we will be obliged to take over properties which are now more highly assessed than the four sites under construction. That is correct.

Let us for the sake of discussion double the tax loss and call it $2,000,000 a year. What do we get in return? What are the savings? What are the offsets?

Benefits and Savings.

Time does not permit of discussing every benefit and saving entailed, so that I will suggest a few of them.

Street Maintenance.—Eighteen streets and alleys formerly maintained by the city in Charlestown alone have been wiped out by the new project. It is conservatively estimated that the amount of street area per family will be reduced at least 50 per cent in properly planned projects as compared to existing city layout.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"
From Boston Centennial Poem by
NATHAN HASKEL DOLE.

FEDERAL HOUSING PROGRAM.

Fire Department.—The elimination of the hazardous wooden structures which characterize our city will greatly reduce the need for fire protection.

Police Department.—Leaving out of consideration the probable reduction of delinquency and crime which is inevitable when men, women and children are surrounded by decency in their living accommodations, it should be obvious that the supervision of the activities of large bodies of people can be accomplished with greater economy in these projects. The numberless doorways, alleys and backyards which provide the setting for crime will be eliminated.

Garbage Disposal.—Important savings in this direction are bound to occur through the installation of incinerators within projects. Based on figures provided by the Public Works Department, we estimate at Old Harbor Village there is a saving in excess of $7.00 per family per year in this item alone.

Hospitals and Sanatoria.—It is not necessary to more than suggest the savings which will accrue to the city in this municipal expenditure as the result of the spread of decent living conditions.

PROTECT DOWNTOWN VALUES.

In addition to the foregoing, we will arrest the movement of families with purchasing power into the suburbs by making various areas in our city more attractive. And if we restore residential areas which are close to the heart of the city we will protect downtown values upon which the city depends for its existence by retaining families with purchasing power in close proximity to the stores, theaters and other enterprises which maintain high taxable values. And, of course, it must be taken into account that the housing projects will protect, and, without any question in my mind, will increase the valuation of mercantile properties near the projects.

And last but not least, among the benefits and among the assets developed is this very pertinent fact, that at the end of sixty years when this land and these buildings shall have been paid for through the annual Federal subsidy, they will become the free and clear property of the City of Boston.

But, in addition to the benefits which have been expressed in terms of dollars and cents, and beyond also the tremendous social improvement for thousands of our less fortunate fellow citizens, there are other factors of significance. The City of Boston is not to be considered as merely a haphazard conglomeration of building lots and improvements, but rather it is a community of human beings gathered in the search for the essentials of life—food, clothing and shelter. Such things as buildings, streets, railroads and docks are the channels through which flow the economic activities of our people. In a sense, they are part of the tools with which the people of the City of Boston make their living, and I need not tell you that the tools are rotting in their hands.

There is much merit in the opinion of many that our city must be replanned and rebuilt, if we are to meet the competition of the rest of the country. We must plan a city which will be as streamlined and as efficient as any successful modern business, in order to find employment and prosperity for our citizens. The resources of Boston are vast and its natural advantages are many, but we cannot do

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT UPHOLDS HOUSING LAW—HIGHEST COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS CALLS CLEARANCE OF SLUMS AND LOW-RENT HOUSING A "PUBLIC PURPOSE."

By a unanimous decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth, handed down on November 21, 1939, the Housing Authority Law enacted in 1938 has been declared constitutional.

In a ten-page opinion written for the Court by Mr. Justice Qua, involving a ten taxpayers' petition against the Holyoke Housing Authority and the City of Holyoke, the Court stated the following:

"It is unnecessary to dilate at length upon the pernicious influence of slums, upon the manner in which that influence may be found to reach out and to affect an entire community, lowering moral standards and increasing the cost to all of police, fire and health protection. . . . The elimination of slums can be found to be a direct benefit and advantage to all of the people, to be a matter not readily approached through private initiative but demanding a coordinated effort by a single authority, to be in line with the purposes of promoting the public safety, health and welfare for which the government of the Commonwealth was established, and to require for its successful accomplishment the exercise of the power of eminent domain. . . . It may well be deemed to rise to the dignity of a public service. . . .

"The real purpose of the statute is . . . the elimination of slums and unsafe and unsanitary dwellings, and the provision by public funds of low-rent housing is only a means by which the main object is to be accomplished. The statute as a whole is designed to serve a public need, and the money expended for low-rent housing, as well as that expended for slum clearance, is for a public use. . . .

"As soon as it is established that the primary purpose of the statute is a public purpose, the various provisions for the creation of housing authorities, selection of the site, cooperation by municipalities, exercise of the right of eminent domain and exemption from taxation take their appropriate places as legitimate parts of the entire plan. . . .

"We hold that the Housing Authority Law is a valid exercise of the broad legislative power granted to the General Court by Article 4, section 1, chapter 1, of Part II of the Constitution. . . ."

business on a bicycle while our competitor cities travel in the air. Let us embrace this housing program as a first step in the direction of a new Boston.

As I remarked at the outset, a discussion of Public Housing usually leads to many fields of related interest.

IN TIME OF WAR.

War is on our minds today — preparation for the defense of America. Decent housing will give America better soldiers at the hour of need, by building healthier, stronger men and that part of our population upon whom we must rely for defense of our nation.

God forbid that Boston should ever look on a sky filled with enemy bombers! What terror would result in the congested areas of wooden housing in Boston! Splintering wood flying in every direction and the hot sparks from overturned stoves and heaters would start a fire that wouldn't stop until the entire city was laid to waste.

I wonder if it occurred to you as it did to me as we went around today that in the cellars of these project houses, with four concrete floors above, that there might be a fighting chance for life.

Returning to our main discussion, may I summarize:

1. Legislative bodies, Federal and State, consider slum clearance a proper function of Government.

2. Courts have upheld them in this view.

3. Subsidies have been provided to make slum clearance possible.

4. Costs of these subsidies are levied on the people of this country as a whole, and the people of Boston must pay their share.

5. In order to receive some of the benefits, the City of Boston is called upon to exempt from taxation the properties constructed under the Subsidy Program, and to accept a service charge.

I have attempted to outline the tremendous benefits which will result from cooperation to the fullest degree in this program. Your Authority has one of the largest outstanding commitments for Federal funds among the large cities of America and I think that in the eleven months, since you entered into a cooperative agreement with us, that we have demonstrated our ability to carry out these large-scale undertakings with speed and efficiency. Because the cooperation agreement between the City of Boston and the Boston Housing Authority is limited to projects costing $27,000,000 we have requested an amendment of our agreement to permit us to use all the money available to Boston.

Other cities in the Commonwealth, which have failed to act, have seen sums intended for them sent elsewhere.

In order that our less fortunate fellow citizens may not be deprived of the profits of this great housing program, and, to be sure, in order that the city as a whole may not be deprived of the multi-fold advantages of participation in this program, on behalf of the Authority, I wish respectfully to urge the City Council to insure the continuance of our activities by prompt approval of the pending amendment of the Cooperation Agreement.

The itinerary undertaken was as follows:

From Statler Hotel to Charles street to Poplar to Auburn to Leverett to Brighton to Allen to Spring to Willard to Lowell to Cotting to Nashua streets to West Boston Bridge to Prison Point Bridge to Austin street to Rutherford avenue to City square to Chelsea to Bainbridge to Charlestown project thence to Decatur to Medford to Lexington to Bunker Hill to Carney to Medford to Polk to Bunker Hill to Vine to Chelsea streets over bridge to Chelsea to Williams to Pearl streets and over Meridian Street Bridge to Condor to Border streets to Central square, continue on Border to Maverick to New to Sumner to Border to Maverick to Liverpool to Sumner to Jeffries to Everett to Airport street to Maverick to Orleans to Porter to Tunnel to Cross to Hanover to Commercial to Atlantic avenue to Congress to Dorchester avenue to Division street to McAllen street to Broadway to A street to Silver to D to West Eighth to East Eighth, Old Harbor to Dunham to East Ninth to Dorchester to Southampton to Northampton to Shawmut avenue to Lenox to Tremont to Kendall to Shawmut avenue to Ruggles to Dempster to Ward to Phillips to Smith to Faxon to Tremont to St. Alphonsus to Huntington avenue to Ruggles to Columbus avenue to Warren avenue to West Brookline to Newland to Upton to Shawmut avenue to Waltham to Harrison avenue to Malden to Meander to East Dedham to Harrison avenue to Ryan to Mystic to East Brookline to West Brookline to Warren avenue to Columbus avenue to Statler.

PRAISE FOR MAYOR TOBIN FOR CARE OF STREETS.

His Honor the Mayor is in receipt of a communication from the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts, Incorporated, which reads as follows:

BOSTON, November 15, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—May we extend to you our sincere thanks for the aggressive stand you have taken in the matter of street repairs since assuming office, especially in Adams square, North Washington street and Atlantic avenue.

Our people have often remarked that no such attention has been given to our city streets by any Chief Executive since the days of Hon. P. A. Collins who, we understand, took a personal pride in the condition of the streets of Boston.

Yours very truly,

MOTOR TRUCK CLUB OF MASSACHUSETTS, INC.,
E. C. BENWAY, Manager.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, November 10, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—On May 12, 1939, permission was given to award contracts on the basis of quotations on ready-mixed concrete publicly opened and read at this office on April 21, 1939. The totals of these contracts were: Crystal Concrete Company, $6,105.08; Watertown Builders Supply Company, $3,741.44; and J. P. O'Connell Company, $560.

Requisition No. 692 of this contract called for 360 cubic yards of 1-2½-5 ready-mixed concrete for delivery to various streets in Charlestown, on which the prices submitted were as follows:

Crystal Concrete Company, total, $1,908; discount, 1 per cent; net total, $1,888.92; J. P. O'Connell Company, total, $1,980; discount, 5 per cent; net total, $1,881; Watertown Builders Supply Company, total, $1,915.20; discount, 2 per cent; net total, $1,876.90; J. H. McNamara, Incorporated, total, $2,124; discount, 50 cents per cubic yard; net total, $1,944.

Although this item was awarded to the lowest bidder, the Watertown Builders Supply Company, and was included in the contract drawn up for this firm, through an error in this office a purchase order was issued to J. P. O'Connell Company, the second lowest bidder. The J. P. O'Connell Company subsequently delivered this 360 cubic yards and it was accepted by the Paving Division. No delivery was made on this item by the Watertown Builders Supply Company.

Therefore, permission is respectfully requested to award a contract without further advertising to the J. P. O'Connell Company in the amount of $1,980, less a cash discount of 5 per cent for payment in ten days.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN A. BREEN,
Superintendent of Supplies

NEW FEES FOR BOAT MOORING.

The Mayor has approved the following request of the Public Works Commissioner:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, November 8, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—In order to increase the revenue derived from the issuance of permits granted by this department and at the same time to establish fees that it was presumed were reasonable and fair, a Revised Schedule of Permit Fees was established in this department on January 3 of the current year.

The revenue derived has measured up to expectations, with the result that the department will receive from this source approximately twice as much money this year as was received last year, due, principally, to a general increase in fees which, incidentally, was recommended by the committee appointed by your Honor in 1933 to study the fees in effect at that time.

There is one classification of fees, however, that pertaining to the mooring of boats, where the revenue has actually decreased, due, unquestionably, to the fact that the fees charged for this service are exorbitant. The following table will show the fees charged for this service prior to January 3 of the current year, and also the Revised Schedule of Fees which has been in effect this year:

	In Effect Prior to January 3 of This Year.	Revised Schedule in Effect During the Current Year.
Mooring hand-propelled boats	$2 00 per year	$1 00 per month
Mooring boats under 25 feet	7 00 per year	5 00 per month
Mooring boats under 35 feet	10 00 per year	6 00 per month
Mooring boats under 45 feet	20 00 per year	10 00 per month
Mooring boats under 55 feet	30 00 per year	15 00 per month
Mooring boats under 65 feet	40 00 per year	20 00 per month
Mooring boats over 65 feet	50 cents for each additional foot, per year.	50 cents for each additional foot over 65 feet, per month.

At this time I wish to call your attention to the substantial increase in the revised rates as compared with the rates in effect prior to the current year. I am of the opinion that more revenue will accrue to the city and the charges would be more reasonable and fair to those persons wishing to moor boats to the structures under the control of this department, if the rates now in effect were reduced.

Therefore, I respectfully request your approval to the establishing of the following schedule, effective November 15, 1939, for the fees to be charged for permits granted for the mooring of boats to structures under the control of the Public Works Department:

Mooring Boats:
Mooring hand-propelled boats	$0 50 per month
Mooring boats not in excess of 25 feet long	1 50 per month
Mooring boats in excess of 25 feet but not over 35 feet long	2 00 per month
Mooring boats in excess of 35 feet but not over 45 feet long	3 00 per month
Mooring boats in excess of 45 feet but not over 55 feet long	5 00 per month
Mooring boats in excess of 45 feet but not over 65 feet long	6 00 per month
Mooring boats over 65 feet long	50 cents per month for each additional foot in excess of 65 feet.

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR TOBIN MOVES TO SPEED
TRAFFIC FLOW AT ANDREW
SQUARE AND PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

Upon November 16 the following was issued from the office of the Mayor:

To alleviate the traffic hazard in Andrew square, South Boston, Mayor Maurice J. Tobin arranged for a meeting between the Traffic Commission and the Boston Elevated officials to devise some way to separate the varied vehicular and street car movements so as to obtain a smoother traffic flow through the square and provide pedestrians with a safer crossing.

There has been a steady increase in the traffic accidents in Andrew square from 1936 to date.

In 1936 there were eight accidents; in 1937 there were fifteen accidents; in 1938 there were seventeen accidents; in 1939, up to October 1, there were thirteen accidents. One person was killed in May, 1937, and another in April, 1939.

At a meeting held in President Edward Dana's office, in the Park Square Building, on November 16 there were, representing the Traffic Commission, Traffic Commissioner William P. Hickey and three engineers of the Traffic Commission, P. T. Desmond, T. J. O'Connor and J. M. Galeota. The Boston Elevated was represented by President Edward Dana, H. M. Stewart, Superintendent of Maintenance, D. D. Hall, Superintendent of Transportation, and John P. Banks, Superintendent of Transportation. Mr. Dana stated that he would recommend to the trustees that the company relocate its street car tracks so as to circulate around an island to be constructed by the City of Boston in the center of Andrew square. It is estimated that these changes will cost the Boston Elevated Railway about $7,000 and the City of Boston will expend in the neighborhood of $2,000.

Judge Leo H. Leary of the South Boston Municipal Court has been very much interested in procuring relief from the extremely hazardous traffic movements that obtain in Andrew square, and it is the opinion of William P. Hickey, Traffic Commissioner, that the proposed changes will, to a great extent, lessen the accident hazard in this square.

The Traffic Commission for the past two months has been maintaining stanchions, creating an oval-shaped barrier in the square which causes vehicular traffic to rotate around it. This barrier has reduced the congestion and hazard by 75 per cent. The new scheme which will rotate the street cars around the island will remove a possible accident point where the street car and the traffic meet head-on.

MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 407.

The resignation of Patrolman Bruce P. Loudin of Division 18 having been presented while charges are pending against him, it is hereby accepted, to take effect as of November 17, 1939, at 7.45 o'clock a. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

General Order No. 408.

Patrolman Thomas F. Farrell of Division 11 is commended for efficient police duty performed on November 2, 1939, in connection with the capture of two men armed with loaded revolvers who intended to hold up a Dorchester bank.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize and commend Patrolman Farrell for his keen observation and devotion to duty shown while not on duty, whose prompt action probably prevented a serious crime, as well as the capture of two men with criminal records who confessed to a previous robbery of a South Boston bank.

In addition, Patrolman Farrell is granted three days' extra vacation.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

General Order No. 409.

The commissioner, having in mind the many extra hours of duty performed and the many sacrifices which necessarily follow to the members of the Force caused by extra details on the occasion of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention, as well as the many extra hours of duty spent on Election Day and Halloween, wishes the members of the Force who were called upon to perform this extra service to know of his sincere appreciation for the praiseworthy manner in which those duties were performed.

In consideration thereof, the commissioner is pleased to extend by three days the vacation period of all officers who performed extra duty on these occasions.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

General Order No. 410.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Daley, Dunn and Dorsey, having heard by reference a complaint made by Capt. Joseph McKinnon, Division 6, against William H. Stanley, patrolman, Division 6, for alleged violation of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer and neglect of duty, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty as charged.

The commissioner accepts the finding and the recommendation of the Trial Board and hereby orders that the said Patrolman William H. Stanley be suspended from duty for a period of ten days, effective as of 7:45 a. m., November 10, 1939, and at the expiration of said suspension he perform 105 hours' punishment duty.

Civil Service Rule 23, Section 3, requires approval of the Civil Service Commission before reinstatement.

Rule 23.

"Section 3. With the consent of the Commissioner upon good cause shown, an appointing officer may reinstate in the same position or in a position in the same class and grade any person who has been separated from the service; provided, however, that the Commissioner shall not allow reinstatement of a person discharged for cause."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

VETO OF NAME "CHARLES E. MACKEY SQUARE."

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 8, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my signature and disapproved, the order of your Honorable Body to name the junction of Preble street and Old Colony avenue, Charles E. Mackey square.

This particular location in 1920 was designated Thomas S. Lawton square, in honor of a soldier who lost his life in the service of the United States in the World War, and it is evident that the pending order was passed without the Council being in possession of that information.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RESCISSION OF PORTION OF P. W. A. LOANS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 13, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith four orders providing for the rescission of a portion of the authority granted by your Honorable Body in previous years to issue loans to meet the cost of four P. W. A. projects. The projects and amounts involved in these orders are as follows:

High School of Practical Arts, Alterations and Additions.....	$108,500
William Howard Taft School, Additions, Robert Gould Shaw School, Gymnasium, Assembly Hall and Incidental Additions.....	336,000
Trade School, Additions and Alterations.....	1,000
	50,000
	$493,500

Work on the above projects has either actually been completed or will be completed shortly. Because of the receipt of grant payments from the Federal Government it will not be necessary for the city to issue the balances remaining in the original loan authorization. In order to remove this surplus loan authorization from the books and records of the city the adoption of the rescission orders is necessary. I respectfully recommend therefor adoption of the accompanying orders.

Respectfully,

HEAVY TRUCKING, WELD AND WATER STREETS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 13, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Traffic Commissioner relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning the prohibiting of heavy trucking on Weld and Walter streets, via Centre street, Ward 20.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Traffic Commission, November 10, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of Council order dated October 23, 1939, which reads as follows:

"Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to prohibit heavy trucking on Weld and Walter streets, via Centre street, Ward 20."

During this year, this commission excluded heavy trucks from Allandale street, South street and Robert street, in the Roslindale section of West Roxbury.

The existing rules restrict available truck routes to such an extent that the normal delivery of merchandise is stultified in the entire area.

At a meeting of this commission held on November 9, 1939, these facts were considered and it was felt that to further restrict the available routes for trucking by excluding trucks from Weld and Walter streets would visit a serious hardship on truck owners. It was, therefore, voted to reject the request contained in the Council order.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM P. HICKEY,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir,—By vote of the Board of Park Commissioners you are respectfully asked to request the City Council to transfer from the income of the George F. Parkman Fund the sum of $25,000 which is now available, to be expended under the direction of the Board of Park Commissioners as follows:

Common and Parks in Existence on January 12, 1887, Maintenance and Improvement of $25,000

When making up the budget estimates for the year 1939, a sum equal to the total yearly income of the George F. Parkman Fund was deducted from Item A-1, Permanent Employees, with the understanding that this deduction was to be replaced by the total yearly income of said Parkman Fund for 1939, to be transferred as it accrued from time to time during the year to the regular maintenance appropriation of the Park Department.

Respectfully yours,

AGE REQUIREMENTS FOR KINDERGARTENS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 10, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a letter from the School Committee Secretary relative to your order of September 25, 1939, concerning the admittance to the kindergartens this year of children who have reached the age of four years, six months on or before October 1, and to admit to the first grade children who were five years, six months on or before that date.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
School Committee, October 10, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the City Council on September 25, 1939, an order was passed requesting the School Committee, through your Honor, to admit to the kindergartens this year children who have reached the age of four years, six months on or before October 1, and to admit to the first grade children who were five years, six months on or before that date.

The School Committee has directed me to inform the Council, through your Honor, that under the regulations, four years, six months on September 1 is the age established for admission to the kindergartens, and five years, six months on September 1 is the age for admission to the first grade. This year the School Committee modified this requirement, for this year only, so as to permit children who were four years, six months on September 7, the opening day of school, to enter the kindergartens and agreed to five years, six months on September 7, for admission to the first grade.

The School Committee believes that the age as now established is educationally sound and in conformity with the educational policy throughout the country. It seems to the Committee that it is inadvisable to make further change in the admission age requirement this year.

Respectfully yours,
ELLEN M. CRONIN, Secretary.

The following was received:

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Police Commissioner relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning the assigning of additional foot patrolmen to police the outlying area of the Grove Hall section of Dorchester, particularly from Quincy street and Blue Hill avenue to Columbia road and Quincy street, over Washington street to Columbia road, more particularly in night patrol of the district.

City of Boston,
Police Department, November 6, 1939.
Mr. William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

My dear Mr. Doyle,—I have your communication of October 31, together with order of the City Council relative to the assignment of additional foot patrolmen to the Grove Hall section of Dorchester.

This area is covered at all times by a radio car, and is known as Sector 9-R. This section also comprises Routes 15 and 16 and there are two foot patrolmen assigned there during the day-time and first-half nights. As Route 16 is a dividing route it is necessary to divide it on the last-half or morning watch.

Under the circumstances, and in view of the limited number of patrolmen available, it would appear that this section is being covered as well as possible.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH F. TIMILTY,
Police Commissioner.

ADDITIONAL FIREMEN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 10, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a letter from the Fire Commissioner relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning the advisability of placing additional firemen in the Boston Fire Department to fill the vacancies caused by death, retirement, etc.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, November 2, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the City Council order of October 23, 1939, concerning the advisability of placing additional firemen in the Boston Fire Department to fill the vacancies caused by death, retirements, etc., I wish to report that it is the desire of the Fire Commissioner that there be never less than one thousand active privates available for duty under our present two-platoon system, and that all vacancies in the ranks of the officers be filled as quickly as possible.

In conformity with this belief vacancies in the officers' ranks have been filled promptly during the year 1938 and up to the present time. Now there are few vacancies and these places will be filled as soon as new privates are available to replace the officers promoted.

At the present time we have about nine hundred privates available for active duty at fires. There are fifty disabled men in our Fire Prevention Bureau, and the normal average on injured leave runs from twenty-five to fifty, plus another twenty-five assigned to the Shop, Fire Alarm Division, etc.

It is the hope of the Fire Commissioner that within a short period of time that the firemen's hours, now eighty-four a week, will be reduced to seventy-six hours. This can be done by installation of what is known as the "elimination shift," now in operation in Cambridge and other communities near Boston. Installation of this shift will require the addition of one man for every man in the department. By retrenchment and by consolidation I am hoping that, when possible, 100 privates will be appointed to the department, and at the same time we will be able to install the elimination shift in the downtown fire houses.

By reorganizing the hours of the firemen and by effecting consolidations this plan can be worked out so that it will not cost the taxpayers any more money than the pay roll for the Fire Department was for 1938.

Respectfully yours,
WM. ARTHUR REILLY,
Fire Commissioner.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the memorandum from your office, dated October 31, 1939, regarding City Council order of October 23, 1939, reading as follows:

"Ordered, That the City Collector be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to rescind his decision to charge all taxpayers who do not make payments on or before November 1st, interest on their bills retroactive to October 1st."

The collector has made no decision that taxpayers who do not make payments on or before November 1st shall be charged interest on their bills retroactive to October 1st.

I regret extremely that this is not within my discretionary power, but the matter of interest to be charged is covered by section 57 of chapter 59 of the General Laws, which provides that, "Interest shall be paid . . . on all taxes remaining unpaid after November first of the year in which they are payable, computed from October first of such year . . ."

City of Boston,

William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.
Dear Sir,—I have your memorandum of October 31, with inclosure, order from the City Council relative to repairs to the shower baths in the Aquarium, etc.

The shower baths in question have been discontinued for a number of years, due to the fact that the high-water level is only eight inches below the floor of the Aquarium. At high tide this water cannot be carried away, and the continuous run of water, if showers were made available at all times, would flood the basement of the Aquarium.

The Aquarium basement has thousands of dollars' worth of material there which I could not allow to be damaged by water.

I will, however, have the showers gone over and it might be possible to use them on a Sunday afternoon for an hour or two, but continuous showers are out of the question.

REOPENING OF RETIREMENT SYSTEM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 9, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a communication from the Boston Retirement Board in answer to your order of October 23, 1939, to consider the advisability of reopening the system to employees who failed to join it in 1923.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Boston Retirement Board,
October 27, 1939.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—This is in answer to the order of the City Council requesting the Boston Retirement Board to consider the advisability of reopening the System to permit school teachers who failed to join it in 1923 to now become members.

The statute allows any present employee who failed to join the System in 1923 to come in at any time as a "New Entrant" by renouncing his other pension benefits, but, of course, the intention of the order is to permit this class of employees now to join and in some way obtain credit for service during the intervening time.

This matter was agitated on several occasions and the Retirement Board and the various Mayors gave it very careful consideration.

The System was held open for a year beginning February 1, 1923, and was reopened in 1925. Without advising or urging any employee to join, every effort was made to present to the school teachers the presumed advantages to them of the contributory retirement system over their own free pension system. The question was fully discussed by the various teachers' organizations and a considerable number of teachers chose to remain in the old system.

Sixteen years have elapsed, and to obtain the required legislation to reopen the System would take two years more, making a total of eighteen years. In those eighteen years the contributions, with interest at four per cent compounded annually, of the teachers and other employees who joined the System in the beginning will have amounted in each case to a sum approximately equal to the average yearly salary for the period.

Therefore, to allow those who failed to enter the System to join it in 1941 on the same basis and with the same benefits as those who joined it in 1923, it would be necessary to exact from each of them the contribution of a year's salary. Any other course would be obviously unfair to those who have contributed four per cent of their salaries yearly for the past sixteen years.

In view of the almost prohibitive contribution required and the additional financial burden which would be entailed on the city, the Board is of the opinion that the circumstances do not require or warrant the reopening of the System.

Respectfully,
W. J. DOYLE, Chairman.

STATUS OF YOUNG'S HOTEL TAXES.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to promptly advise the City Council:

1. The exact status of the tax title proceedings with reference to the so-called Young's Hotel property.

2. The amount of unpaid taxes, interest and costs, in detail, still outstanding against this property.

Ordered, That the City Collector be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council the amount due the City of Boston for each tax year from the owners of the so-called Young's Hotel property, including accrued unpaid taxes, interest and costs.

Coun. WILSON—It appears that after many months the various divisions of the Municipal Court have finally been moved back to Pemberton square, which leaves the Young's Hotel property again vacant. I have been somewhat surprised during the years at the advantageous position of the property which, we might say, is included in the so-called "favored nation clause." It would be interesting to know the reason, when we see so many other properties all over the City of Boston sold for taxes and after several years see them put through the Land Court, to outlaw redemption of title. Of course, I realize that while the Municipal Court was in Young's Hotel we took money out of one pocket and put it into the other. In other words, we were charging money to the Court House as a county proposition, on the one hand, and on the other hand we were assured that the value of such use of the property was applied to unpaid taxes and that credit was given for the unpaid taxes, interest and costs of the preceding years. Therefore, this is now an opportune time to take account of stock and find out what outstanding taxes, interest and costs are now due on this property. If there is any amount now due and payable and outstanding, it seems to me that the time has arrived when the owners of this particular property, favored for so long, should fall in line with the rest of the taxpayers of the City of Boston.

The orders were passed under suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALKS, WARD 21.

Coun. AGNEW offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Bay State road, south side, 312 feet east of Ashby street (No. 278) to 260 feet easterly (No. 236), Ward 21, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

CONFERENCE RE FIVE-CENT FARES ZONES.

Coun. CAREY offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to promptly arrange for a conference between the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, members of the City Council and himself, with a view to adjusting the inequalities in the schedule of five-cent fare zones recently put into effect in the various sections of Boston.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, we have had several orders introduced here since the change was made in the schedules of a number of five-cent fare zones. Those orders have requested that there be at least a delay and a proper study of the question before the new schedules were put into effect. Nothing seems to have been done about it, however. The change is certainly working a great deal of hardship on many riders all over our city, as well as on operators of buses and cars who are continually being called upon to explain the situation to the patrons of the road. I have seen buses delayed seven to eight minutes while the operators were trying to explain the change to riders. Certainly, our people do not understand the situation, and a great hardship is being imposed upon them by this new plan. A number of orders have been introduced here asking that the matter be more thoroughly considered, and I think it is now time that something should be done about it. The riding public are paying the freight, both in the fares they pay and in the deficits that they are obliged to help meet. It must be evident to everybody that a plan which is causing such great inconvenience and hardship, both to the public and to the operators of the buses and cars, should be carefully examined into, so that all the facts may be understood. Therefore, I have introduced this order requesting the Mayor to arrange for a conference between the trustees of the Elevated, the members of the City Council and himself, with a view to adjusting the inequalities in the schedule of five-cent fare zones recently put into effect in the various sections of Boston. I trust that such a committee will be appointed, so that we may all sit down together and talk over the disadvantages that the change has brought about, and perhaps arrive at some reasonable remedy.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

RECESS.

"RELIEF" DECLINING.

Two-thirds of the nation's relief expenditures in recent years has been centered in ten industrial states, the "Year Book's" section on Financing Relief and Recovery points out. Half the Federal Work Relief Funds and two-thirds of all available funds have been expended in the fifty largest cities, including about 25 per cent of the population. Industrial urban population is more vulnerable to unemployment. In addition, living costs are higher, requiring greater relief allotments, and the cost of giving employment to a city group is higher than in rural areas.

MAYOR TOBIN APPEALS TO ALL CITIZENS TO PURCHASE CHRISTMAS SEALS—IN RADIO BROADCAST OVER STATION WEEI CHIEF EXECUTIVE REMINDS ALL OF WORK BEING DONE IN AID OF THOSE SUFFERING FROM TUBERCULOSIS AND IMPORTANT PART SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS PLAYS IN ENABLING THOSE INTERESTED IN WORK TO CARRY-ON—COMMENDS WORK DONE AT PRENDERGAST PREVENTORIUM FOR CHILDREN OF COMMUNITY.

Mayor Tobin made an appeal to the citizens of Boston for aid in the Christmas Seal sale, in a radio broadcast over Station WEEI, on Wednesday, November 29:

Ladies and Gentlemen.

I am indeed very happy to have a brief opportunity to remind the citizens of Boston that once again the annual sale of Christmas Seals has begun. For more years than I can recall, the sale of these seals has been an annual institution in our city. Gay, decorative and useful, the Christmas Seals which we purchase are a source of income which contributes in some measure to the health and happiness of those unfortunates who have been touched with the flame of the great white scourge—tuberculosis.

With no hesitation whatsoever, I give to this sale my unbounded approval. The Christmas Season for most of us is a happy period. It is a time of joy and thanksgiving, when the hearts of men are open, and our generous and charitable impulses are revived by thoughts of Him who is the giver of all good things. It is the one time during the year when most of us act upon the great command of God Himself—that we love our neighbor as ourselves. It is the time of year when we are most likely to think a little less of ourselves, and a little more of others.

Comparatively speaking, I know of no more satisfactory and beneficial way of acting on our charitable impulses than by the purchase of Christmas Seals. My purchase and your purchase, plus the purchases of thousands of others, means free beds at the Prendergast Preventorium for children threatened with tuberculosis—a disease that would blight their lives and destroy their futures. Purchase of these seals means that you and I contribute to an educational campaign for the prevention and control of tuberculosis, a campaign that is continuous, and which, during the years it has been conducted, has undoubtedly saved the lives and spared to society untold thousands of individuals.

The Christmas Season is always a happier season if down deep in our hearts we know we have spread a little sunshine and a little happiness to others less fortunate than we. The great work the Prendergast Preventorium has done in the years of its existence deserves the commendation of all. It has been a noble work, done in the name of humanity and in the name of God—Creator of all.

A Christmas card or package upon which is affixed a Christmas Seal always seems a little more complete and a little more expressive of the season. May I, in the name of little children over whose heads is the dread shadow of tuberculosis, appeal this day that all who can afford it buy Christmas Seals. No matter how small your purchase you will be contributing to a worthy charity, a traditional charity, which will bring you a sense of duty well done and additional happiness on Christmas Day.

Thank you!

MAYOR TOBIN WINS HIGH PRAISE FOR CONDUCT OF HIS ADMINISTRATION.

The following letter has been received at the office of the Mayor:

WORLD WIDE COMMUNION OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S. A., 41 NIXON STREET, DORCHESTER,
November 22, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
City Hall, Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Surely every right-thinking citizen of Boston feels proud of our present Mayor and his administration. It is because of your clear-cut deliverances on all matters concerning the welfare of the city that I feel impelled to write this note. Boston was so long misgoverned, it seems like an act of emancipation had again been signed in Boston. Year after year the mounting tax bills made owning a home in the city a burden. It has been such a relief this past year to see the tax rate drop that new courage has been given home owners.

With sincere appreciation of a Mayor whom we can honor, this year Boston should have a real Thanksgiving.

Wishing you and yours all the blessings promised the upright, and praying that you may be given health and strength to continue the fine work of your arduous office as Mayor of Boston,

Sincerely yours,

(Rev.) JOHN A. MCCLELLAND.

MAKES APPEAL TO MAYOR TO AID IN HAVING GALWAY, EIRE, USED AS PORT OF SHIPMENT FOR AMERICAN GOODS.

The following cable was received:

November 23, 1939.

HIS EXCELLENCY, MAURICE TOBIN, Mayor, Boston.

Galway Harbour Commissioners have unanimously decided to seek the assistance of Your Excellency and other eminent Americans in bringing before your Government and American shipping interests the unrivalled position of Galway Port in the present emergency. As you know, this port can be approached directly from the Atlantic and is free therefore from the dangers of mine-strewn channels. Consensus of expert opinion in the past always stressed the strong commercially strategic position of Galway Port in wartime and this position is now immensely strengthened by the neutrality of Eire.

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor, Boston, U. S. A.

We respectfully suggest through you to your illustrious President that the link between your great country and Europe can be maintained with safety by American shipping using the historic Port of Galway.

EAMON COBETT,
Chairman, Commissioners.
JOSEPH COSTELLO,
Mayor of Galway.

Such assessments must be in proportion to the benefits to each property and must not, in any case, exceed one-fourth of the fair value of the property in question. These special assessments are payable in the same manner as other municipal improvement costs; that is, in ten annual equal installments, paid at the same time and place as the March 1 installment of ordinary taxes in Iowa. Any property owner may pay off the unpaid portion of such tax at any time. Interest on the deferred payment must not exceed 6 per cent.

AMBULANCE CHASING, CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 20, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Boston City Hospital President, Board of Trustees, relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning what disciplinary and corrective measures, if any, have been taken at the City Hospital with reference to certain employees and doctors acting in collusion with so-called "ambulance chasing" attorneys.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Hospital Department, November 13, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held on November 10, the following order of the City Council was presented:

"Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston City Hospital be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council what disciplinary and corrective measures, if any, have been taken at the City Hospital with reference to certain employees and doctors acting in collusion with so-called 'ambulance chasing' attorneys."

I am inclosing a copy of a communication sent to you on August 23, 1939, concerning this matter.

I am also inclosing a copy of a statement, presented to the Finance Commission on September 20, 1939, with reference to this matter.

Respectfully yours,
CARL DREYFUS,
President, Board of Trustees.

City of Boston,
Hospital Department, August 23, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—Yesterday, August 22, Mr. Robert Cuniff of the Finance Commission called me, saying that it was his desire to have the trustees meet the members of the Finance Commission next week. He said he wished to discuss certain questions concerning nursing and ambulance chasing.

Later in the day, I saw an article in the Boston American which stated that the Finance Commission was going to reopen the probe into conditions at the hospital concerning alleged ambulance chasing, this as the result of a complaint of Robert G. Wilson, Jr., of Dorchester, an attorney and member of the City Council. The complaint was that a patient at the Boston City Hospital who had requested Mr. Wilson to handle his case had been approached by alleged ambulance chasers who had succeeded into inducing him to turn the case over to them for management.

The article in the American did not carry the name of the patient. Last night, however, I located Robert G. Wilson at his summer home in Beverly Farms and learned from him that the patient's name was Dennis McCarthy, who lived at 33 Pine street, South End.

The American also stated that an officer of the Boston Fire Department occupied an adjoining bed. This patient has been located, and he is Joseph Dunn, a fire captain. I have talked with Mr. Dunn, and he tells me that Mr. McCarthy had no visitors except a sister who visited him only a few times. He did, however, see one visitor who came, how many times he is not certain, but who did come, he is sure, several times to visit Mr. McCarthy. He came always at the visiting period with the other visitors, between 6 and 6.30 in the evening.

The head nurse on the ward is on vacation; therefore, it is impossible to get any information from her.

Two of the orderlies who worked on the ward during the time that Mr. McCarthy was a patient there have been interviewed, but they are unable to furnish any information.

Captain Dunn tells me that Mr. McCarthy had practically no visitors, the only visitor other than his sister being the man who was unknown to the captain, who came in on several evenings with the rest of the visitors.

Ambulance chasing has gone on for many years. The trustees have been conscious of its existence. They have made every attempt in the hospital to stamp it out. Nurses, doctors and visiting men have all been instructed to report at once to the administration any irregularities. No patient is allowed to sign any document or to engage in any legal business except in the presence of an official of the hospital. No lawyer is allowed to interview any patient except upon the written permission of the patient himself. No patient is allowed to be transferred from one service to another except as the result of an official consultation between the doctors in charge of the services involved.

Legislation was enacted last year in an attempt to stop so-called "ambulance chasing."

On December 12, 1938, the trustees of the Boston City Hospital wrote Mr. Willard B. Luther of the Grievance Committee a communication, copy of which is inclosed, requesting that the Bar Association take whatever action it thought proper and made available to them all the information which we possessed concerning this matter.

In December, 1938, the trustees wrote to Mr. Henry Parkman, Corporation Counsel, asking him to investigate the alleged ambulance chasing. Final reports were returned from the Law Department to the trustees in March of 1939.

On July 7, 1939, the trustees wrote to Mr. Henry Parkman, copy of which letter is inclosed, asking him to take whatever action he deemed fit and also expressing a willingness to have all material turned over to the Boston Bar Association.

It is impossible at this time to get out a fuller report, but it is very evident that the alleged ambulance chaser who came to see Mr. McCarthy came in as a regular visitor. Every safeguard has been thrown around the patients. Every attempt has been made to keep out ambulance chasers, but where patients are allowed two visitors between 2 and 3 p. m. and one visitor between 6 and 6.30 p. m., if some attorney or ambulance chaser comes representing himself as a friend or relative of the patient it is impossible to devise some system that will keep people of this sort out.

Although patients are allowed to sign no legal documents, it is almost impossible for nurses on busy wards to watch everything that goes on.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES W. MANARY, M. D.,
Superintendent.

On November 28, 1938, the Senior Staff of the Boston City Hospital recommended that no patient be transferred from one service to another until seen in consultation by the chief of both the service transferred from and the service transferred to. This was recommended by the Staff in order to make it impossible for lawyers to select doctors to care for their accident cases. This regulation has been put into effect.

On December 1, 1938, the Boston Finance Commission called attention to the activities of certain doctors and lawyers engaged in actual solicitations of legal work at the Boston City Hospital.

On December 12, 1938, the trustees of the Boston City Hospital reported the matter to Mr. Willard B. Luther, chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Boston Bar Association, and requested in this communication that the Bar Association take such action as it deemed proper. Mr. Luther was supplied with a copy of the original report submitted as the result of investigation by the Finance Commission and also memoranda on certain other cases.

On December 12, 1938, the trustees voted that no attorney or claim adjuster shall be permitted to interview any patient without written request of said patient or, in case the said patient is unable to make this request, his or her nearest relative shall write the same. In visiting the patient, an executive of this hospital must accompany the claim agent or attorney.

On December 15, 1938, Mr. Willard B. Luther, chairman of the Grievance Committee, in a communication addressed to the President of the Board of Trustees of the Boston City Hospital, acknowledged receipt of the letter of December 12, 1938, with its inclosures. Mr. Luther informed the trustees that the lawyers mentioned in the report concerning the Boston City Hospital were already under investigation.

During this same interval the trustees conferred with the Corporation Counsel of the City of Boston, and the latter office made exhaustive investigation involving a large number of cases. The trustees have advised Mr. Parkman that he may make the results of his investigation available to the Grievance Committee if he deems it advisable to do so.

On May 12, 1939, there was enacted by the Legislature an act prohibiting employees and other persons connected with hospitals from furnishing certain information about personal injury cases to attorneys-at-law or their representatives and making changes in the law relative to runners, etc. Copies of this new law have been forwarded to all executive assistants, instructors in the School of Nursing, posted in conspicuous places in the hospital, visiting men and all others have been made familiar with this new law. The Department of Public Health has already furnished us with printed copies, which are being placed, framed, in prominent places throughout the hospital.

Staff doctors, resident doctors and nurses have all been instructed to report at once to the administration any irregularities which were noticed. No lawyer has permission to interview any patient except upon the written permission of the patient himself. No patient is allowed to be transferred from one service to another without official consultation between the doctors in charge of the services involved. Every safeguard has been thrown around the patients. It will, of course, be appreciated that where patients are allowed two visitors between 2 p. m. and 3 p. m., and one visitor between 6 p. m. and 6.30 p. m., this meaning some 3,000 visitors daily, it is impossible for the hospital to identify conclusively every visitor.

It will also be realized that information concerning injured individuals who are brought to the hospital must be made available immediately to many departments. Reports of these accident cases are also telephoned at once to Police Headquarters by the police officer who is assigned to the Accident Floor for the purpose of making out official police reports for the Police Department.

The distribution of this information is necessary to the operation of the hospital and for the benefit of friends, relatives and the authorities. Every attempt is made to see that it is kept within the proper channels.

FORMER EMPLOYEES, EAST BOSTON RELIEF HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 20, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Boston City Hospital President, Board of Trustees, relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning the reinstatement of all former employees of the East Boston Relief Station in their old positions when said Relief Station reopens.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Hospital Department, November 10, 1939.
Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held today, the following order of the City Council was presented:

"Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston City Hospital be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to reinstate all former employees of the East Boston Relief Station in their old positions when said Relief Station reopens."

All of the persons who were employed at the East Boston Relief Station at the time of the closing and who were permanent were transferred to the Main Hospital. Those who were temporary were allowed to go. It will be impossible to reinstate the temporary employees as they had no Civil Service rating.

The number of employees necessary at the Relief Station with the present set-up will in all probability be much smaller than the number previously employed there. We will, however, give those who formerly worked there permanently every consideration if they are desirous of again being employed at the East Boston Relief Station.

Respectfully yours,

CARL DREYFUS,
President, Board of Trustees.

APPROPRIATION FOR LONG ISLAND INSTITUTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 20, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—Requirements for the defence of Boston Harbor have made it necessary for the War Department to direct that the Institutions Department of the city make arrangements to terminate its occupancy of several buildings located on the Federal Government reservation at Long Island. These buildings have been used for several years for dormitory purposes and at the present time house 270 male inmates. In order to comply with the War Department's request it will be necessary for the city to provide for the construction of a dormitory to house these inmates.

The Institutions Commissioner, at my direction, has studied the situation and has submitted to me sketches and drawings of a three-story fireproof dormitory building, the estimated cost of which is $235,000. This estimate carries a low cost per square foot and cubical content and appears reasonable in the light of the actual cost of buildings erected, as indicated in the following table, in former years on the island.

YEAR ERECTED.	Building.	Cost.
1926.....	4-story dormitory.....	$487,340 30
1928.....	3-story children's hospital.....	254,191 45
1932.....	Recreation building and corridor.....	276,515 06

War Department officials are very desirous that the city shall terminate its occupancy of the buildings at the earliest possible date. This means that work on the new building should start forthwith. Unfortunately, at this late period of the year it is impossible to provide the full amount required for the cost of the proposed building. Sufficient funds are available, however, to permit the preparation of plans and specifications and possibly the construction of the foundation. I propose, with the approval of your Honorable Body, to make use of these funds, and in the early part of 1940 take steps to provide the balance. I submit herewith orders providing for the transfer of $87,550.05 from available balances and respectfully recommend adoption of these orders.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $61,705.13 be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, to be expended, under the direction of the Institutions Commissioner, for Long Island Hospital, Men's Dormitory, Establishment of, said sum to be met from the special fund, Sales of City Property.

Ordered, That under the authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be, and hereby is, authorized to transfer from the appropriation for New City Hall, Plan, etc., $19,964; New Police Station and Additions to and Improvement of Existing Police Stations, $5,880.92, to the appropriation for Long Island Hospital, Men's Dormitory, Establishment of, $25,844.92.

PUBLICATION OF APPROPRIATION BALANCE TRANSFERS.

Coun. SHATTUCK offered the following:
Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider the advisability of publishing in the City Record all transfers of appropriation balances made after November.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, under the law transfers may be made by the Mayor each year after the fifteenth of November. In the past, particularly in the last year of a Mayor's term, numerous transfers have been made to create positions for people and for extravagances of various kinds. Those transfers are not passed upon here by the Council, are open to the public only through examination of the records. They are not required to be published in the City Record, and very little is known about them. The purpose of this order is to publish them in the City Record, so that the Council and the public may know about all transfers made by the Mayor after November 15 of this year. This order is not offered in criticism of his Honor the Mayor, but, looking back through the past and looking forward to the future, it would seem to be a protective measure for the public.

Coun. GALVIN—Mr. President, has this order been before the City Council before?

President MURRAY—It has not.

Coun. GALVIN—In view of the fact that these transfers have been made by Mayors for a good many years, after November 15, I wonder why the order is put in at this time. I would move that it be referred to the Executive Committee for further debate.

The motion to refer to the Executive Committee was lost.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

RECREATION AREA, DORCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:
Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to make every effort to assure a Federal project which will complete recreation area at the rear of the Dorchester High School for Girls in Codman square.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I shall be very brief. I have been in communication with regard to this matter with the head master of the Dorchester High School for Girls and the Superintendent of Construction of the Department of School Buildings, and I will submit for the minutes the letters that I have received from them in regard to this matter. [Submitting letters, which will be found at the close of the council's remarks.] The proposition is to complete the recreation area at the rear of the Dorchester High School for Girls in Codman square, and the order requests that his Honor the Mayor make every effort to assure a Federal project to that end. The completion of this recreation area is a very important and necessary thing, as I believe all the councilors who might inspect the premises would agree. I am trying to do something through this order which would be greatly for the benefit of the high school girls of that section. I trust that the order will pass, and I would also ask that the letters I have submitted be included in our minutes.

(The letters referred to are as follows:

Dorchester High School for Girls,
November 16, 1939.

Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr.,
Boston City Council.

My dear Mr. Wilson,—I thank you very much for your interest in the matter of the grading and surfacing of the land behind the Dorchester High School for Girls.

This improvement is something for which I have asked for several years. I feel that there is insufficient recreation area for girls here in Dorchester, and that this piece of land would be very useful if it could be surfaced.

I feel quite sure that Mr. Maher is interested in the project, the only difficulty being to find sufficient funds to put it through.

Thank you again for your kind interest.

Very truly yours,
ALICE M. TWIGG,
Head Master.

City of Boston,
Department of School Buildings,
November 17, 1939.

Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr.,
Boston City Council.

My dear Councilor Wilson,—I acknowledge receipt of your communication of November 14, 1939, and note what you say in reference to the improvement of the grounds at the rear of the Dorchester High School for Girls.

I have in mind for some time in the future the regrading of this lot and making it available as a recreation area for girls, as you suggest, but just at present I have no money in the project for doing this work.

I think you will agree with me that we have done something on this unsightly area to improve conditions, and I promise you that at the first opportunity we will do other work when funds are available.

With kind personal regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES J. MAHAR,
Superintendent of Construction.)

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

ADVANCE NOTICE OF WELFARE VISITORS' CALLS.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Overseers of Public Welfare be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to forward postcard or other advance notice of intended calls by investigators or welfare visitors, giving at least the approximate date of proposed visits.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I offer this order feeling that it should meet with the approval of every member of the Council. Without reflection on Mr. O'Hare or any of his predecessors, time and time again we have had the old story of the aged and infirm, and the question in many cases whether the beneficiaries should be on welfare at all. I have a letter, sent to me last week, about a lady who had been looking for old-age assistance, and the visitor gave her quite a "dressing down" because she said she had been there a number of times before and had not found the old lady. It does seem that there are plenty of visitors to look the cases up and that their work might be more successfully carried out and time saved if they should give at least an approximate date of proposed visits. When they speak of an old lady who is not in at the time of their visit, I don't know why they should expect such a person to be camped alongside of the stove for two or three weeks for fear that she might not be present when the visitor happens to drop in. She might well happen to be out at just that minute. As a matter of business proceeding, I think it would do no harm to send notice by postcard or otherwise that the visitor will call at an approximate date, say, some morning of this week. As far as the expense of giving such notice is concerned, I submit that it would be a matter of economy for the city, because, presumably, the time of the welfare visitor is worth something. They must be receiving a good salary, and such procedure will save their time. I believe that the great majority of cases on welfare rolls today are worthy cases, and, if so, the people should certainly be treated as human beings. Therefore, in all fairness to them, I would suggest that notice be sent that, within a day or two or at approximately a certain time in the week, a visitor will call, and I believe that it will be for the advantage of the city to give such advance notice.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

REQUESTED RESCISSION OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE VOTE.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston School Committee be respectfully requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to reconsider and rescind the vote taken on Thursday, November 9, 1939, which vote effects a doubling of classes in the elementary grades of the Boston school system and will also result in the dismissal of many temporary teachers.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I am aware of the fact that the point will be raised that the City Council has troubles of its own and should not attempt to question what may be done or suggest what should be done by the School Department, an independent body. But I feel that, where the expenses of the School Department aggregate about one third of what is spent by the city, every one of the twenty-two members of the Council, representing the citizens of Boston as a whole and being particularly interested and concerned with the expenditures of the city, have a right, as a matter of public interest, to interest themselves in such a matter. I certainly know of nothing of more intense public interest, in this connection, than the welfare of the pupils in our schools in the minds of their fathers and mothers. I have received notice of the vote passed by the School Committee on November 9, 1939, effecting a doubling of classes in the elementary grades of the Boston schools and resulting in the dismissal of many temporary teachers. I do not understand the motives of those who so voted. Of course, we all desire proper economy, but we should consider the effect on the pupils in our schools, and the effect upon the school teachers, of establishing classes of fifty or more rather than thirty-five or forty, which is the average in enlightened cities and towns in New England, and of doubling the classes in many cases. I might refer to an experience of my own younger days in that connection. I think I know from experience something of what it means to young boys and girls where there is such doubling of classes in the same room. I can still remember—believe it or not—a classroom in which I was placed in the old Henry L. Pierce School in Dorchester. There were nine grades in those days, and at the time I was a member of the eighth grade, and pupils of the sixth grade, through a doubling up of the classes, were placed in the same room with us. You can imagine the effect with pupils of the sixth grade occupying the rows in front of us, going through their recitations, while we, behind, were trying to study. I don't know what effect it may have on the average person to have that sort of thing going on, but I know the effect that it had on me, resulting in a complete distraction. I, personally, am so constituted that as a child at school I know I would have got a great deal more good out of my studies in that room if there had not been the pupils of the sixth grade reciting in front of us when we were trying to study and do our school work. I say that that sort of thing does the greatest amount of injury to our pupils in the grammar and primary schools. While I would favor all reasonable economies in the schools or other departments of the city, I do not think it is wise economy to treat our children in any such way, nor do I believe in times like these that we should dismiss temporary teachers who are really necessary. If there are economies which are to be attempted, it should certainly not be along the lines of having fifty or more pupils to a teacher in our schools or doubling our classes in any such way as I have referred to. I would like, in this connection, to introduce and have printed in our minutes an editorial from the Boston Post of November 15, dealing with this question. That editorial sets forth the situation in a much better way than I can express it. I understand that the School Committee meets this evening, and I trust, therefore, that the order I have offered will be passed and forwarded to the School Committee in time to be placed before the meeting. It will bring to that body the expression of twenty-two individual members of this Council, representing the different wards of this city, in favor of reconsideration and rescission of the vote taken by the School Board on November 9, showing them that we, representing our constituents, as fathers and mothers of this city, are firmly on record against the doubling up of school classes in the same room, the increase in the size of classes, and the consequent laying off of perhaps fifty or one hundred teachers in the schools of the City of Boston.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I would ask that that order be sent to the School Committee in time to come before its meeting early this evening.

(The editorial submitted by Coun. Wilson is as follows:

GOING TOO FAR.

It is possible that the School Committee, with the best of intentions, has made a mistake in doubling up classes in the elementary schools.

The claim is made that this will mean an increase in the number of pupils per class so great that the total in many classes will run from forty to fifty pupils. Such a number would seriously reduce the efficiency of the teachers concerned.

In most large cities the number of pupils in each elementary class does not run more than thirty-five. In some cities the total is even less.

Thirty-five pupils would give a teacher about all she could fairly handle.

The position of the elementary school teacher is somewhat different from that of a teacher in the higher grades.

The elementary school teacher has the entire responsibility for the pupils. She instructs them in all their studies. Naturally, she has a far closer contact with them than a teacher in the higher grades who teaches various subjects to different classes.

Elementary schools are the backbone of the school system. It is there that the youngest of school children really begin their education. The elementary studies are the foundation stones of a good education. An inadequate job in those branches can hardly be remedied later and reflects vitally on the records of pupils in the higher grades.

The elementary school teachers who will be affected are not on the permanent rolls of the department. But many have been teaching for eight or nine years. The pay is small, around $900 a year. Promotion to the permanent rolls is slow, and it is not automatic. All are graded in the manner of the civil service lists and the tests are severe.

It does not appear that the money paid to these substitute teachers is any added expense to the budget beyond what it has been. Also, it seems rather unfair, when a young woman has been teaching regularly for years at a small salary, that she should be summarily cut off the pay roll.

Such is not the case with other city departments.

The School Committee deserves praise for efforts in the line of reasonable economy. But it has been evident for some time that the school system is overloaded with supervisory officials of all kinds, and the number has increased enormously in the past twenty years.

No member of the School Committee wishes to impair the efficiency of the school system. We trust the committeemen will give careful consideration to remedying what seems a mistake.)

CLOSING OF SCHOOL CENTERS.

Coun. TAYLOR offered the following:

Ordered, That the members of the School Committee be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to reconsider and rescind their order to close the school centers from November 10 to June 1.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I have been informed that an order has been issued, as a result of action by the School Committee, to close all the school centers from November 10 to June 1. I assume that that information is correct, and that it has been done from an economy standpoint. I believe there is no question in our minds that these school centers, opening in the evening and offering great advantages to many in our city, have been well worthwhile. Certainly, they have helped greatly in the moral, educational and physical development of those who have benefited by them, and the expense to the city has been very small compared with the resulting benefit to the people. When we speak of economy, certainly the advantages to those attending the schools far outbalance the small resulting cost. The expense is very small, in any event, because the schools are open anyway and the expense would go on just the same. In my opinion, there is no proper reason for taking away the benefit to the people now using the school centers, people who ordinarily could not receive the education or the physical development there afforded.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

BUTTONWOOD STREET ONE WAY.

Coun. HUTCHINSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to make Buttonwood street, Ward 13, one way between Crescent avenue and Columbia road.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALK, CHICKATAWBUT STREET.

Coun. FISH offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Flavia street, Chickatawbut street to Oakton avenue, Ward 16, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

MUNICIPAL STADIUM.

Coun. SULLIVAN offered the following:

Ordered, That the Park Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to consider the advisability of formulating plans for the erection of a Municipal Stadium, located in some centrally accessible spot, having adequate seating capacity to attract major athletic and other outdoor events to Boston.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Mr. President, this is a plan that meets the highest approval of sporting authorities, those interested in major athletic and other outdoor events in our city. Bill Cunningham, for example, has been conducting a campaign looking to the carrying out of such a plan, and has the backing of other leading physical culture advocates. It will certainly meet with the approval of every sports fan in Boston, and it will undoubtedly result in no great expense, because of the fact that it will attract to our city many conventions and major outdoor events of different kinds. It is certainly something that would meet with the approval of a very large section of our people.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

WARD 20 IMPROVEMENTS.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out Cushing street, Ward 20, as a public highway, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out Cottage avenue, from St. Theresa avenue to Washington street, Ward 20, as a public highway, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install asphalt sidewalks on Centre street, both sides, from Spring to Washington street, Ward 20, and also on Baker street, from Spring to Centre street, both sides.

Severally passed under suspension of the rule.

GARAGES IN NEW APARTMENT CONSTRUCTION.

Coun. NORTON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Building Commissioner of Boston, through his Honor the Mayor, consider the advisability of having a study made relative to the feasibility of requiring all new apartment buildings in Boston to provide adequate garaging facilities for the occupants of said apartments.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

UNEMPLOYED SEAMEN.

Coun. NORTON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Mayor of Boston consider the advisability of having a study made relative to the ameliorating of conditions among unemployed seamen in Boston.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

THE HOUSING SITUATION IN BOSTON.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, for information I would like to inquire how the public housing question in Boston now stands. That is a matter that I wish to bring before the Council at its next meeting, to have acted upon before we close our year. I know that the Housing Authority in Boston today is considering the matter of accepting as much as can be obtained from the Federal Government along this line. I think we should consider that question very seriously before the Body adjourns for the year. So I would like to ask what the standing of the Federal Housing matter before this Body is as of the present time.

President MURRAY—I understand that the matter is before the Executive Committee.

Coun. NORTON—Well, Mr. President, I would like to call it up at the next meeting, which comes two weeks from today, and I trust that action will not be further postponed.

REMOVAL OF UNUSED CAR TRACKS.

Coun. CHASE and SHATTUCK offered the following:

Ordered, That the Public Works Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange for the removal of the unused car tracks and car track switches at the following locations: Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street; Boylston street, between Massachusetts avenue and Ipswich street; Ipswich street; and be it further Ordered, That the Public Works Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange to have the aforementioned streets repaved with smooth paving under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

DUST NUISANCE, JOSEPH LEE PLAYGROUND.

Coun. CHASE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Park Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange for the abatement of the dust nuisance existing in the area of the Joseph Lee Playground in the Fenway, caused by the dusty condition of the Athletic Field.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

COPY OF CITY SURVEY.

Coun. CHASE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Municipal Survey Committee be instructed by his Honor the Mayor to provide each member of the City Council with a list of the survey made and about to be made and the results accomplished by such surveys.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

DORMITORY LABOR CONFINED TO BOSTON CITIZENS.

Coun. CHASE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be instructed, through his Honor the Mayor, to provide in the contracts awarded for dormitory work on Long Island that only Boston citizens be employed.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, I cannot see why the City Council should not have the right to incorporate in this Long Island dormitory contract a clause that only Boston residents be employed. At the present time we have to consider the thousands and thousands of Boston citizens who are pounding the pavements, the thousands of people on the welfare rolls, well qualified to do this work, and if we are not able to get some assurance that such men will be employed, certainly something is wrong. We all know that not so long ago Boston citizens were not recognized in the housing projects. We all know that people from outside Boston, from as far away as Nebraska, were given preference over people in our city. As I have said, with so many thousands of our people pounding the streets of Boston today, we should provide every assurance possible that these people be given preference in such employment.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

ACCEPTANCE OF WENDOVER STREET.

Coun. KERRIGAN offered the following:
Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out Wendover street, Ward 7, as a public highway, under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. WILSON, at 5.17 p. m., to meet on Monday, December 4, 1939, at 2 p. m.

WATER-SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1652 Boston introduced the first American public water supply. The first mechanical pumps were used in 1761 at Bethlehem, Pa., where Hans Christiansen, an American pioneer water-supply engineer, made his pumps work "after severe struggles." In 1850 there were only 100 water plants in the United States, and as late as 1875 only 243. In 1933 there were more than 11,000 public water supplies, some serving more than one community.

CITY RECORD

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF BOSTON MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

VOL. 31.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1939.

No. 49

MAYOR TOBIN'S MUNICIPAL SURVEY COMMITTEE HAS BEEN MEANS OF SAVING HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO THE CITY AND CITIZENS IN ITS PERIOD OF OPERATION—BIGGEST ITEM WAS IN WATER INCOME DIVISION, WHERE YEARLY DEFICIT OF $434,000 WAS TURNED INTO SURPLUS OF $655,000 IN SINGLE YEAR—OTHER IMPROVEMENTS AND SAVINGS SHOWN IN REPORT OF DIRECTOR LEO T. FOSTER TO MAYOR.

Mayor Tobin, through the operations of his Municipal Survey Committee, has cut the costs of running the city by nearly a million dollars since it was set to functioning. This has been of real benefit to the taxpayers and the report of the work is winning his praise for the present administration.

The information concerning the savings was made public in a report presented to the Mayor by the Director of the Survey Committee, Leo T. Foster, and his assistant, Fred A. Moncewicz. The greatest saving to the city was shown to have been in the Water Income Division, where a continuous deficit for more than four years, ending with 1937, of $434,000 has been turned into a net surplus of $655,000 for a single year. This improvement was made by the introduction of the trickle system to enforce payment of unpaid bills.

"A general survey of the consumption of food, ice and fuel at Long Island, Deer Island, City Hospital and the Sanatorium, and the initiation of uniform methods of purchasing, have resulted in a decreased cost to the city of $220,445.48 for these items for the first ten months of 1939 as compared with the first ten months of 1937," the committee declared.

More than $12,000 has been saved since April, 1938, through changes in telephone service and in City Hospital welfare department and elsewhere, the statement continues.

The detailed report presented to the Mayor reads as follows:

BOSTON, November 7, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor of Boston, Mass.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—The following is a report of the activities of the Survey Committee covering the period February 14, 1938, to October 31, 1939.

This committee is charged with the responsibility of contacting every department of the city in a common effort to assist them in effecting sound economies, increasing revenues, and correlating their particular functions with those of other departments for the purpose of effecting a proper service to the public. Some of its activities arise from studies and recommendations made in various departments, while others are the result of requests for assistance or advice from the department heads.

It is also the purpose of this committee to consolidate the ground gained in administration and the economies effected by conducting constant check-ups in the departments concerned so that the long-range program for improvements will be adhered to.

Another function is to carry forward certain assignments of a special nature for his Honor the Mayor. Since its inception the Survey Committee has been interested directly or indirectly in the following:

COLLECTING DEPARTMENT.

1. Installation of a new system of balancing daily cash receipts.
2. Suggested reorganization of department which precluded employment of additional employees to take care of increased volume of Tax Title Division.
3. Cooperated with collector to institute procedure to collect back taxes. This project is now in operation.
4. Arranged a system with the collector to send out notices for 1938 delinquent taxes in lieu of tax title sale.
5. Cooperated with the collector in making effective the new excise tax law.
6. Suggested a new plan to the collector for the handling of Municipal Lien Certificates and the accounting of revenues therefrom. The new plan of handling these certificates by the five departments concerned should result in the rendering of better service to the public.
7. Instituted daily report of collector to various departments, reflecting daily receipts from all sources and comparative trends.

ASSESSING DEPARTMENT.

1. Arranged for new physical set-up of Assessing Department, to facilitate the proper conduct of business of this department and to serve the public more satisfactorily. Contributed ideas on administration to principal assessors, some of which have been adopted; others are under consideration. A thorough survey of procedure is now being made with C. P. A. Advisory Committee to determine the possibilities of reorganization of certain phases of the work in this department.
2. Cooperated with assessors in preparing tax bills in 1939, between September 10 and October 1. The need for this cooperation was occasioned by the late declaration of the city tax rate which was unavoidable because of tardy determination of state tax and assessments.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT ISSUES BULLETINS OF INFORMATION TO CITIZENS RELATIVE TO CONSTRUCTION OF BUILDINGS, INSTALLATION OF FUEL AND ILLUMINATING APPARATUS AND OTHER REGULATIONS—ACTION TAKEN BECAUSE MANY PERSONS, CLAIMING IGNORANCE OF THE LAWS, ASK FOR RELIEF FROM OBLIGATIONS IMPOSSIBLE TO GRANT—BULLETINS INTENDED TO ENLIGHTEN PUBLIC AND PREVENT CONFUSION.

Because of the fact that applicants for permits issued by the Building Department so often make request for relief from the requirements of law under which the department operates, pleading ignorance of the same, the Building Commissioner, James H. Mooney, has issued regulations and has planned to announce them from time to time. The four bulletins herewith appended are the first of the series to be made public. The bulletins pertain to ready-mix concrete, the use of and installation of so-called Rockwool in buildings in the City of Boston; the taking down of buildings or other structures and the installation of fuel oil, coal, illuminating gas, electric ranges in buildings in the City of Boston.

COMMISSIONER'S BULLETIN NO. 31.

BOSTON, October 26, 1938.

SUBJECT: REQUIREMENTS FOR READY-MIXED CONCRETE.

Under authority granted me by section 8, and as required under section 15, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended, the Boston Building Law, it is understood that regulations pertaining to ready-mixed concrete for use in the City of Boston will be instituted and become effective November 1, 1938, same to be in substance as follows:

1. Each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete shall submit reports weekly to the City of Boston Building Department, and in said report state the location to which the concrete has been delivered, the mix, the purpose, such as foundation, wall, pipe trench, floor slab, etc., and the date of delivery.

2. Each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete shall be required to submit to the Building Commissioner, periodically as requested, analysis of materials which in substance will probably require the sieve analysis of sand and gravel, cement tests, and mechanical analysis of coarse aggregates, also the origin of said materials, of such further tests as may be required by the Building Commissioner.

3. Each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete shall register in the office of the Building Commissioner the names of their weighers and supervisors of batch-mixing, and it shall be understood that the persons so registered shall be held accountable for the exactness of proportions of mixes as allowed under the Boston Building Law, and they shall certify to the correctness of same over their signature.

4. Each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete shall arrange for the circulation of a delivery ticket, presumably through the truck driver and concrete inspector, which will ultimately be delivered to the City of Boston Building Department, and it shall be understood that said delivery ticket will state for each and every load of concrete being delivered the proportions of the mix, the weight of the ingredients, the water content gallons per sack of cement, etc.,—and upon each delivery ticket shall appear the signature of the sworn weigher.

5. Also it shall be understood that each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete will be held accountable for the amount of water included in each batch as set forth on delivery ticket and that in no instance shall their truck operators be permitted to add additional water. It is understood that control of water at the job site will be the duty of the Building Department.

6. Each manufacturer or mixer of ready-mixed concrete will be obliged and required to submit mixed materials in the form of specimen cylinders to be tested for compression, three cylinders from each batch tested as may be periodically required by the Building Commissioner.

JAMES H. MOONEY,
Building Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S BULLETIN NO. 42.

BOSTON, February 14, 1939.

SUBJECT: REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE USE OF AND INSTALLATION OF SO-CALLED ROCKWOOL IN BUILDINGS IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

To the Entire Personnel of the Department.

By authority of section 8, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended, the following regulations are hereby established:

So-called Rockwool, which by fire test has heretofore been approved for use as fire-stopping as a substitute for brick, terra cotta or gypsum nogging, etc., may be used as a substitute for the above-named materials only under the following conditions:

A. When an owner desires to incorporate the use of so-called Rockwool for fire-stopping in his building he shall be required to file with and deliver to the Building Commissioner, two (2) samples of material, giving weight per cubic foot, and an affidavit swearing to the fact that the material approved will be installed in accordance with the requirements set forth below.

B. So-called Rockwool in bat form, placed by hand, shall be the full thickness front to back of the stud partition in which it is to be placed and shall be installed the full height of partition between shoe and plate, completely filling all openings to be inclosed by lath and plaster. Bats shall be so installed that no settlement of material will occur after installation.

C. It is understood that said so-called Rockwool fire-stopping shall be completely installed after the lathing is attached to one side of a partition and before the lathing is applied to the other side of partition, and that it shall not be concealed until viewed by an inspector in the Building Department employ.

D. So-called Rockwool other than in bat form shall be prohibited for use as fire-stopping.

E. Also it shall be understood that under no consideration shall so-called Rockwool be used as a substitute for the fire-stopping required in second and third class buildings in the exterior walls at each floor level, spaces between joists over girders and bearing partitions, or from the plate to roof boarding, or in any other location where the commissioner shall, in his opinion, require masonry fire-stopping.

JAMES H. MOONEY,
Building Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S BULLETIN NO. 49.

BOSTON, June 14, 1939.

SUBJECT: RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE TAKING DOWN OF BUILDINGS OR OTHER STRUCTURES.

Consistent with the provisions of chapter 462, Acts of 1923, section 1, amending chapter 550, Acts of 1907, section 1, the following rules and regulations governing the taking down of buildings or other structures are hereby established to become effective June 22, 1939:

1. Insurance.—In all contracts negotiated by and involving City of Boston Departments the following requirements shall be inserted in said contracts:

"Before commencing performance of this contract, the contractor shall provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under chapter 152 of the General Laws (The Workmen's Compensation Law so called) to all persons to be employed under this contract and shall continue such insurance in full force and effect during the term of this contract. Failure to provide and continue in force such insurance as aforesaid shall be deemed a material breach of this contract and shall operate as an immediate termination hereof. The contractor shall, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, conform to the provisions of section 34A of chapter 149 of the General Laws, which section is incorporated herein by reference and made a part hereof."

Also it is understood that the contractor shall provide for public liability insurance, and sufficient proof of compliance with furnishing of stipulated insurances shall be furnished to every city of Boston department in the form of certificates, all as required.

2. Permits.—All work of razing or taking down buildings or other structures shall be performed after receipt of Building Department permit and in accordance with requirements of Building Law and regulations established in the Acts mentioned above, in cooperation with Building Department inspectors.

Necessary permits shall be those issued by the Building Department, Public Works Department (sidewalk and street permits) and Health Department, all as applicable.

3. Protection of Public.—When directed by Building Department supervisors of construction, through the agency of building inspectors or otherwise, each licensed wrecker who is responsible for the work operation shall erect a properly constructed bridge and a brow and apron in location as directed by authorities mentioned above for the protection of pedestrians and vehicular traffic.

Also on each work operation the licensed wrecker shall be obliged to furnish the services of a uniformed police officer or a special police officer unless this requirement is waived by the Building Commissioner.

As required by Building and Health Departments of the City of Boston and as directed by proper authorities employed in said departments, practical methods to eliminate the hazard and nuisance of dust must be effected.

Upon completion of razing operations the licensed wrecker shall be obliged to construct a substantial fence at least three rails high with suitable anchorage and posts inclosing that portion of lot or basement and cellar areas not protected by adjacent buildings or other structures.

4. Termination of Services.—The licensed wrecker in charge of work operations shall be held accountable for the permanent termination of services, such as gas, electric, telephone, water, and sewer services, and must make all arrangements whereby same may be accomplished.

5. Precautionary Measures.—Each licensed wrecker shall be held responsible for the safety of all persons employed on his project and shall cause to be erected by a licensed builder or shorer proper shoring of any weakened portion of the structure or building, such as floors, walls, chimneys, trusses, etc., and he shall be obliged to have installed necessary shoring to protect walls of adjoining buildings which are dependent upon the structure being razed for their stability, and to this extent will be required to leave in place shorings and bracings required by the Building Department. Also, if conditions warrant, the licensed wrecker shall not proceed with the work until sufficient ties, either temporary or permanent, are installed to protect adjoining structures, all as directed by the Building Department. Also it shall be understood that in no instance will the licensed wrecker permit the loading of floors beyond their designed capacity.

Where existing chimneys service both the building or buildings to be razed and buildings adjoining they shall not be disturbed, or when a chimney is so constructed as to afford stability to a wall of an adjoining building, whether it services same or not, it shall not be disturbed unless so ordered by the Building Commissioner.

6. Extent of Work.—(a.) When a building or structure is to be so razed that no portion of same shall be left standing above the level of the surrounding grades or ground level it shall be understood to include the taking down of all materials including interior masonry walls, masonry piers, masonry and frame partitions, to the cellar or basement grade excepting the exterior foundation walls below the surrounding grade or ground level. Such exterior walls shall remain.

(b.) When buildings or other structures are only partially razed the licensed wrecker shall be responsible for the removal of all materials of any description, excepting undisturbed materials, and he shall also be responsible for the installation of proper ties, anchorage, etc., to cause the undisturbed portion of structure to be left in stable condition satisfactory to Building Department authorities.

(c.) In all razing operations all materials of every description, including rubbish and debris, shall be completely removed from the premises, and the basement and cellar areas and all other portions of building shall be left broom-clean.

(d.) Whenever a building or structure is to be removed in whole or in part the licensed wrecker will, before disturbing any supporting or structural member, remove all interior finish, lath, plaster and wall surfaces, and structural member coverings, to make accessible to view for authorized members of the Building Department all parts of the structure. Materials referred to shall be removed from the building before actual razing of the structure or portions of building is started.

JAMES H. MOONEY,
Building Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S BULLETIN NO. 50.

Revised July 11, 1939.

SUBJECT: REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE INSTALLATION OF FUEL OIL, COAL, ILLUMINATING GAS, AND ELECTRIC RANGES IN BUILDINGS IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

By authority of section 8, chapter 550, Acts of 1907, as amended, the following regulations are hereby established to become effective July 11, 1939:

These regulations are divided into two parts, first, those applying to the so-called flushback type of range which is designed to be placed against an existing or new partition, wall, or other structure, and second those applying to the type of range normally so located as to provide a space between the range and adjacent or surrounding structure.

1. FLUSHBACK TYPE RANGES.

It shall be understood that no flushback type range, heated either by fuel oil, coal, illuminating gas or electricity, shall be placed against an existing or new partition, wall, or other structure unless said partition, wall or structure is composed wholly of incombustible materials as defined in the City of Boston Building Law, and in such instances where a flushback type range is permitted to be installed against incombustible materials it shall be understood that no wood or other combustible material, shelves or cabinets shall be placed nearer than three feet above the top of the range. Also it shall be understood that no cabinet or shelf of combustible material shall be placed within 4 inches of the sides, front or back of an insulated range nor 7 inches from the sides, front or back of uninsulated ranges. Ranges installed under metal or other incombustible shelves or cabinets shall have a minimum of 18-inch clearance between the bottom of shelving, cabinets or brackets supporting same and the top of range.

2. INSULATED AND UNINSULATED RANGES NOT OF THE FLUSHBACK TYPE.

A. It shall be understood that insulated ranges not of the flushback type, heated either by fuel oil, coal, illuminating gas or electricity, shall be placed not nearer than 4 inches from new or existing walls, partitions or other structure, and also that all regulations under No. 1 above shall apply as they relate to cabinets, shelving, furniture, etc.

B. It shall be understood that all uninsulated ranges not of the flushback type, heated either by fuel oil, coal, illuminating gas or electricity, shall be placed not nearer than 7 inches from new or existing walls, partitions or other structure, and also that all regulations under No. 1 above shall apply as they relate to cabinets, shelving, furniture, etc.

JAMES H. MOONEY,
Building Commissioner.

TRAFFIC COMMISSION RULINGS.

Voted, That as urgently required by considerations of public safety and convenience, during the period of underground steam main construction, by the Boston Edison Company, estimated to be one (1) week, the following rule is effective December 1, 1939:

The following street is one way in the direction indicated:

Bulfinch Street, Downtown Boston.
From Cambridge street to Howard street.

WATER-SUPPLY DEVELOPMENT IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1652 Boston introduced the first American public water supply. The first mechanical pumps were used in 1761 at Bethlehem, Pa., where Hans Christiansen, an American pioneer water-supply engineer, made his pumps work "after severe struggles." In 1850 there were only 100 water plants in the United States, and as late as 1875 only 243. In 1933 there were more than 11,000 public water supplies, some serving more than one community.

CITY CEMETERIES.

The Park Department has charge of twenty cemeteries, containing 212 acres, that are owned by the city. Mount Hope Cemetery is the largest. A number of these cemeteries are no longer available to the public for interments. In 1937 there were 2,075 interments in these cemeteries, or 77 more than in 1936. The interments in Mount Hope Cemetery in 1937 were 71.08 per cent of the total interments as against 74.57 per cent in 1936.

REPORT OF MUNICIPAL SURVEY COMMITTEE.

3. Changed procedure in excise tax billing to permit issuing bills earlier, and effected a new method of recording and filing excise accounts with the view of furnishing a ready reference to any account over a period of years. Also arranged a plan to release poll tax bills earlier than previously.
4. Inaugurated a card system as a basis for billing in the Assessing Department. Studies are being made in conjunction with the Assessing Department to improve this procedure.
5. Recommended a plan to speed the handling of applications for abatements within the department, which has been started with beneficial results.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Water Income Division.

1. Changed the policy for collection of delinquent water rates. This new policy resulted in this division reflecting a surplus of $654,998 for 1938 as against a total deficit for the preceding four years of $434,013.67. Further, this policy prevented an increase in water rates to every consumer of water in the City of Boston. It is probable that a larger surplus will be reflected in 1939 on account of the continuance of the present plan.
2. New accounting procedure was inaugurated in the Water Department with practice to be followed as set forth in a special report by a member of the C. P. A. Advisory Committee working in conjunction with the Survey Committee.
3. Cumulative billing procedure put into effect during 1939, informing consumers of all arrears as well as current charges.
4. Suggested changes for physical set-up of Water Income Division now in the process of being made.
5. Recommended amendment of ordinances relative to billing and collection of water rates; now being considered by the Commissioner.
6. Instituted daily reports of work done by members of Water Income Division.

CITY HOSPITAL.

1. Recommended changes in methods of admitting patients to City Hospital. Speeded up procedure of collecting back and current bills. This has resulted in additional revenue through September, 1939, of approximately $24,000 over the first nine months of 1938. The C. P. A. Advisory Committee has made further recommendations along these lines which are the subject of consideration by the Survey Committee and Trustees of the Hospital.
2. Recommendations were made for changes in telephone service at the hospital with consequent reduction in cost of service and a saving to the city of $5,192.75 effected from April, 1938, through October, 1939.
3. As a result of joint studies made with the Trustees, Superintendent and Hospital authorities, a plan for the more economical operation of the kitchen was developed and is now being effected with consequent savings in food costs of $86,250.82 in the first ten months of 1938 as compared with the first ten months of 1937 and $96,276.53 for the first ten months of 1939 as compared with the first ten months of 1937. It is understood that, although the quality and preparation of food at the City Hospital have always been of a high order, many complaints regarding the food served there were received in the past. It is worthy of note that, notwithstanding the savings effected, few if any similar complaints have been received during the past year.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT.

1. Certain recommendations were made to the Business Manager of the Welfare Department which have been carried out and which should effect an annual saving of approximately $1,000 in the department's telephone bill.
2. Studies are being made to coordinate the settlement work now carried on at the Boston City Hospital, the Central Office of the Welfare Department, the Health Department, Institutions Department and the Sanatorium, with a view to centralizing the record-keeping and determination of settlements for all these departments at the Central Office of the Welfare Department.
3. Intensive survey with Welfare Director carried on for a period of fourteen months, ending in August, 1939, of the case load of welfare recipients and methods of procedure by social workers in the field. Instituted weekly report analyzing and summarizing the case load of each social worker in each unit of the city.
4. Weekly reports from Welfare Department revised and enlarged to show comparative trend of revenue, case load and expenditures.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION, DEER ISLAND.

1. Cooperated with authorities at the island in the installation of new oil-heating equipment, which has resulted in substantial saving. In 1936, 1937 and the first six months of 1938 there had been expended $18,068.62 for repairs to the three boilers. The boiler room was found to be ineffective and on the verge of collapse, necessitating immediate action. As a result of the new installation, at a cost of $21,065, there will be no repair costs for at least one year and the institution is provided with sufficient power, heat and light at reduced cost. For the first ten months of 1939 as compared with the first ten months of 1937 there was a saving of $3,329.34 in fuel costs.
2. Installed an adequate accounting system for the poultry industry at Deer Island to account for the sale of products, viz., eggs, chickens and turkeys, to other city departments and to individuals. Monthly reports in the form of Balance Sheets and Profit and Loss Statements are transmitted to the Mayor's Office. This enterprise reflected a profit for the ten months ending October 31, 1939, in the amount of $364.70, after deducting salary of Poultry Supervisor and other operating expenses. Accounting systems for other industries at the island have been prepared and are ready for installation.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

1. Recommended the breaking down of the Supply Department into six buying units with consequent responsibility more definitely fixed.
2. Inaugurated new requisition forms.
3. Changes made in the method of purchasing food supplies for all city departments. Daily purchases have effected savings in many directions.
4. A general survey of the consumption of food, ice and fuel at Long Island, Deer Island, City Hospital and the Sanatorium, and the initiation of uniform methods in the purchasing of these commodities, have resulted in a decreased cost to the city of $220,445.48 for these items during the first ten months of 1939 as compared with the first ten months of 1937.
5. An exhaustive study is being conducted in conjunction with the Advisory Committee of Certified Public Accountants regarding the possibility of establishing Inventory Control of consumable material and supplies throughout the city departments. It is the recommendation of the Survey Committee that serious consideration should be given to centralizing such a control in the Supply Department. It appears that this might well be accomplished at a very small cost by using qualified and trained men from the present personnel of the city under proper supervision. Such an inventory, together with the Inventory of Furniture and Equipment recently completed by W. P. A., could be administered effectively by the same personnel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

1. General telephone surveys have been made in all city departments for the purpose of consolidation and elimination with resulting savings. No order for additional telephone service or change in type of service is made without first being referred to the Survey Committee for consideration. Arrangements were made with the telephone company for all city operators to attend the free retraining course conducted by the company.
 2. With the cooperation of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company a new switchboard was installed in the Public Works Department Yard at Albany street, replacing two old switchboards and routing all calls to various division yards through one central board. Connections into or out of these divisions are now more quickly made, and a greater control over outgoing calls is available. This change has resulted in a saving of approximately $2,000 for telephone service during the year 1939 as compared with the year 1937.
 3. A survey of the telephone service at Fire Headquarters, Bristol street, was conducted in conjunction with the Superintendent of Fire Alarm. This work has been completed and will result in an annual saving of approximately $1,000. A similar survey is under way for Fire Alarm Headquarters and should result in a saving of approximately $3,000 per year.
- The Survey Committee cooperated in effecting the transfer of an inter-office communicating system of the dictograph type from the Welfare Department to the Fire Department, thereby eliminating an item of $700 for the purchase of dictograph equipment which had previously been included in the budget of the Fire Department.

Where other situations of this kind exist, the Survey Committee is cooperating to bring about the best results for all concerned.

4. The Survey Committee in conjunction with the Advisory Committee of Certified Public Accountants is at present conducting a study of the office procedure and practice in all departments producing revenue. This work, which has covered five months, will have been substantially completed by December 1.

The following departments have been visited and surveyed:

Assessing.	Mayor's Office.
Building.	Park.
City Clerk.	Police.
City Collector.	Public Works (all divisions).
Fire.	Street Laying-Out.
Health.	Supply.
Hospital.	Weights and Measures.
Licensing Board.

The Election, Public Buildings and Registry Departments will be studied as time permits.

As a result, many recommendations incorporated in the reports received have been adopted in the various departments. Others are under consideration by the Survey Committee and heads of departments at this time.

5. Have cooperated with the Mayor's Office in locating business sites for prospective new industries in Boston. This activity has assisted in bringing a number of industries to Boston.
6. Studies are being made in conjunction with the State Department of Education for "In-Service" training for city employees in municipal finance and allied subjects at a nominal cost to employees. The first course will start January 11, 1940.
7. As a result of surveys made for the purpose of correlating the work of various departments, it has been determined by the Survey Committee that serious consideration should be given to establishing a central billing unit to take care of all tax and water bills issued by the city. Such a unit might utilize as far as possible all available equipment and, by a small increase in qualified personnel, endeavor to spread the billing for various taxes and water rates throughout the year, so as to insure an even flow of revenue to the treasurer and thus, in some measure, reduce the necessity for borrowing in anticipation of taxes.
8. As a result of surveys made in the revenue-producing departments, it has been determined by the Survey Committee that serious consideration should be given to the possibility of empowering the City Auditor to develop a field audit group for internal audit of receipts flowing through such departments. It appears that such a group might be selected from the present personnel of properly trained employees throughout the city and would not involve any additional cost.
9. As a result of utilizing the Inventory of Furniture and Equipment (W. P. A.), a copy of which is in the office of the Survey Committee, it has been possible for us to assist the House of Correction, Fire Department, Sanatorium Division of the Hospital, in arranging for transfers of surplus equipment within the departments.

The work of the Survey Committee is so diversified and covers so many fields of study that it is impossible to enumerate in detail all the work that has been done. For the most part we have included all those suggestions which have established policies in the various departments.

The Survey Committee wishes to express its sincere appreciation for the valuable services which have been rendered the City of Boston by various civic-minded persons who have contributed their time and advice on many technical problems without remuneration, particularly the Purchasing Committee and the Advisory Committee of Certified Public Accountants.

We desire also to thank the heads of the various city departments and their subordinates for the fine cooperation which they have given us.

Respectfully submitted,

LEO T. FOSTER,
Director.

FRED A. MONCEWICZ,
Assistant Director.

ANNEXATIONS OF BOSTON.

East Boston in 1637; South Boston in 1804, being set off from Dorchester; Roxbury in 1868, a city of Norfolk County since March, 1846; Dorchester in 1870, a town since September, 1630; Charlestown in 1874, a city of Middlesex County since February, 1847; Brighton in 1874, set off from Cambridge and incorporated as a town of Middlesex County in February, 1807; West Roxbury in 1874, set off from Roxbury and incorporated as a town of Norfolk County in May, 1851; Hyde Park in 1912, a town of Norfolk County since April, 1868.

These annexations, which added to Boston, were by area as follows: East Boston, 1,435 acres; South Boston, 795; Roxbury, 2,450; Dorchester, 5,600; West Roxbury, 8,075; Brighton, 2,664; Charlestown, 424; Hyde Park, 2,869. Filled land increased the area later by 1,396 acres. In 1875, the annexed territory had a population of 201,250, or 58.86 per cent of city's total; in 1910 its population had increased to 477,311, or 71.18 per cent, Hyde Park not included. By 1915 the total was 549,139, or 73.67 per cent of city. By 1925 the total was 607,519, or 77.92 per cent.

JAMAICA SPENDS $1,000,000 ANNUALLY ON ROAD CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE.

Jamaica, an English possession, has a highway system which is almost entirely constructed of waterbound macadam, some 70 miles of which has been surface-treated. Many of the roads are under the supervision of the Department of Public Works and various parochial boards. There are about 2,500 miles of bridge and foot paths. The highway system connects all parts of the island in a very satisfactory manner, and the problem is not that of the construction of new roads, but the improvement of old ones, the surfacing and widening of these roads, and protective coatings. The roads are well maintained and, as there are not many heavy trucks, the maintenance is satisfactory. There are approximately 4,000 miles of highways, or 1.11 square miles of area to one mile of highway.

About a million dollars per year is spent on new construction and maintenance, the machinery used being both European and American.

(From a report of the American Road Builders' Association.)

RECREATION, ADEQUATE AS TO KIND AND AVAILABILITY.

POPULATION OF COUNTIES, 1935.

(1) Middlesex (11 cities and 43 towns), 958,855 or 23,931 over 1930; (2) Suffolk (3 cities and 1 town), 912,706 or 33,150 over 1930; (3) Essex (8 cities and 26 towns), 504,483 or 6,443 over 1930; (4) Worcester (4 cities and 57 towns), 495,562 or 4,320 over 1930; (5) Bristol (4 cities and 16 towns), 366,465 or 1,875 over 1930; (6) Hampden (4 cities and 19 towns), 333,495 or 2,001 less than in 1930; (7) Norfolk (1 city and 27 towns), 320,826 or 21,400 over 1930; (8) Plymouth (1 city and 26 towns), 166,329 or 4,018 over 1930; (9) Berkshire (2 cities and 30 towns), 121,099 or 399 over 1930; (10) Hampshire (1 city and 22 towns), 74,205 or 1,404 over 1930; (11) Franklin (26 towns), 51,043 or 1,431 over 1930; (12) Barnstable (15 towns), 36,647 or 4,342 over 1930; (13) Dukes (7 towns), 5,700 or 747 over 1930; (14) Nantucket (1 town), 3,495 or 183 less than in 1930. Total for the 14 counties (39 cities and 316 towns), 4,350,910 or 101,296 (i. e., 2.38 per cent) over 1930. Of said total, 2,975,790 (i. e., 68.39 per cent) were in the cities and 1,375,120 (i. e., 31.61 per cent) in the towns. The four counties, Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Bristol, contain 63.00 per cent of the State's inhabitants.

If the municipalities having a population of 5,000 or over are properly called urban, then the percentage of urban population in the entire State reached the notable figure of 90.83, while the rural shows but 9.17 per cent.

The density of population in the State in 1935 was 552.4 persons per square mile, an increase of 12.9 persons over 1930.

POPULATION OF NEW ENGLAND, 1930.

A NEW POSITIVE WATER-METER TESTER.

The large majority of waterworks, particularly the smaller ones, seldom have accurate or positive means of testing their meters. Often when a meter is repaired, the man making the repairs simply blows through the meter to see if it runs, when it is again put into service with the assumption that it is accurate. Sometimes meters are hooked up in series with a new meter and water is run through to see if the readings check. This is better than the lung-power method, but still is far from accurate or dependable, in that the test meter may be in error by 2 per cent or even more. Several states have regulations governing water utilities, both municipal and private, and require a positive method of testing water meters in every meter-shop.—American City Magazine.

TRANSFERS IN APPROPRIATIONS.

City Auditor Charles J. Fox announces the following transfers in appropriations in departments of the City of Boston and County of Suffolk approved by his Honor the Mayor:

AUDITING DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, November 22, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—For the reasons as below explained, will you kindly approve and forward to the Mayor the following request for transfer within the appropriations of the Auditing Department, and Auditing, Miscellaneous:

From the appropriation for Auditing Department, B-28, Expert, $880, to the appropriation for Miscellaneous, Auditing, A-1, County Auditor, $880.

Inadvertence in preparing the original budget estimates. No appropriation was requested for the position of county auditor. By postponing work contemplated at the beginning of the year a balance exists in B-28 sufficient to cover the deficit in the pay roll appropriation.

Respectfully,

The appropriation for this item is exhausted, and this amount is needed to cover outstanding bills.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1939.

NO. 50

MAYOR TOBIN PAYS GLOWING TRIBUTE TO HIS EMINENCE WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL, ARCHBISHOP OF BOSTON, ON OCCASION OF 80TH BIRTHDAY—EXPRESSES SENTIMENTS OF ALL CITIZENS OF BOSTON, REGARDLESS OF RACE OR RELIGION, IN FELICITOUS ADDRESS ON EVE OF ANNIVERSARY OF NATAL DAY AND CALLS ATTENTION TO DEVOTION, RESPECT AND ADMIRATION ALL HAVE FOR MOST DISTINGUISHED PRELATE WHO HAS SPENT SO MANY YEARS IN LABORS FOR BENEFIT OF ALL HUMANITY—CALLS ATTENTION TO MEMORIALS AND MONUMENTS THAT STAND AS TESTIMONIALS TO CARDINAL'S GREATNESS.

The following are the remarks of Mayor Maurice J. Tobin on December 7, 1939, on the eve of the eightieth birthday of His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston:

It is a genuine pleasure and a lasting honor for me to be here on this eightieth birthday anniversary of one of God's truly great noblemen — William Cardinal O'Connell.

Your Eminence, I believe I voice the sentiments of all the people of Boston, whatever their race and religion may be, when I say that no living person in this section of our wonderful country commands the devotion, respect and admiration that are deservedly yours.

For over half a century — as a simple priest of God and as a Prince of the Universal Church, which is our priceless heritage — you have labored in the vineyard of the Lord, labored long, tirelessly, lovingly. The fruits of your labors are evident all about us. Under your divinely inspired guidance this archdiocese has prospered and grown strong. The mists of intolerance and misunderstanding that hovered over this archdiocese have long since evaporated because of your example, your teaching, your wisdom. On every hand, memorials and monuments of brick and stone, with their lofty spires reaching to the heavens above, are permanent testimonials to your foresight and your leadership. To the sick and unfortunate, the homeless and the discouraged, you have been a generous benefactor, a comforter, a provider. The requirements of the body and the yearnings of the soul and the intellect have found quick and understanding response in your heart. In your scholarly attainments you have never forgotten the least of God's children.

For the love of humanity, and for the glory and honor of God, you have devoted the golden years of your life. The graces of God have been with you, and through you the graces of God have been showered in abundance upon your flock and your people. Your character, your works, your achievements will be indelibly written on the pages of time — never to be erased.

Your Eminence, may I, for myself and for the people of Boston, express the sincere gratitude and deep affection we all have toward you. May the Creator of all things spare you to us for many long years to come and may He give you in this, the winter of your life, a vision of the eternal peace and happiness that will some day be yours. May I, in all humility and humbleness, beseech Him in common prayer to give you health and strength to continue your great work in this life, and in the life to come to reserve for you a high place in His Heavenly Empire, which you in this world served so devotedly, so long and so nobly. Your Eminence, you are a great citizen of our great land, a true Christian gentleman, and an outstanding priest of God. All who have had the honor to know you love and respect you. On the eve of a glorious feast day of the church, and on the eve of this your eightieth birthday, may God give you renewed vigor and may He listen to your prayers that His peace and good will descend upon us all.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"
From Boston Centennial Poem by

NATHAN HASKEL DOLE.

NO COST CONTROL FOR REFUSE DISPOSAL.

American cities on the whole may be clean housekeepers, but they don't know how much it is costing them to be clean or whether they are spending too much. Only a few cities are able to report accurately the unit cost of removing garbage and other refuse and of cleaning streets, according to the Public Administration Service of Chicago, Ill., which further reports that at least 90 per cent of the cities in this country have no cost control over this service.

THE MUNICIPAL WATER-WORKS TREND.

In 1800 there was but one municipally-owned water-works plant in the United States. Now there are 7,853 municipally-owned installations, or 72.8 per cent of the entire number. In the United States there are ninety-four cities of over 100,000 population. All but eleven of these own their water works. Municipal plants serve 96.1 per cent of the population of the ninety-four cities, while private plants serve only 3.9 per cent.

MAYOR TOBIN JOINS WITH OTHER CITIZENS IN WELCOMING TO BOSTON, AT TEMPLE ISRAEL, DR. JOSHUA LOTH LIEBMAN, NEW RABBI TO CONGREGATION—ALSO PAYS TRIBUTE TO RABBI LEVI WHO PRESIDED OVER RELIGIOUS LIFE OF COMMUNITY DURING PAST TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS.

The following is the address by Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, at Temple Israel, on the evening of November 17:

Right Reverend Bishop Sherrill, Rabbi Rubenovitz, Rabbi Levi, Rabbi Liebman, President Compton, Members of the Congregation of Temple Israel.

It is a very happy duty which is mine tonight to speak in behalf of Boston citizens in welcoming to the City of Boston, and in particular to the Temple Israel, Dr. Joshua Loth Liebman, and at the same time to express in appropriate words the appreciation which I know all of Boston's citizens feel, for the unusual contributions that have been made during the last twenty-seven years by the man who has presided over the religious life of the members of this congregation for that period of time, Rabbi Levi.

We know that for twenty-seven years he has not alone tended to the spiritual needs of his flock, but has been a leader in every civic movement, every move for social improvements; in fact, he has been as fine a leader in every phase, in every walk of life that was for the betterment of the community, as we have in the religious life of greater Boston. He has built here a great congregation and that congregation can grow to even greater heights on the sound foundation that he is leaving to the able young man who is taking over in his place, Dr. Joshua Loth Liebman.

I want to say to Dr. Liebman that he has his work cut out for him. He has true guides in the actions of his predecessor.

We people of all denominations and of all religious groups have a great appreciation of the wonderful work that has been performed by this man, who has not an ounce of bigotry in his make-up, who has a great love and a great affection for all the people that make up this great community.

I have a confidence that the wonderful work he has performed over the past twenty-seven years will be the type of work that will be performed by Rabbi Joshua Loth Liebman.

The Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation in his annual report for year 1936 tabulates the wealth of Massachusetts under twenty items. The grand total is $16,025,325,491. Real Estate comprises 44.51 per cent of the total; Savings Banks and Savings Departments assets (less Real Estate) account for 15.62 per cent; National Banks assets (less Real Estate) equal 8.81 per cent and Insurance Companies (value premiums and reserves) make 6.93 per cent. "RELIEF" DECLINING.

Two-thirds of the nation's relief expenditures in recent years has been centered in ten industrial states, the "Year Book's" section on Financing Relief and Recovery points out. Half the Federal Work Relief Funds and two-thirds of all available funds have been expended in the fifty largest cities, including about 25 per cent of the population. Industrial urban population is more vulnerable to unemployment. In addition, living costs are higher, requiring greater relief allotments, and the cost of giving employment to a city group is higher than in rural areas.

STATE REFERENDA RESULTS, 1936.

A question of public policy "Shall the Representative in the General Court from this district be instructed to vote in favor of amending the State Constitution for the purpose of limiting the amount of taxes, for all purposes, which may be legally levied against any real estate within the Commonwealth to a sum not exceeding $25 for each one thousand dollars of assessed valuation?" was voted on by only a portion of the Representative Districts. In Boston, six districts did not vote on it.

The totals for the districts and parts of districts, including Boston districts, were 310,715 in favor; 113,594 against and 203,277 blanks. For Boston alone, the totals for the sixteen districts that voted were 114,184 in favor; 46,689 against and 79,827 blanks.

In Boston, there were three referenda on sales of alcoholic beverages.

First, "Shall licenses be granted in this city for the sale therein of all alcoholic beverages (whiskey, rum, gin, malt beverages, wines and all other alcoholic beverages)?" Totals, 190,353 in favor, 45,402 against and 84,732 blanks.

Second, "Shall licenses be granted in this city for the sale therein of wines and malt beverages (wines and beer, ale and all other malt beverages)?" Totals, 185,213 in favor, 40,164 against and 95,110 blanks.

TAUNTON'S ASPHALT PLANT.

One of the functions of a city public works or street department is to operate as effectively as possible in the construction and maintenance of its streets and sidewalks and to produce the necessary materials for paving at the lowest possible cost. In some cities this is effected by the purchase of all paving materials in either the raw or the mixed stage. Taunton has used a city-owned 100-ton asphalt plant for street paving and maintenance and for sidewalk construction for ten years. Located in the city yard with the equipment repair shop and garage, the plant is housed in a 60 by 90 foot building with a 30 by 100 foot wing, which was formerly used as a foundry. The American City.

VETO OF LICENSING OF CIGARETTE-VENDING MACHINES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 27, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith without my signature and disapproved the ordinance adopted by your Honorable Body on November 13, providing for the licensing of cigarette-vending machines.

The ordinance before me is open to several objections. In one section it provides that the term of the license shall be one year from the date of issue and in another that the license shall expire on December 31st. It also omits to specify a date in the future when it shall become effective, and is unacceptable in several other respects.

For these specific reasons I am disapproving the ordinance.

On June 5th of this year I disapproved an ordinance on the same subject substantially for the reason that the license fee of $20 fixed therein was excessive. Although I indicated in the accompanying message that I was prepared to approve such an ordinance if the license fee was set at $5.00, the situation has been materially changed since that time by the enactment of chapter 454 of the Acts of 1939, which levies a tax on cigarettes and also provides for the licensing of cigarette-vending machines by the Commissioner of Corporations.

In my opinion the sale of cigarettes is sufficiently controlled by this action of the Legislature and it seems to me inadvisable to impose an additional burden by requiring a city license.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

DISTRIBUTION OF HANDBILLS, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 27, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—On November 22d, the Supreme Court of the United States declared unconstitutional ordinances of the cities of Worcester, Milwaukee and Los Angeles prohibiting the distribution of handbills, cards, circulars or papers of any kind on a street, sidewalk, alley, public park or public place.

The Court stated in part as follows:

"... the public convenience in respect of cleanliness of the streets does not justify an exertion of the police power which invades the free communication of information and opinion secured by the Constitution."

This unequivocal pronouncement supercedes the decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts in the case of Commonwealth v. Nichols (decided December 21, 1938) which held the Worcester ordinance constitutional.

Chapter 39, section 41, of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Boston provides in part as follows:

"No person shall . . . distribute to persons on a street, handbills, cards, circulars or papers of any kind except newspapers."

Our ordinance, I feel, comes within the sweep of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, and is on that account rendered ineffective. Nevertheless, I am of the opinion that affirmative action should be taken in order to remove from our books a law which on its face purports to abridge the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

I accordingly inclose suggested draft of an ordinance, striking out those words which under the recent decision of the Supreme Court would be held to be an infringement upon free speech.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

An Ordinance Concerning the Distribution of Handbills in the Public Streets.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section forty-one of chapter thirty-nine of the Revised Ordinances of nineteen hundred and twenty-five is hereby amended by striking out the following clause: "or distribute to persons on a street, handbills, cards, circulars, or papers of any kind except newspapers".

Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

SALE OF STEAMER "GEORGE A. HIBBARD."

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith an order for the sale of the steamer "George A. Hibbard" at an upset price of one thousand dollars ($1,000).

I am informed by the Commissioner of the Institutions Department that this steamer was up for sale on November 17, 1939, for an upset price of three thousand dollars ($3,000), as authorized by your Honorable Body. No bids were received for the sale of the boat at the price posted.

In my opinion the steamer might be sold at the original price recommended by the Commissioner of Institutions, i. e., one thousand dollars ($1,000), and I submit herewith an order for the sale of the steamer at this price, believing that this figure may attract possible purchase.

I recommend passage of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of the Institutions Department be, and hereby is, authorized to sell at public auction, after due advertising in the City Record and Boston daily newspapers, and with notices to be sent all persons who have made inquiries, the boat "George A. Hibbard," at an upset price of $1,000.

Referred to Executive Committee.

SIDEWALKS, WARD 20.

The following were received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of November 20, 1939, concerning the installation of asphalt sidewalks on Centre street, both sides, from Spring street to Washington street, Ward 20, and also on Baker street, from Spring street to Centre street, both sides.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
December 4, 1939.

William T. Doyle,

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—This is in reference to the following order that was passed in the City Council on November 20, 1939:

"Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install asphalt sidewalks on Centre street, both sides, from Spring street to Washington street, Ward 20, and also on Baker street, from Spring street to Centre street, both sides."

Due to the proximity of the anticipated inclement weather and the length of time that it would take to have the W. P. A. authorities approve a project for a part or the whole of the work, as proposed in the above copy of order, it would be inadvisable to consider starting actual construction work this year.

I shall, however, submit a W. P. A. project, construction work on which will start next spring, for the installation of bituminous concrete (asphalt) sidewalks on Baker street, between the limits as specified in the above order; on Centre street, from Spring street to Grove street, and on that section of Centre street beyond Grove street where the extent of the residential development is such as to justify and necessitate the construction of bituminous concrete sidewalks.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1939.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of October 23, 1939, concerning the installation of sidewalks on the following streets in Ward 20, under the W. P. A. plan of construction: Chesbrough road, Birchwood street, Baker street, from Spring street to Centre street.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
November 20, 1939.

Mr. William T. Doyle,

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—I return herewith order in City Council that the Commissioner of Public Works install sidewalks on the following streets in Ward 20, under the W. P. A. plan of construction: Chesbrough road, Birchwood street, Baker street, from Spring street to Centre street.

In regard to these streets, please be advised that they will be submitted for approval on a W. P. A. plan for the installation of bituminous concrete sidewalks during the coming year.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

GARAGE FACILITIES, APARTMENT BUILDINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Building Commissioner relative to your order of November 20, 1939, concerning the advisability of having a study made relative to the feasibility of requiring all new apartment buildings in Boston to provide adequate garaging facilities for the occupants of said apartments.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Building Department,
November 27, 1939.

Hon. Maurice J. Tobin,

Mayor of Boston,

Subject: City Council order of November 20, 1939, relative to the feasibility of requiring all new apartment buildings in Boston to provide adequate garaging facilities for the occupants of said apartments.

Dear Sir,—Concerning your communication of November 23, subject, City Council order sponsored by Councilor Norton relative "to the feasibility of requiring new apartment buildings to provide adequate garaging facilities," please be informed that I do not believe it feasible, and hardly think it possible, to cause to be enacted by the State Legislature an amendment to chapter 488, Acts of 1924, Zoning Law, which would require owners to provide adequate garaging facilities to care for the occupants of apartments. As the logical location for a garage would be the basement of an apartment building, which if entirely occupied for garage purposes might prove to be inadequate to provide facilities for all occupants, and also as the garaging of a vehicle could not be in the category of a necessity of life or those requirements providing light, heat, sanitation, public safety, etc., I feel certain that the Legislature would not entertain such a provision.

Under the existing Zoning Law, referred to above, an entire basement, if properly confined, as required by the State Fire Marshal's Regulations, with fireproof separations, walls, ceilings, etc., can be used for garage purposes; however, there is nothing in the law to compel an owner to provide garaging facilities.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES H. MOONEY,
Building Commissioner.

REMOVAL OF UNUSED TRACKS AT MASSACHUSETTS STATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 4, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of November 20, 1939, concerning the arranging for the removal of the unused car tracks and car track switches at the following locations: Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street; Boylston street, between Massachusetts avenue and Ipswich street; Ipswich street; and, further, that the aforementioned streets be repaved with smooth paving under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
November 27, 1939.

Mr. William T. Doyle,

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—I return herewith order in City Council that the Public Works Commissioner arrange for the removal of the unused car tracks and car track switches at the following locations: Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street; Boylston street, between Massachusetts avenue and Ipswich street; Ipswich street; and be it further ordered that the Commissioner of Public Works arrange to have the aforementioned streets repaved with smooth paving under the W. P. A. plan of construction.

Relative to Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street, together with Boylston street, between Massachusetts avenue and Ipswich street, please be advised that a project will be submitted in the early part of next year to take care of this matter.

In regard to Ipswich street, this will advise you that the pavement on this street is in very good condition and the tracks are on the side of the road and, at the present time, I can see no reason for the removal of the tracks and the repaving of the street.

Respectfully,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

HOUSING AUTHORITY, BONDS FOR TAKINGS.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:
Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council whether bonds have been filed by the Housing Authority holding the City of Boston harmless incident to takings by eminent domain for so-called low-rent housing projects.
Passed under suspension of the rule.

WATER LEAKAGE, OLD HARBOR VILLAGE.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:
Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to advise the City Council as to the amount of water leakage damage recently at Old Harbor Village, and the estimated cost of repair work or renovation necessary to prevent further repetition of water leakage.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, we have had called to our attention in the past the damage that has been caused by water leakage at Old Harbor Village, but the Council was assured that it was a minor matter. I am told also that the same thing has occurred in the housing construction in Cambridge. Unless I am incorrectly advised, two weeks ago there was further damage from leakage at Old Harbor Village, and at that time, in the building nearest the waterfront, considerable damage was done. This is certainly rather an important matter when we bear in mind that the Council, in connection with the $27,000,000 that was furnished for these housing projects in Boston, was told that at the end of sixty years the various projects would revert back to the city. I am afraid, however, that if this sort of damage is allowed to go on in the coming years there will be little of value left for the city at the end of that period. And so I think it is important at this time to request the Boston Housing Authority to advise the Council, through the Mayor, as to the amount of recent water leakage damage at Old Harbor Village and the estimated cost of repair work or renovation necessary to prevent further repetition of such damage.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PROVISION FOR NURSES CONTRACTING ILLNESS.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:
Ordered, That the trustees of the Boston City Hospital be respectfully requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to make adequate and fair provision for such nurses at the City Hospital and Sanatorium as may contract illness incident to the performance of their duties.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I was under the impression about a year ago, when we had some discussion of the management of the Boston City Hospital, and when we as usual were criticized severely for even raising our voices in criticism, that the City Hospital Trustees always stood behind its employees when they contracted contagious diseases as a result of their employment—which, of course, is the situation in ordinary private employment under workmen's compensation and under the operations of the Industrial Accident Board. I have also in mind especially a nurse working in the tuberculosis hospital on River street, where the chances of acquiring the disease are strong, even under the best of supervision, who got the disease. In spite of all the care that might be exercised, in the way of periodical examinations, X-rays and so forth, she finally showed evidences of tuberculosis. When the case was brought to the attention of the hospital authorities, they made the munificent suggestion that they would treat her at the Sanatorium and give her half-pay for a three-months' period. I personally believe that registered nurses who have spent the years out of their lives to learn their calling and who have nothing to depend upon but their jobs, and who frequently have families dependent upon them, when they have been serving in a tuberculosis hospital, and have contracted the disease, should certainly be given a reasonable leave of absence and full pay in the meantime, because they have upon them not only the burdens and responsibilities that they had while in health, but also the disadvantages and expense they suffer as sick persons; and neither should they be obliged to worry for fear their families cannot get by, not having enough to live on. So I urge now, as a matter of ordinary ethics and decency, a more generous and humane treatment of nurses such as those at the River street hospital, where they may acquire tuberculosis germs. They should certainly be given reasonable leaves of absence, with full pay.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, that reminds me of the case that was brought to our attention at the tuberculosis hospital where a nurse contracted the disease and was supposed to die. But I believe the girl is now getting along very well, I am happy to say. You will remember the case, a very dramatic one, that was brought to our attention in the Executive Committee last year. You will certainly remember the dramatic incident, most dramatic, where the girl's mother came in, with tears in her eyes, and told us the story. We certainly have in this city, in that institution that has been referred to, one of the finest tuberculosis hospitals in the world. It is our good fortune to have such an institution located in the City of Boston. If I should have tuberculosis, I don't know of any place where I would rather go.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I certainly share the councilor's joy in the improvement in the physical condition of this young woman who has not died, but is showing such progress in recovering from the disease. But I would suggest that possibly the dramatic incident the councilor refers to, which did occur, and the investigation that we had in the matter, had something to do with saving her life.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PROTECTION AGAINST SLANDER OF CANDIDATES.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:
Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to draft a suitable bill for consideration by the Massachusetts Legislature which will more effectively prevent libel and slander and untrue statements or propaganda against candidates for public office incident to political campaigns and which will provide for criminal prosecution of persons and concerns who print slanderous, libelous or untrue statements concerning candidates for public office, especially in cases where the name and address of the person sponsoring such printed matter does not appear on the same.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I suppose I can start out with the premise that there is nothing personal in that particular order, as I was not a candidate in the recent election and therefore did not suffer from any of the practices referred to in the order. But I do feel pretty strongly that affairs have reached a stage in the City of Boston, as in other places in Massachusetts, where a man practically jeopardizes his reputation when he becomes a candidate for public office. Unbridled attacks on his character and reputation are circulated through the district, attacks that are absolutely unjustified and irresponsible. Although the law requires that political circulars shall bear the name of the author when such unwarranted attacks are made over a person's name and address, slanderous and libelous attacks on a candidate for public office, it is frequently the case that the person whose name is supposed to be signed to the circular cannot be found. So there is frequently no redress to be obtained from the supposed sponsor of such circulars, which are circulated among the voters and which contain absolutely slanderous remarks. The existing law does not, in other words, give the protection that it is supposed to give. I believe some real teeth should be put in the law. I realize, as a member of the bar, that any candidate whose reputation may have been assailed may bring suit, which will not reach trial possibly until years after he may have lost an election, so that the protection he is supposed to have at the present time is of no real value to him. I bear in mind also the fact that no man can be recompensed in money for the damage caused him. I think, therefore, that the only way to stop these slanderous statements that we have in the average political campaign in Boston is to make such statements obviously criminal in their nature. I trust, therefore, that the Law Department of the City of Boston will, in drafting such a bill as is proposed in this order, put such teeth into it as will put a stop to this reprehensible practice once and for all.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

CONTINUATION OF WORK OF DIES COMMITTEE.

Coun. CHASE and WILSON offered the following:

Whereas the Boston City Council has already forwarded a resolution to the Dies Congressional Committee wherein the said committee was highly commended for its fine work in enlightening the American public concerning subversive activities within this country, and

Whereas, The Boston City Council is of the opinion that all subversive activities such as Communism and Nazism within this country should be subject to further searching investigation;

Therefore, be it
Resolved, That the Boston City Council respectfully urges the Congress of the United States to appropriate such money as may be necessary for the continuation of the Dies Congressional Committee for investigation of un-American activities.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SURPLUS COMMODITY PLAN FOR BOSTON.

Coun. NORTON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Mayor of Boston immediately consider the advisability of requesting the Federal Government to establish a so-called Surplus Commodity Stamp Plan distribution of food in Boston.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, I understand that there is under consideration at the present time the question of whether or not the Federal Government will come to Boston with the so-called Surplus Commodity Stamp Plan distribution of food. The plan is being worked out in many other cities in America and I would like to see it tried out in Boston. I would ask permission to have included in the record some of the editorials and newspaper statements that have appeared in various sections of America in regard to this plan. (Coun. NORTON submitted the following:)

Today, at Shawnee, Okla., the Surplus Commodities Corporation begins an experiment of national importance. It will extend the distribution of food stamps, good for specified surplus foods, to nonrelief families with four or more members and weekly incomes of $19.50 or less.

The plan, in other words, has succeeded in moving commodity surpluses and is being extended. The Rochester, N. Y., experience is most interesting. There, relief families were given free blue stamps, good for surplus foods, to the amount of 50 per cent of the orange stamps, good for any foods, which they bought at face value.

Retail food sales went up 12 per cent in the low-income areas. Six per cent was due to the use of free blue stamps. What caused the remaining 6 per cent increase? Obviously, every dollar in free blue stamps must have freed another dollar from the weekly budget for purchase of other foods. The extra dollar was spent for food—producing the increase and proving the need.

From Rochester Daily News, November 21, 1939:
McAuliffe, sole representative of Rochester's 13,000 relief families and the nation's farmers whose surpluses have been gradually disappearing under the stamp plan, expected to confine himself to the arguments already announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in Washington. Among these is the plea that the bankers' proposed tax will wipe out half the profit of the small grocer who, the Government hoped, would benefit substantially from the plan.

$1,000,000 in New Business.

Before May 16, surplus farm commodities were dispensed free to relief families from large Federal depots.

Under the stamp plan, needy families still receive the surplus foods free, but distribution is made through normal channels of trade. Thus, both wholesalers and retailers make a profit. Based on six months of operation, the plan is bringing more than $1,000,000 of new food business into Rochester. Both merchants and their relief customers have praised the set-up enthusiastically.

McAuliffe planned to point out that none of the banks in the dozen other cities where the plan is going had levied a "transaction fee." In fact, in Shawnee, Okla., the banks not only cash the grocers' pasted-up stamp cards but at their own expense they sell the stamps to persons not on relief who are eligible because of low incomes.

Banks here soured on their participation because in some instances they have been forced to add an extra clerk or two to handle the volume of cards.

BANK TAX ON FOOD STAMPS.

The News sent Grace Robinson of its staff to Rochester, N. Y., last week to report all the ins and outs of the Rochester banks' decision to charge 1 per cent for cashing grocers' food cards, beginning December 1.

Chipping at the Surplus.

The more we read of Miss Robinson's findings as printed in the News the last few days, the less we like the looks of this proposal.

By means of the orange and blue food stamps, the Government is trying to work off some of our surplus farm products, and to do so in the best way yet thought of; namely, by working off these products into relievers, whose diets are none too varied or vitamin-rich at best.

The scheme as operated in Rochester for some six months has brought Rochester merchants increased business at a rate of about $1,000,000 a year. A community's banks notoriously profit by any increased business that comes to the community, though most of their profit is indirect.

Banks Ought to Cooperate.

When the nation's banking system was tottering toward a record bust-up in 1933, the Government came to its rescue, as was proper. The costs of bailing out the banks fell ultimately on the general taxpayer, or will fall ultimately on him, since all those costs aren't paid yet.

The costs of the food stamp plan, too, will ultimately be paid by the taxpayers, though the Government up to now is using funds in hand or realized from customs receipts to push the experiment in the seventeen cities where it is now operating.

It doesn't seem excessive to us for the Government to ask the banks to cooperate in the food stamp plan to the extent of clearing free of charge such of this paper as comes their way. And we think the Government should stand pat on its determination not to countenance this 1 per cent bank tax on food stamps, even if it has to halt the Rochester experiment to block the tax.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ORDINANCES.

Coun. TAYLOR, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted the following:

1. Report on petition of Boston Terminal Company (referred February 20) for two driveway openings at 199 Summer street. Ward 3, recommending that petitioner have leave to withdraw.

Report accepted; petitioner given leave to withdraw.

2. Report on ordinance (referred June 26) concerning notice of liens for water rates—recommending that same be passed.

The report was accepted and the ordinance was passed.

ACCEPTANCE OF WARD 16 STREETS.

Coun. FISH offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out as a public highway, under the W. P. A. type of construction, Burgoyne street, Ward 16, from Elmer road to Ashmont street.

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to accept and lay out a public highway, Cedar Grove street, Ward 16, from Whittridge street to Hallet street, under the W. P. A. type of construction.

Severally passed under suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALK, WARD 16.

Coun. FISH offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Van Winkle street, from Dorchester avenue to Dorchester Rapid Transit, and from Bushnell street to Carruth street, Ward 16, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

RECESS.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. HUTCHINSON, at 3.15 p. m., to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled and were called to order by President MURRAY at 4.37 p. m.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

Coun. SHATTUCK, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following:

1. Report on message of Mayor and orders (referred November 13), providing for rescission of portion of authority to issue certain loans, i. e., High School of Practical Arts, William Howard Taft School, Robert Gould Shaw School, Trade School—that same ought to pass.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, this report relates to four loan orders looking to alterations of school building under P. W. A. Federal projects. Under the requirements of the law we have to authorize the borrowing for the buildings at the start, and as we get towards completion and get the money from the Federal Government we then have an opportunity to reduce the authorization. These orders reduce the authorizations on four schools. The total amount is something over $400,000 and the Auditor has assured me that the work can be completed with the reduced amount.

The report was accepted, and the orders were read once and passed, yeas 19, nay 0.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RULES.

President MURRAY, for the Committee on Rules, submitted the following:

1. Report on resolution (referred today) that the work of the Dies Congressional Committee should be continued—that same ought to pass.

Coun. SHATTUCK dissented from the report of the committee.

The report was accepted and the resolution was passed.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WILSON, for the Executive Committee submitted the following:

1. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for sale of steamer "George H. Hibbard"—that same ought to pass.

Report accepted, said order passed.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred June 26) appropriating $25,000 for survey of municipal departments, to be extended under direction of the Mayor—that same ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I certainly desire to have my personal attitude made perfectly plain. For obvious reasons, what I have to say, briefly of course, is not in criticism of the Mayor or of his department heads. It is what you would expect to hear from a man who thinks the Mayor of Boston, with the salary provided by law and the department heads appointed by him, with the salaries provided by law, are doing a good job of their own accord and with their own ability. This order calls for the transfer of another $25,000 for the so-called Municipal Survey Committee, looking presumably to efficiency in the departments and the saving of money for the City of Boston. This committee first functioned a year ago when $25,000 was appropriated, and this is the second proposed item of $25,000 for its work. We are informed that on that work we have nine persons, four on a regular payroll basis and five clerks from other departments of the city, and with a payroll of $300 a week. Only today we have received from the committee a six-page report, presumably giving the results of the work of the survey Committee for the past year or more. I want to say in passing that what I have to say is not any reflection on members of the Survey Committee, whom I don't know, and who undoubtedly are making excellent efforts to do the job to which they are assigned. I am not intending to criticize the Mayor, the department heads or the committee, but I am speaking at this time because I do not believe the taxpayers of Boston need to have another $25,000, making $50,000, spent for this particular purpose. No member of this Council has had an opportunity since he came into the meeting to read and digest this report of what was alleged to have been done by the committee. I do not profess to have digested it, but I wish simply in passing to point out such outstanding points as have attracted my attention. Under the Collecting Department, for instance, it says, "Arranged a system with the Collector to send out notices for 1938 delinquent taxes in lieu of tax titles sales." I gather that that plan, formulated as a matter of ways and means, consisted in sending a polite letter out to some people who owed the City of Boston for taxes, that they ought to pay the bill. There is another item in regard to the Assessing Department: "Recommended a plan to speed the handling of applications for abatements within the department, which has been started with beneficial results."

In the first place, I want to say from my experience that the city has not benefited to a degree the situation in Ward 17, although I don't doubt that the appointment of two employees may have helped. We are told that there have been improvements in the Water Income Division of the Public Works Department. One of the improvements, we are told, that we get for the $25,000 already spent, is the ingenious suggestion that when bills are sent out by the city the city pursue the policy of every business house in reminding those who receive the bills of the amount they may owe in addition to the present bill. Under the City Hospital, I am amazed to find out that, for a period of eighteen months, it has been found that about $10 a day has been wasted on telephone bills. In the Supply Department I note, as an improvement, that "daily purchases have effected savings in many directions." I admit that I have much to learn about the business world, but I had an idea that the way adopted by business houses to save money was to buy in large quantities and not depend on emergency daily purchases. But the fact remains that there are a number of items here and, while I would not disparage the document, I assume that nobody has had a chance to digest it. This matter was put over from two weeks ago until today on the suggestion that various heads of departments could tell the Council what business efficiency and savings in their departments had been brought about as a result of this survey, for which we have spent up to date $25,000, and for which we are now asked to appropriate an additional amount. I thought myself that today we might hear such suggestions from the department heads, who had come here prepared to address us in Executive Committee, and that we might be able to hear from them personally in regard to savings and additional efficiency in their departments as a result of the services of the committee. But the majority of the Council in their wisdom did not care to hear from those representing the forty-six departments of the City of Boston who have been most closely in touch with the work of the committee. In fact, some took the attitude that it might lead to improved efficiency and promote possible savings outside of the usual functions of the city departments if we simply continued the work of this committee even at a cost of $100,000 a year, and that we, the Board of Directors of the City of Boston, need not question, criticize or quibble in the matter. In closing I want to say that my remarks are not in the nature of criticism of any administration, but because I feel, after thirteen years of service in this Body, that in a matter of this kind we should not vote for another $25,000 to continue the work of the committee with as little information as we have from department heads as to whether the work that has been done warrants such additional expenditure, without hearing from the department heads themselves. No doubt, more than one department head may feel that the savings that may have been made in his own department are the result of the efforts of the Mayor and of his own department, for the performance of which they are receiving salaries from the City of Boston.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, there is not a member of the Council who can doubt that in the last two years the Mayor of Boston has endeavored to give to the city a good, honest administration, and even the gentleman from Dorchester (Coun. Wilson) has made public statements in support of the honesty and efficiency of the Mayor. The Mayor wants this $25,000 so that there may be continuous service of this Survey Committee because he has felt that during the past two years the committee has rendered such good service to the city that, in justice to the citizens of Boston, it deserves a continued existence. He has, therefore, asked the Council to appropriate $25,000. I cannot understand why we should quibble over such a small sum for the continuation of the work that has resulted in so many betterments of service in the last two years. It has been carried out in a most excellent manner, and there can be no question that the accountants and others employed have done work which has resulted in plugging up the loopholes and saving considerable money for the city. The Mayor is endeavoring to give a business administration. The results of the work of the Survey Committee have been submitted to us, and there is no question but what the improvement in service and the saving of money that has resulted have been due to the work of that committee. The Federal Government has a survey committee to check up the work of its departments and cooperate in bringing about improved and more efficient service. Certainly, the benefits of the work already done have been definitely and clearly shown by this honest report, as I think the councilor from Ward 17 (Coun. Wilson) admits. In the Water Income Division of the Public Works Department alone the policy of collection of delinquent water rates has resulted in a surplus of $654,998 for 1938 as against a total deficit for the preceding four years of $434,000; certainly a substantial sum. In the City Hospital Department there has been a saving in the last two years of $182,000 and in the Supply Department a saving of $220,000. These are facts and figures, which you can see from the books themselves. Where there have been these savings and improvements in service, with the prospect of more to come, as a result of the work of the Survey Committee, I cannot for the life of me see why any member of the Council should oppose the expenditure of $25,000 more at this time, with the undoubted consequent saving of much more money to the city in the future. Certainly, an order appropriating this additional sum should not be opposed by members of this Council. There is no question in my mind but that any clear-thinking councilor will vote for this appropriation.

Coun. AGNEW—Mr. President, almost two years ago, when the establishment of this Survey Committee was proposed to the Council, the Survey Committee of which Mr. Whitcomb was to be the head, I was reluctant to spend $25,000 of the taxpayers' money for the Survey Committee. However, I thought at that time that there was a worthwhile move and idea behind the establishment of the committee. But it seems to me that the committee dribbled and dribbled along without any great accomplishments until the $25,000 was exhausted, and then a new Survey Committee was appointed when Mr. Whitcomb decided to retire as the head of the Survey Committee. For the committee in its present form I have great personal respect. I have met and know Mr. Foster, the director, and Mr. Moncewicz personally, and I have high regard for them. However, in this proposition to appropriate $25,000 more for the work of the committee, I cannot allow myself to be swayed by my liking for the two individuals concerned. I would like to see the Survey Committee come in and show that it has accomplished something. In my opinion, this report does not show that they have saved money for the City of Boston. If anyone wants to contend that they have and can convince me of it, very well. But, Mr. President and members of the Council, I have at all times been influenced in casting my vote in this body by the consideration of what was for the benefit of the citizens of Boston as a whole. I feel, in regard to this matter, that while it may be theoretically worthwhile, as a practical matter it is not worthwhile, and I cannot see myself voting this expenditure of $25,000. I wish the report presented was more concrete in its nature. I wish we had the privilege of interrogating the department heads of the City of Boston and finding out from them whether the Survey Committee was accomplishing something in their individual department that was for the benefit of the city. We did not have that privilege, and therefore I cannot vote today for this $25,000.

Coun. HUTCHINSON—Mr. President, this matter came before the Council two weeks ago; so it seems to me that that lapse of time has given each member of the Council a chance to check up on the statements made by the Survey Committee. The various heads of departments were also invited to a conference meeting today, so that each and every member could question them in regard to any department of the city. We talked over the whole matter for quite awhile. Apparently no member had questions that he wished heads of departments to come in and answer. There was one motion made that there be questions submitted and written replies. I say that if any of the members wanted written replies they could have taken action along that line two weeks ago and not have had this unnecessary delay, with nothing accomplished. I say that the members of this committee, who have done good work, should have an opportunity to continue that work, and that we should pass the desired appropriation.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, as far as the Water Income Division is concerned, I think much credit is due to Mr. Sullivan, the head of the division, for any savings that may have been made. His predecessor, Mr. McMurtry, everybody considered hard-boiled, but he turned out to be a lenient and soft-hearted man, who allowed things to go on. No doubt much of the saving that has resulted at the present time under the present régime, has been due to the stoppage of leaks. There is no doubt that work looking to greater economies and efficiencies has been necessary. Years ago, some of the leaders in certain lines in our city—A. Lawrence Lowell, James J. Storrow, Thomas J. Kenny, and other great minds—were going to have a clean-up of the city, and a survey was made which was supposed to result in an iron-clad, fool-proof system, in which there should be no leaks. But we all saw what happened in a short space of time, such as frequently happens when investigations are made and it is thought that things afterwards are going to run along in a certain way. There is no doubt that some good work has been accomplished by this Survey Committee, but I believe that $15,000 is a large enough appropriation for it to carry on. It is unfair to the members of the Council to bring in a matter of this kind and try to rush it through at a late hour in the day. There should be a chance for proper consideration. Hearings should be held, not on the day when the Council meets, but on a separate day, giving the councilors an opportunity to come in and give undivided attention to matters that concern the good of the city—this and other important matters that may come up—thus having the time to give proper consideration and arrive at proper judgments on these questions. I believe that $15,000 is sufficient. But I do think it is unfair to come in in this way at a late hour and take action without proper consideration that will tie up the new body, not giving them an opportunity to see what this committee is doing. It is decidedly unfair. Bright minds come in and think this or that should be done right away, and would like to force action without giving the members of the Body a proper time for consideration and exercise of their judgment. So I would move that the amount appropriated be $15,000, instead of $25,000, and I trust that that amendment will pass.

President MURRAY—The Chair will declare the motion out of order on the ground that a transfer order cannot be amended.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, I favor the order presented by the Mayor. Everybody realizes that the Mayor has been conducting a good and efficient administration for the last two years, and everybody agrees that the proper running of the city departments is important. One reason for the Mayor's success is the assistance he has received from the Survey Committee. He wishes further assistance of the committee in order to further improve the business of the city. I think he should have the money. I am not dealing with theory, but with facts. We have already accomplished large savings. The Survey Committee has helped to do that, and will help the Mayor in further progress along that line.

The question came on the passage of the order, and the Clerk called the roll, with the following result (fifteen votes being required for passage):

Yeas—Coun. Englert, Fish, Galvin, Harris, Hutchinson, Irwin, Kelly, Langan, Lyons, Murray, Norton, Rosenberg, Shattuck, Taylor—14.

Nays—Coun. Agnew, Kerrigan, McMahon, Wilson—4.

President MURRAY—And the order is rejected.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I move a reconsideration, and that the order be assigned to the next meeting.

The motion to reconsider was carried, and the Council voted to assign further consideration of the order to the next meeting.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I doubt that vote and ask for a rising vote.

The Council stood divided, and the order was assigned to the next meeting, ten for and three against.

3. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred May 1) amending housing agreement—recommending the passage of the order in a new draft, as follows:

Ordered—Section 1. The City shall enter into an Amendment to the Cooperation Agreement between the City and the Boston Housing Authority dated as of October 25, 1938, and authorized to be executed by order of the City Council passed on October 24, 1938, and approved by the Mayor on October 25, 1938, in the following form:

Amendment to the Cooperation Agreement Between the City of Boston, Massachusetts, and the Boston Housing Authority.

The Cooperation Agreement between the City of Boston, Massachusetts and the Boston Housing Authority, dated as of October 25, 1938, is hereby amended by striking out the first sentence of subparagraph (d) of paragraph 1 thereof and by inserting in place thereof the following:

The term "Projects" as used in this Agreement shall mean any low-rent housing projects having an aggregate development cost of not in excess of Fifty Million Dollars ($50,000,000) now or hereafter undertaken within the City by the Authority with respect to which a contract or contracts for Federal Annual Contributions have been made, or will be made with the United States Housing Authority.

Section 2. The Mayor and the City Clerk of the City of Boston, Massachusetts, are hereby authorized to execute in triplicate and to deliver on behalf of the City an Amendment to the Cooperation Agreement dated as of October 25, 1938, as set forth in Section 1 hereof.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WILSON—We are asked today to take the lid off subsidized, tax-free apartment housing in Boston. The present limit set on cooperative agreements locally is $27,000,000, which still leaves a leeway of some eight million dollars to pay for two more housing projects, in addition to Old Harbor Village and the four projects now under way. Last spring Mr. Breen outlined a contemplated ten-year program, whereby the expenditure of $191,000,000 would assure the housing of no less than 35,000 Boston families in tax-free low-rent housing projects. And I say tax-free advisedly, because a $15,000 annual service charge paid in lieu of a $200,000 real estate tax is in no way comparable to the tax of $39.90 a thousand now paid by every other property owner in Boston. In addition to which we know that not only the promised $15,000 service charge was not paid into the city treasury last year, but the city treasury advanced $30,000 cash to help run the Housing Authority. The immensity of any such program may be visualized when we say that in the average Boston family there are at least two adults, which means a minimum of 70,000 adults in 35,000 families. With about 535,000 adults police listed in Boston, and approximately 325,000 voters, this plan would mean that more than one out of every eight adult residents, or more than one out of every five voters in the entire city, will have been placed in so-called low-rent housing projects within the next ten years. And that, of course, is still the plan of the Housing Authority. These 35,000 families, judging by past records, will be self-supporting families, with a guaranteed steady annual income, on the average, amounting to $1,245. The average regular family income in forty-one Federal housing projects is admitted to be $1,265, or about $25 a week. Housing Authority figures for Old Harbor Village show average family incomes between $1,260 and $1,290, a number even in excess of $2,000 annually. But statistics show that over 50 per cent of all families in Massachusetts earn less than $1,300 a year. Out of thirty-seven million families in the entire United States, ten million have incomes of less than $1,000 a year; eighteen million, or almost 50 per cent, have annual incomes of less than $1,500. I still insist that over 50,000 Boston families, now on welfare or receiving W. P. A. assistance, are not even eligible to be accepted as tenants in these housing projects. Last December Chairman Breen himself told this Council, "We don't feel we should add subsidy to subsidy. If the city is already assisting a family, in the form of welfare, that family of course should not be further subsidized. The Housing Authority feels it should first help those who are now paying their own way largely." Mr. Breen, of course, based that statement, which he made to the Executive Committee of the City Council, correctly on an official communication of the United States Housing Authority a year ago last month: "The immediate purpose of public housing is to raise the living standards of the typical employed families of very low income, who are independent and self-supporting. . . . It is not the immediate purpose of a public housing program to solve the problem of the unemployed and those without reasonable steady jobs or income." And yet in the face of that announced policy and all available figures to date, advocates of public housing still talk about "slum clearance for the poor and the destitute," "rehousing the slum dwellers." Over in Cambridge, less than 10 per cent of the families who lived in the area before the demolition found admittance into Newtown Court. And 17 per cent of the families who moved into the Newtown Court project weren't even listed as Cambridge residents the previous year. Preference at Old Harbor Village was supposedly given families from the poorer sections of the city. But out of the first 978 families, only 12 came from East Boston, 15 from Charlestown, and 26 from Ward 3. No less than 320 came from Dorchester, and 49 from the Back Bay. Take the four projects now under construction, in Charlestown, South Boston, Mission Hill and Lenox street. We are told 7,545 persons, comprising 2,193 families, were moved out of 2,832 dwelling units. They will be replaced by no less than 13,152 persons, comprising 3,291 families, to be housed in 3,291 dwelling units, at an estimated initial construction cost amounting to over $19,000,000. Over 30 per cent of the migrating families driven from the four areas admittedly had average incomes of over $1,500 a year; 12 per cent had steady annual incomes of $2,000 and over; over 16 per cent of the families owned the homes in which they lived, and in Charlestown, where there were 187 resident owners, the figures ran much higher. Hundreds of families in the various areas deeply resented being forced to migrate elsewhere. Scores of little storekeepers saw their little local good-will business wiped out without recompense. Scores of property owners were offered less than the assessed values of properties on which they had paid taxes for years. In a considerable number of cases the only one to benefit from the purchase was the bank holding the mortgage. At the other extreme, it has been estimated in one of the four areas no less than 40 per cent of the residents were receiving welfare or W. P. A. assistance, and so obviously were not eligible as rent-paying tenants in the proposed projects. At Old Harbor Village where the original cost of six and one-half million had been wholly crossed off, the average income of the 1,016 resident families is about $25 a week. They tell us that rentals, and therefore required average income in the four new projects, will be substantially lower than at Old Harbor Village, even though the 1,023 proposed dwelling units at Mission Hill are estimated to cost $6,473,000, which will not be crossed off, and the proposed 1,089 units at Charlestown, they say, will cost $8,214,000. The address by Mr. Breen delivered on November 20, 1939, still chanted the phrase "rehousing of slum dwellers," and still defined the word "cooperation" as meaning "tax exemption of low-rent housing projects and the acceptance of a service charge in place of taxation." Why must this program of government subsidy of low-rent, tax-free housing continue to be sold under false pretences? Twenty-seven out of the first fifty-one housing projects, including that at Old Harbor Village, were built on vacant land. Now, at least it can be said of the new projects that there is slum clearance. But any use of the slogan "rehouse the slum dwellers" is a positive snare and delusion. And so also is this continued reference to a service charge in place of taxation, when our local experience has proved, first, that the amount of the so-called service charge is infinitesimal; second, small as it is, payment is by no means certain; and in the third place, the city makes an additional gift to the Housing Authority amounting to twice the promised service charge which was to have been paid into the city treasury. I also bear in mind that although it has been repeatedly asserted there is no material difference between the operation of the English housing acts and our own, as a matter of fact there is the very important difference that the English projects are not exempt from real estate taxes, and so at least to that extent not in direct competition with tax-burdened, privately owned, real estate. But most ridiculous of all is any request that this Council remove the twenty-seven million limit on public housing, before we have any real detailed figures, or concrete facts, as to the operation or effect of the first twenty-seven million. As long ago as June 5 this body unanimously passed an order which I introduced, requesting certain items of information from the Boston Housing Authority, and the request was repeated on July 24. Do you know how much of the so-called $15,000 service charge was actually paid to the City of Boston by December 31, 1938, as agreed; or how much of the $30,000 handed over to the Housing Authority from the city treasury during 1938 as a loan was actually returned to the city as specifically agreed by the Housing Authority in writing on February 24, 1939? Do you know exactly what disposition was made of the $30,000 passed over to the Housing Authority during 1938, except that $800 was spent for a set of law books, $690 for memberships in National and State Housing groups, and $600 for an experimental apartment? Do you know whether $25,000 more has been given the Housing Authority this year by transfer from the Contingent Fund? Do you know how ridiculously low the so-called "service charge" for the four projects now in process will be; or whether the $15,000 service charge for Old Harbor Village has been paid in full for either 1938 or 1939? Have you any real idea as to the present number of officials and employees of the Boston Housing Authority, or the weekly pay roll, or why outsiders should be paid a 2 per cent brokerage commission for inducing frightened owners to sign away their property at a sacrifice figure? Do you know whether such properties as were owned by the city were taken and paid for at the assessed valuation, or only at the tax-title price? Do you know how much property, including scores of city streets, have been substantially donated to the Housing Authority by the city? In addition to waiving all real estate taxes on nineteen million dollars worth of property included in the new fifty-four-acre development, do you know what other donations are being made by the City of Boston, either in the form of abandoned city streets and other areas or in sewer or other work? Have you ever seen the financial report of the Boston Housing Authority which should have been filed in January, 1939, with the City of Boston under the provisions of chapter 484, section 26EE, of the Acts of 1938? Do you know that the promised increased property valuations in the vicinity of Old Harbor Village have failed to materialize? Do you know whether further serious wall leakage in various buildings at Old Harbor Village again took place this past month? Do you know that our local program of apartment house projects is not the one being now followed in practically all other great cities in the country? I quote from a letter of the United States Housing Authority to me, dated August 24, 1939: "Of the fifty-three projects for which main construction contracts were awarded as of June 30, 1939, only seven are exclusively of the apartment house type, seven others are a combination of the apartment and row house type, while the remaining thirty-nine are exclusively row houses or twin houses or, in a few cases, a combination of row houses and flats. The term 'row houses' does not necessarily denote extremely long buildings. Some row buildings contain as few as three or four dwelling units. This is important. The savings in construction cost where row or twin houses are used is, of course, apparent. We have also found that in most cities the row or twin house which is, in effect, two or more separate houses joined together for economy in construction, make it possible for the local authority to shift some of the burden of maintenance to the tenants and thereby achieve lower rents." On completing its second year the United States Housing Authority reports fifteen projects occupied or nearing completion, 100 other projects under construction, and 296 projects in 135 cities approved, all at an estimated cost of $4,587 per dwelling unit, not including cost of buying and razing old slum buildings. Meanwhile, four and five room frame houses have been developed and sold in St. Louis at a cost of $2,930 to $3,150 per house, including garage, hot air heating, hardwood floors, and tiled bathroom and kitchen. These houses are within reach of $1,500 to $2,000 a year families, since they can be purchased for $300 down and about $21 a month. On such an arrangement the occupants have a real stake in the community in which they live, and the development is not in direct competition with privately owned real estate which already bears over 80 per cent of the cost of government. Do you know to how great an extent the construction of millions of dollars worth more tax-free housing will be in direct competition with tax-burdened property owners whose buildings self-supporting families making an average of $25 per week will vacate? Except for vague guesses, do you know what, if any, provision in further housing apartments will be made for over 52,000 Boston families now on welfare or W. P. A.? Have you any definite, accurate conception of the desires of the great majority of the residents of your ward, so far as this vital question is concerned? As a matter of ordinary intelligence and average business experience, don't you believe at least we should have some very definite information from an actual working of a substantial part of the first twenty-seven million, before we make the sky the limit? Even Mr. Breen, in his recent remarks, pointed out that the Boston Housing Authority "has one of the largest outstanding commitments for Federal funds among the large cities of America." That being so, it would almost seem as though the most ardent housing advocates could afford to take it easy, until we have some concrete proof of the full advantages of housing to an unlimited extent. To date there has been no evidence whatever that it "re-houses slum dwellers." The poor and the destitute have received none of the benefits and nobody can claim that they have. Hundreds have been forced to migrate from their homes much against their desires. Of the 35,000 Boston families reported to be in the so-called lower middle class bracket eligible for housing project tenancy, only 4,207 will have been housed as a result of $25,000,000 of expenditure. And the effect on the financial structure of the city is still to be learned. Finally, may I suggest that it was land-hunger and the home-owning instinct and the desire to be reasonably free and independent of government control or interference that made this nation great. I don't believe that virtually ignoring the actually poor and the destitute,—even incident to slum clearance,—and setting up a selected group of 5,000, or even 10,000, self-supporting families with an average weekly income of $25, in tax-free, subsidized apartment blocks, is fair to the rest of the community, or economically sound. At least before we increase the amount about $27,000,000 we should be able to chart the future by the experience and the figures of the past. Before we order another full course dinner let's see if we can digest the first. Any body of men which blindly votes in favor of the present proposal, without any more facts or figures than have been made available to this City Council to date, ought to be legislated out of existence. You'll be hanging a millstone around the neck of the city. And there isn't a man in this room that has a single fact or figure on which he can honestly refute that statement. You owe it to yourselves,—but most of all you owe it to the people you represent,—to wait until you have such figures and something on which to base a vote to exceed the present $27,000,000. At least you won't bankrupt your community if you vote "no" at this time, and are wrong. But if you blindly vote "yes" and you're wrong, Boston will reap the whirlwind. I trust no unpleasant inference is to be drawn from the fact that this important vote is taken a few weeks after election rather than before an election day. There is sufficient leeway under the existing agreement to construct at least two more housing projects, making seven in all. I urge that logically we should not commit ourselves to more tax-free subsidized apartment housing projects until we can fairly judge the results of the program already aggregating over $33,000,000. That would be just ordinary business precaution. That is a rather extensive statement of the situation, Mr. President. But once this body has passed here this proposed order, and I feel that it will be passed by a majority of the members of the Council,—it will be beyond the power of these twenty-two men or any other twenty-two men, and it will be beyond the power of the authorities of the City of Boston, to call a halt, in the interest of the tax-paying public. Time and time again it will be thrown up to you that you created the situation, and the Housing Authority will remind you that it is none of your business what they do; and, more than that, carrying out their policy up to the present time, they will refuse to give you figures and facts in spite of orders passed by this Council and questions you may ask that any ordinary business man in Boston would expect to ask in a matter that concerns the expenditure of many millions of dollars. So, while my services here are nearing an end, I would like it made a matter of record that I voted against passing the order, because I believe it is simply one more step towards an absolute sky limit by those in favor of such housing, and I believe if this sort of thing continues Boston will change from a city of homes and of apartment dwellers to a department of the Federal government. I have no criticism, incidentally, of those who dwell in apartment houses. Many prefer them and they are at times more convenient for certain people in a great city. We must have apartment houses. But I again repeat that it was not brick blocks that made this nation great. It was the desire of the American citizen to own his home. I would also state again that, for far less than is being spent here today, the great city of St. Louis and other cities in this country, have already proved that single houses can be built and bought on the instalment plan by the same types of people who move into these apartment blocks, at a third less than it is costing the American government to erect these projects in Boston and in other cities, these projects simply going on as they are because it is getting to be the popular thing for people to put their hands in the dough dish. I don't care whether the expenditure in such a case is a million or one hundred million, whether it is spent in Hawaii, in Boston or in other cities of the United States, let nobody deceive himself with the idea that in these projects we are getting something for nothing. We are simply taking the money expended in this way from the taxpayers, money that should not be used for this purpose.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, I also wish to express my sentiments on this matter of Federal housing. About a year ago this body voted for Federal housing at Mission Hill and in the South Boston area, and the same sort of projects have been advocated for other areas. And yet, when these projects were started, what did the Council hear? Hundreds of people appealed to their councilors, stating that they were being thrown out of their homes, forced to go into other areas where worse conditions prevailed than in the homes where they had lived. I remember only too well an old colored woman from Roxbury who appealed to the Council to do something for her and others in her position, stating that the Housing Authority was forcing her into a rat-infested area. It became clear that thousands of people would be forced out of their homes into areas much worse than those in which they were living. A number of people say that Federal housing is going to benefit the poor. I say that Federal housing should never be considered by this Council if we are to have any humanitarian feelings, that it will be of no benefit to the very needy. I say it is the neediest poor who should be given the benefit, and that the neediest poor are being forced into slum areas, while men earning $2,000 a year—much more than the neediest people in the community earn—are the ones who are to be benefited; not the people in this city or in other parts of the United States who have only $15 a week, because those people are not eligible to live in Federal housing projects. What sort of hypocrisy is it when this Council is told that in voting for a project of this sort we are going to benefit the poor? The poor people of Boston will not be benefited. They are going to be shunted into areas where the living conditions will be much worse than the places they now occupy.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, I thought I was living sixty years ago when I heard the members here condemning slum clearance. Do you realize what a wonderful thing has been done in furnishing decent homes to poor children? I would like to have members of this body who do not believe in these projects come out with me and visit places where they are in operation and see the wonderful work that they are doing. And I would like to make a date now.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, I would like to enlighten this body about a few things.

President MURRAY—The gentleman is out of order. Coun. Norton has the floor.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, the gentleman, I understood completed his remarks, and I then took the floor. I have not surrendered the floor to him.

President MURRAY—Coun. Norton has the floor. The Chair understands that he has not completed his remarks.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, I had not yielded the floor to the gentleman. As I sat here, it seems as if I were listening to remarks made sixty years ago, from the friends of slums. How dare you stand on this floor in the year 1939 and try to condemn something that the whole civilized world has accepted? You a friend of the poor! You talking about poor people! Go over there to this project in South Boston and see that children's paradise, with 2,000 or more children. Go over there and see the husbands, wives and children, your friends of slums, and you will not come back here and say that they should not be there. The average income of a man living over there in South Boston is $25 a week, and I challenge anybody within hearing of my voice to get a decent home in Boston on an income of $25 a week. Who is over there? A man running an elevator in Jordan Marsh's, a man working in a bar room at $25 a week,—people in those walks of life, who would be unable under ordinary conditions to get such decent housing as is afforded over there. As for the remarks of the councilor from Ward 17, if anybody wants to get an accomplished lawyer, familiar with Webster's Dictionary, who can draw up interrogatories that will go into the profoundest details and who can put a desperate case in the very best light, he should see my good colleague! We have heard from the councilor on my left (Coun. Wilson) that there are fine hardwood floors in the houses to be demolished in connection with the Charlestown project, but he did not tell you that over in Charlestown, in the houses to be demolished, 80 per cent are without central heating and 50 per cent without hot water, to say nothing of the overcrowded conditions that exist. But if you will go over to the project in South Boston you will find 2,000 children in decent apartments getting a good warm bath for the first time in their lives. Members of the Council, in voting for this order you are going to look back twenty years from now upon your vote as the most important vote in your political careers. We are now in this matter facing such a situation as Horace Mann faced in 1847 and 1848 in the matter of schools for the under-privileged, resulting in the magnificent educational facilities furnished in every civilized American community today. You are in the same position as confronted those who started the Boston City Hospital in 1860. There were objections then from the same type of philosophers who come here today and condemn slum clearance. They tell you that this does not relieve the problem of the very poor. If that is so, why not take $300,000 from welfare and furnish rent free in such projects to the worthiest and neediest families in Boston, so that they will not have to pay a cent for rent? Take those who are in old homes, homes with leaky roofs, and without proper living facilities and put them over there.

Coun. WILSON—If you file such an order, I shall be glad to vote for it.

Coun. NORTON—I have already filed such orders, but have found no help.

Coun. WILSON—I will vote for it.

Coun. NORTON—Well, you are only one. Ask the rest of your colleagues to vote for it. If you are a friend of the poor, you can come in at the next meeting and help pass a vote that rent for people in such circumstances in some of these projects will be nothing. Then you will take care of the people that you refer to. We can do that sort of thing if we have enough of these projects, but why in the name of God, when three times as many children die in the first year of their lives in the congested areas than in the suburban district I come from, isn't something done about it? There isn't a reason in the world, except the opposition that comes from philosophers in politics, who are unwilling to give to the poor children, the masses, warm homes and proper living conditions. Let us close this battery of argument, and let us act in the interest of poor, deserving people in this community. Do you want to throw out those 2,000 children over there who for the first time in their lives are enjoying a warm home? Let me tell you about the only family that I put in in South Boston, the only one. That was the family of a woman who works down in Thompson's Spa, who had three children, and who lived up near the Old Howard Theatre, in a miserable apartment. She has now been over there in the project for a year and a half, and she thanks God that a sick child, with a tendency to tuberculosis, is now well. Never before had she appreciated the blessings of a good, warm home. She never lost a day in fifteen years at Thompson's Spa, a hard working, worthy woman, with three children. She feels that the conditions she now enjoys with her family are heavenly. Does anybody here want to throw her out? But I don't worry,—there are enough humane members of the Boston City Council to vote for that unit and other units and to see that they are carried through. I was invited and went over to a very interesting affair in the South Boston project, where the youngsters presented me with a bouquet, and where I had the delightful experience of meeting these happy children who now have a warm home. In the name of God, is there anyone who would deny to 2,000 children a decent home? You will look on your vote for this order today as the finest vote you ever cast, in years to come, because you are helping the poor. Political life is short. We are going through it today and it is over tomorrow. You and I can only hope that somewhere, somehow, here or there, we are giving help to the under-privileged. Of course, there are always these philosophers who will try to hold up Uncle Sam when he is attempting to do something for the under-privileged people of this country. Out in Cleveland a month ago we had the cry, "Stop this welfare racket." Well, you know what happened there last week in Ohio, as a result. I say that if you stop W. P. A., taking away from millions what they receive in that way, you will soon have no cities and will have no country. Don't you allow anyone to attack those people. They are your brothers and sisters, fathers and mothers. You hear fellows talking about eliminating that man in the White House, our great humanitarian President. What is going to happen to this country if people who are now unable to get work are not to be provided with an opportunity to make a living? I say that before we get through this public housing is going to cost millions more, and in voting for this order today you will be casting the finest vote of your political careers. You are doing something constructive for the under-privileged, and you will always look back on your vote as one of the finest votes you ever cast as public officials.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, in answer to the councilor from Hyde Park, let me say that I recall not so long ago that he was in my district, with other potential office seekers, and he raised the issue of housing at that time against me. But we have found out how the people feel in regard to it. I may also state that when I sought re-election to the office of City Councilor my vote on public housing was raised as an issue against me, and we know the result. When the councilor speaks about these projects taking care of the poor, I want to remind him that those on Welfare or W. P. A., getting $18 a week, will not benefit by these housing projects, and it is such people who constitute the majority of the poor in Boston. I am happy to say that the people in my district were too intelligent to fall for the sort of talk that we have heard from some of the members of this Honorable Body, and I would urge the Body to recall the actions of the gentleman from Hyde Park, actions into which he has been led as a result of his methods of reasoning. I would refer back to the dog track episode. Originally he favored it because he thought it would be for the benefit of the district, but suddenly he turned over and was against it. I might also say that, as chairman of the Committee on Appropriations this year, I conducted one of the longest hearings that we have had on the budget. The councilor from Hyde Park was a member of that committee, but did not appear.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I rise to a point of order, that the councilor is not now speaking on the question, but merely on a personal issue.

President MURRAY—The point of order is well taken.

The clerk will now call the roll.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

President MURRAY—What is the point of order?

Coun. NORTON—That I should have the right to answer for the record what the gentleman has said. I would say to the gentleman, when he speaks about conducting the budget hearings, that your action on the budget was a disgrace.

President MURRAY—The gentleman is out of order.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, if we are to have any fairness and decency in this Body, one man cannot be ruled out of order when he makes a personal remark, while another man, who makes a more personal remark, is allowed to continue.

President MURRAY—The question is on the passage of the order, and the clerk will call the roll. The order was passed, yeas 16, nays 4.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CLAIMS.

Coun. LANGAN, for the Committee on Claims, submitted the following:

Report on petition of Felix F. Sharkey (referred October 23) to be reimbursed for amount of judgment issued against him on account of his acts as member of Boston Police Department—recommending passage of accompanying order, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of six hundred dollars ($600) be allowed and paid to Felix F. Sharkey in reimbursement for amount of judgment issued against him on account of his acts as a member of the Boston Police Department, said sum to be charged to the Contingent Fund.

The report was accepted and the order passed.

PAYMENT TO DANIEL A. WHELTON.

Coun. FITZGERALD offered the following:

Ordered, That the sum of six hundred dollars be allowed and paid to Daniel A. Whelton in reimbursement for amount of premiums paid by him on his bond as Special Sheriff of Suffolk County, said sum to be charged to the Contingent Fund.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee. Coun. FITZGERALD requesting that the Corporation Counsel be invited to be present when the order was considered.

TRAFFIC, WARD 20.

Coun. LYONS offered the following:

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install automatic traffic signals on Centre street, West Roxbury, in front of the Holy Name Church.

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install a "stop" sign at the corner of South and Centre streets, Ward 20.

Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to devise a new route for the trucks of Moran Service, Inc., who have the Brighton ash removal contract and whose trucks now pass through La Grange, Lasell and Baker streets, West Roxbury, to reach their dump in Dedham.

Severally passed under suspension of the rule.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS, WARD 13.

Coun. HUTCHINSON offered the following: Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to install automatic traffic signals at the following intersections in Ward 13, the expense of same to be charged to the Contingent Fund: Dorchester avenue and Crescent avenue. Blue Hill avenue and Quincy street. Dorchester avenue and Savin Hill avenue. Passed under suspension of the rule.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS.

Coun. HUTCHINSON offered the following: Ordered, That the Traffic Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inform the City Council as to the number of complete automatic traffic signals which he has available for installation and also a complete list of the equipment which he has on hand for repairing such traffic signals as may require same.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred thousand dollars be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Traffic Commissioner for the installation of automatic traffic signals at dangerous intersections throughout the city and that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. HUTCHINSON—Mr. President, members of the Council have repeatedly introduced traffic light orders for their districts into this Body, and councilor after councilor has been refused, with the answer that there is not money enough for traffic lights. We all know that the life and safety of the people of Boston are important. I myself have spoken to the Mayor and told him that if nothing else was done in my ward I would like to have traffic lights in certain places. I have tried to get money through the Highway Fund on the theory that traffic lights were just as important on a road as the surface of the road. I claimed that it is not only necessary to have properly surfaced highways, but that it was up to us to maintain them under safe conditions. That was refused, and I then introduced an order to provide money for the purpose out of tax title real estate. That also was refused. I now offer an order to take money for this purpose by loan, and I imagine that that will be refused.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. If the order for $23,000 for the work of the Survey Committee fails to pass, might not that money be used for traffic lights?

Coun. HUTCHINSON—Mr. President, since I came into the Council I have never voted against a worthwhile order on the ground that my action on another worthwhile order might be considered as a boomerang. All orders, of course, must stand on their merits. One of the orders I have introduced refers to such equipment as the Traffic Commission may now have in their yard. I understand that they have equipment there that has not been used for nine years, although councilor after councilor has been asking for traffic lights, and we all know that it is a rare occasion when a traffic light is bowled over by an automobile. The other order I have introduced which provides $100,000 for traffic lights is an order that will mean protection of the lives and safety of the people of Boston, and I hope it will pass.

Coun. AGNEW—Mr. President, I recall a few months ago when the Mayor in his generosity sent an order to the Council providing $11,000 for traffic lights, the Council, as I remember, by a tie vote, rejected the order. But the Mayor did try to do something along this line in that way, and the Council rejected it.

Coun. HUTCHINSON—Mr. President, I would like to ask a question. Isn't it a fact that $11,000 was not enough to begin to take care of the situation?

Coun. AGNEW—It is also true that a survey was made three, four or five years ago, and it developed that the amount necessary for traffic lights in the city would be $2,000,000. Of course, that was out of the question. But we could have taken the money that the Mayor offered and probably later have received more. We rejected the order for traffic lights, however, and that money was invested in the Deer Island chicken farm.

President MURRAY—The Chair will remind the gentleman that this discussion is immaterial. The question is on the passage of the orders.

The order requesting the Traffic Commissioner to inform the Council as to the number of complete automatic traffic signals available was passed and the order to appropriate $100,000 for the installation of automatic traffic signals was referred to the Committee on Finance.

GUARD RAILS ON BRIDGES.

Coun. GALVIN offered the following: Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange for the installation of guard rails on the Alford Street Bridge and the Prison Point Bridge for the safety of motorists using these bridges.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

WELFARE PAYMENTS BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

Coun. GALVIN offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to direct the officials of the Public Welfare Department and the Soldiers' Relief Department to make arrangements so that every recipient of aid or relief be given such payment sufficiently in advance of Christmas as to permit such recipient to make necessary purchases for the holiday season.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

LIST OF ABATEMENTS AND REFUNDS.

Coun. KERRIGAN offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Assessors be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish the City Council with a complete list of abatements of $10,000 or over which have been granted under the present administration since the beginning of the year 1937, together with a complete list of cash refunds of $200 or over which have been made on taxes which had already been paid; and be it further

INDUSTRIAL STRIFE; PEACE BOARDS.

Two large cities, Philadelphia and Toledo, have "peace boards" operating for conciliation between capital and labor in the local field, the magazine "Public Management," official organ of the International City Managers' Association, points out. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia has just appointed such a board for New York City and Newark's Commission has just created by ordinance a Municipal Labor Relations Board.

Toledo's Peace Board has eighteen members; five named by the Central Labor Union, five by the Chamber of Commerce and eight selected at large. Representatives at large include two judges, two attorneys, a Catholic monsignor, a Jewish Rabbi, a merchant and the county relief director, all serving without pay.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 508 City Hall Annex, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States, for blasting rock for sewerage works in Dorchester and Hyde Park. A bond will be required for doing the work of a surety company approved by the Commissioner in the sum of 100 per cent of the amount of the contract, to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Forms of proposals may be obtained at Room 508, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Blasting Rock for Sewerage Works in Dorchester and Hyde Park," and left at Room 508, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, before 12 m. of Friday, December 22, 1939, with a certified check for four hundred (400) dollars, payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the bids. There will be a charge of two dollars ($2) for each set of plans and specifications taken out. If the price of any item appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low, or the bidder neglects to bid on each and every item, it may lead to the rejection of the proposal containing such price. The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth, a copy of which schedule is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works. The successful bidder will be required to provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under chapter 152 of the General Laws (the Workmen's Compensation Law so called) to all persons to be employed under this contract and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required prior to the award of said contract. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to award the contract as he deems best.

MAYOR TOBIN PROMISES CONTINUED COOPERATION WITH BOSTON HOUSING AUTHORITY IN WORK OF IMPROVING SUB-STANDARD AREAS AND PROVIDING BETTER LIVING CONDITIONS FOR CITIZENS WHOSE INCOME WOULD NOT OTHERWISE ALLOW THEM TO SECURE HOMES OF SUITABLE KIND WITHIN THEIR MEANS—SEEKS TO ELIMINATE PLACES THAT BREED DISEASE, CRIME AND DELINQUENCY—ADDRESSES PUBLIC COMMEMORATIVE MEETING OF AUTHORITY AT HOTEL BRADFORD.

At the Public Meeting of the Boston Housing Authority, at the Hotel Bradford, on Wednesday evening, December 13, Mayor Tobin spoke as follows:

It is a very great pleasure for me to attend this anniversary marking the completion of one year since the date when the activity of the Boston Housing Authority started under the 1938 state legislation and the 1937 federal legislation.

Exactly one hundred years before our state legislation became effective, in the year 1838, a Boston resident made the first public plea in this country for decent housing conditions for families of low income. That Boston resident was a woman, a remarkable pioneer, who was generations ahead of her time, Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale. She talked about "The effect of environment on character"; and she wrote that "very few tenements have been constructed with reference to the wants of the poor." The pioneering spirit of Massachusetts and of Boston in social legislation and in progressive public action finds its symbol in Mrs. Sarah Hale.

It was another citizen of the Commonwealth, a prosperous merchant from the city of Salem, later a Boston banker, who spent a considerable part of his life in England and who recognized the need for philanthropic interest in the inhabitants of the slums of London. This philanthropist, George Foster Peabody, undertook the first counterpart of modern housing activity about fifty years ago when he supplied the funds for the construction of model dwellings to replace the dismal London slums.

SUB-STANDARD AREAS.

As citizens of the City of Boston, we would be blind to the realities if we failed to recognize that there exist whole areas in this city wherein the standards of American living are far below the minimum necessities characterized by American life. The long period of the depression; the operation of relentless economic factors; and the lack of immigration have all contributed to an aggravation of a bad condition. In Boston today, there are countless buildings so outmoded and obsolete, and in such a state of dilapidation, that they are no longer fit for habitation—no matter how low you may set the standard of decent living—and which must be reconstructed or replaced if we are to meet the challenge of the forces of decay and disorder.

The alleviation of these conditions has come to be recognized as a responsibility of Government. Federal and state legislative bodies have given consideration to their responsibility in this situation over an extended period of time, and there is a long list of legislative remedies which have been proposed, and a host of decisions which uphold the constitutional propriety of such attempts to rectify these abuses.

There are many citizens who have recognized the evils which result from the predominance of unsafe and unsanitary buildings, but who feel that private enterprise is capable of coping with the situation. On the other hand, it is the unanimous opinion of all who have given mature thought to the problem and have studied it at great length that this solution of the problem is not sound. To support this position, I should like to quote from the decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth handed down about three weeks ago, in which the Housing Authority Law enacted in 1938 was declared constitutional:

"Whatever good may have been accomplished by means of existing regulatory laws and ordinances enacted in pursuance of police powers, neither these means nor the operation of private enterprise has thus far abolished the evils of slums."

PERNICIOUS INFLUENCE.

"It is unnecessary to dilate at length upon the pernicious influence of slums, upon the manner in which that influence may be found to reach out and to affect an entire community, lowering moral standards and increasing the cost to all of police, fire and health protection.

The elimination of slums can be found to be a direct benefit and advantage to all of the people, to be a matter not readily approached through private initiative but demanding a co-ordinated effort by a single authority, to be in line with the purposes of promoting the public safety, health and welfare for which the government of the Commonwealth was established, and to require for its successful accomplishment the exercise of the power of eminent domain. It may well be deemed to rise to the dignity of a public service. . . .

"The real purpose of the statute is . . . the elimination of slums, and the provision by public funds of low-rent housing is only a means by which the main object is to be accomplished. The statute as a whole is designed to serve a public need, and the money expended for low-rent housing, as well as that expended for slum clearance, is for a public use. . . ."

I do not believe that even the most ardent advocates of housing maintain that this legislation and the administrative rulings flowing from it are in all respects perfect. Pioneer legislation is never perfect. As time goes on and as the program progresses, it will become evident that certain changes are desirable and necessary. It is for this reason that, as Mayor of the City of Boston, I wish to urge upon all the citizens who are interested in housing to familiarize themselves with the operation of this legislation. I wish particularly to recommend to the executive staff of the Housing Authority that they do not lose sight of the major objectives of this great social legislation. No thinking citizen can find fault with the primary objective of the housing movement, which is the elimination of unsafe and unsanitary dwellings, and their attendant evils, but too often in the past, in the host of administrative details which are necessary to make legislation work, administrative and executive officials have lost sight of fundamentals.

I cannot too strongly stress the great responsibility which will rest upon the Housing Authority in performing the secondary operation under this act, namely, providing housing at low rents for persons in the lowest income group. In performing this very necessary function under the Housing Act, it should be recognized by all that a large number of families will be given extraordinary privileges at the expense of their fellow citizens, many of whom are in but slightly higher economic brackets than those who are the recipients of this special benefit.

DECENT HABITATIONS PROVIDED.

For this reason it is gratifying to me to note that the Boston Housing Authority is providing decent and adequate accommodations under its program but is avoiding the mistakes of the earlier P. W. A. Housing Division Program, and is finding numberless economies which result in a greatly reduced cost per dwelling unit. Further economies in this direction will be necessary. It is essential that no unusual frills or services should characterize the construction or management policies which will be put into effect in these projects.

I cannot too strongly reiterate the need for extreme care in the selection of tenants for housing projects so that we may be assured that only the persons in the greatest need will be benefited, and that there will be no favoritism whatsoever.

The business of providing housing for the people of this city is one of the most vital stones in the arch of economic stability. The collapse of the building industry and the stubborn refusal of that type of activity to yield to all manner of government assistance and impetus, is one of the foremost reasons for the continuance of this period of economic depression which is now finishing its first decade.

I will be very much disappointed if the activity upon which the Boston Housing Authority has now embarked and which it will undertake in the future, does not contribute in a large measure to the revival of active private interest and participation in this important field. As the direct result of experiment and study under this program of public housing, I feel ways and means will be devised to encourage the return of private sponsorship and effort to housing activity. And this is one of the primary objectives of public housing—to spur on private initiative—to show the way and make clear the rough road—and this objective I recommend that our Housing Authority keep constantly in mind.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD.

In viewing the past year of activity of the Housing Authority, I am pleased to say that I am deeply impressed with the record of accomplishment. With construction already under way on fifty-four acres of ground, we have experienced a succession of new and very difficult problems which have been met and successfully solved. When considering the magnitude of the manifold and difficult problems in human relations, particularly in removing and rehousing over 2,400 families who formerly lived on the sites, and the splendid record which has been made in the acquisition of almost 1,200 parcels of land, most of which were acquired by voluntary agreement with owners, I should say that in celebrating this occasion the Housing Authority and the members of its executive staff may be justifiably proud of their accomplishments.

The recent action of the Boston City Council in voting for further authorization of cooperation with the Authority and its program, seems to me to best represent the confidence which the citizens of Boston have in the Housing Authority.

May I congratulate the Boston Housing Authority on its record of accomplishment and bespeak my cooperation with them in the development of a program for the years to come—a program that will eliminate the breeding places of disease, crime and juvenile delinquency.

And, in closing, let me repeat the words uttered by our great humanitarian, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, when the United States Housing Authority first begun its activities:

"We are launching an attack on the slums of this country which must go forward until every American family has a decent home."

Superintendent of Construction.

Upon December 18 the Mayor approved a contract as indicated in the following communication:

BOSTON, December 7, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,

Mayor of Boston.

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR,—On February 7, 1939, in answer to an advertisement inserted in the City Record under date of January 21, 1939, bids were received in this office for certain parcels of land in the Moss Hill section of the Agassiz District in Jamaica Plain. Seven bids were received, all within the district prescribed by the Superintendent of Schools, as per list attached.

After the opening of the bids a committee consisting of the Superintendent of Schools, the Board of Commissioners of School Buildings, the civil engineer and myself visited all of the sites offered.

As a result of our investigation we found that of the seven offers submitted two of these sites attracted our attention.

First, the site on Westchester road, containing 46,746 square feet, at a selling price of $5,000, offered by Frederick A. Winchester and others. This land was assessed at ten to twelve cents per square foot.

Second, the site on Rambler road, offered in the name of Elizabeth T. Sweeney, containing approximately 23,857 square feet of land, at a price of $5,000. This land is assessed at ten cents per square foot.

Previous to the opening of the bids an informal bid was sent to the Superintendent of Schools by Robert T. Fowler, agent for certain land in Louder's lane. This agent did not submit his offer formally at the time of the opening of the bids. During the month of August of this year an offer for the same site was received from A. J. Koob, real estate agent for this property. His offer consisted of 35,000 square feet of land at the end of Louder's lane at a selling price of ten cents per square foot. In submitting this offer, the agent notified us of the willingness of the owners to donate free to the city an additional area of approximately 35,000 square feet for playground use; or the owners would sell to the city 70,000 square feet at five cents per square foot. If this offer is accepted, the city would purchase approximately 75,000 square feet of land for $3,750. For your information this 75,000 square feet of land is assessed for three cents per foot.

I have given a great deal of study and time to this matter and I have come to the conclusion that the city should accept this offer of land on Louder's lane, as the price is the lowest price for the larger area. The location of the site seems to be satisfactory to all the residents of this section who have been interested in the erection of a school building in this locality. It appears to me that the location of a school building on this proposed site would be the means of opening up in the future a large tract of land for home building. This area of 75,000 square feet would be sufficient for the construction in the future of a twelve-room building. In addition, this area of 75,000 square feet would not only provide ample area for playground purposes in connection with the school and it would also provide a sizeable playground for the children in this vicinity.

I have submitted to the Superintendent of Schools a description of the lot and I am inclosing herewith his approval and a blueprint showing the location of the site. I respectfully request your Honor's approval of this proposed taking.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES J. MAHAR,
Superintendent of Construction.

TRANSFERS IN APPROPRIATIONS.

forward to the Mayor the following request for transfer within the appropriations of the Institutions Department:

From the appropriation for Available Sources (Collecting Department), B-35, Fees, Services of Venires, etc., $1,300, to the appropriation for Steamers "Hibbard" and "O'Meara," D-3, Fuel, $1,300.

Appropriation for fuel oil has been exhausted. Transfer of $1,500 was requested July 20, but not approved. Since that time we have been obliged to provide for emergency repairs and changes in salary so that the necessary amount is no longer available for transfer within the appropriation. Unexpended balance on D-3 October 31, $496.49; balance required on Requisition 66, 470 barrels at $1.05, $494; Requisition 85, 600 barrels for November at $1.05, $630; estimate 600 barrels for December at $1.05, $630—$1,754. Additional funds required, $1,300. Cost of fuel for use in 1939 is about $600 more than in 1938, due principally to increase in service rendered.

At present the "O'Meara" is substituting for the "Perkins," thus saving expense of a substitute boat.

Fuel used and paid for in 1938, $5,935; fuel used in 1938 and paid for in 1939, $302. Cost of oil used in 1938, $6,237.

Estimated expenditure for fuel 1939, $7,200; less amount used in 1938, $302. Cost of oil used in 1939, $6,898.

Respectfully,

HUGH J. CAMPBELL,
Commissioner.

The above transfer was made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor December 18, 1939.

Pianists, etc., at $22 a week, $1,500, to the appropriation for A-1, Cemetery Division, L-11, Laborers, etc., at $5 a day, $3,000.

This transfer is occasioned by the fact that our Trust Fund interest has fallen over $5,400 below amount received in previous year. If we should receive any additional interest this month, it will be so small that it will not make a material difference in deficit. Had the interest lived up to expectations we would have finished with a substantial balance, but it is a matter over which we have no control. This transfer is needed to meet pay rolls for week ending December 19.

STATE VALUATIONS IN 1937.

Total assessed value of real estate on January 1, 1937, in the thirty-nine cities and 316 towns of Massachusetts, $5,742,161,541 ($18,194,654 less than on January 1, 1936), of which 65.62 per cent applied to buildings and 34.38 per cent to land; of personalty, $525,039,493; aggregate valuation, $6,267,201,034 (2.74 per cent decrease from 1936), on which the total tax was $222,184,422. To raise this amount of taxes on the property assessed at a uniform rate throughout the State would have required a tax rate of $35.45+ on $1,000 valuation. Boston's valuation, $1,590,544,700, equal to 25.38 per cent of total valuation in the State.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of fifty or sixty persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about four hundred persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a governor and council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on October 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott fifteen years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving twelve years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed eighty-two years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name, Massachusetts, is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

INFORMATION AS TO BOSTON ELEVATED ORDER.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to advise the City Council with reference to Council order passed June 12, 1939, asking action by the Corporation Counsel concerning the Boston Elevated Railway Company.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, on June 12, 1939, the Council passed an order which I introduced requesting the Corporation Counsel to bring a bill in equity on behalf of the City of Boston as a stockholder of the Boston Elevated Railway; and, in order to make the City of Boston a minority stockholder of the Elevated, I would state that I personally that morning purchased from Burr, Gannet & Co. a share of stock in the Boston Elevated, at $48.50, which I and other councilors are prepared to donate to the City of Boston if the Council and the Mayor comply with the Council's suggestion in regard to the Corporation Counsel preparing such bill in equity. I am aware, of course, of the fact that the Finance Commission are supposed to be studying the books and the management of the Boston Elevated, although the results of that investigation, tentative or otherwise, are yet to be reported. Naturally, before the close of the month, I would more than appreciate the advice of the Corporation Counsel or the Mayor's Office in regard to any possible action in accordance with our request. In the meantime, nothing has happened, except that the members of the Council who may participate in the purchase of this share of stock have been enriched by a dividend of $1.25. I would certainly like to have the attitude of the city in this matter made more clear, in order that we may know before the end of the year whether this share of stock is to be placed in the name of the City of Boston. With that in mind, and also with the hope that the Finance Commission might make some report of progress, I have offered this order at this time.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

SURVEY COMMITTEE APPROPRIATION.

Coun. NORTON called up, under unfinished business, No. 3 on the calendar, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of $25,000 be, and hereby is, appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Mayor, for a survey of municipal departments, methods, activities, for the purpose of ascertaining what economies can be recommended, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for the Contingent Fund.

The question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I spoke at some length upon this order at our last meeting, of December 4, and I then felt that it was highly undesirable for the Council to pass this additional transfer of $25,000 without in some way consulting the department heads of the city. I introduced an order last week trusting that the question might be submitted in writing to the various department heads, so that we might obtain information as to whether the work of the Survey Committee had been satisfactory to their departments. But, although a number of department heads were present here at our last meeting, they were not consulted at that time in regard to their feeling in the matter. I have since, however, consulted various department heads and, frankly, have been somewhat surprised to find that they invariably stated that in their opinion the services of this committee have been of substantial value. After all, the passage of this order, if it is passed, could not be considered as a reflection on anybody but the department heads, if a reflection on anybody, and I now frankly admit, after such conference with them, I must rely in this matter, in spite of the feeling I was previously inclined to have, on their opinion, that the work of the committee is of substantial value. I feel, in fairness to the members who agreed with me at the last meeting, that I should state that I shall now vote for the order. I shall, therefore, today vote "yes" on its passage.

The order was passed, upon roll call, yeas 20, nays 0.

NEW SIDEWALKS, FLORENCE STREET.

Coun. LANGAN offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to construct new sidewalks along both sides of Florence street, Ward 19, under the W. P. A. type of construction.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

SHORT RECESS.

By direction of the Chairman, the Council at 2:58 p. m. took a short recess until 3:05 p. m.

ACCEPTANCE OF LAND, WEST ROXBURY.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to accept donation of 300,000 square feet of land in the West Roxbury district of Boston, together with such other donations of vacant land as may be presented.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, I would ask what land is about to be donated, and where it is?

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I do not blame the gentleman from the Back Bay for wondering, even in this approaching Yuletide season, about this proposed gift to the city. But I am informed that there is no other section of the city outside of West Roxbury, except Hyde Park, where there is any such tract of land as is here suggested, that might be presented to the City of Boston. I am, however, informed that there is such a tract which has been offered to the city, with more to come, which, together with possible tax title additions, land which may be acquired under tax title procedure, will result in very substantial tracts of land coming in the near future to the City of Boston. I do not understand that the gift referred to will be other than a 100 per cent gift, made in the Christmas spirit.

The order was declared passed under suspension of the rule.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I don't see how we can accept anything without knowing what we are accepting. (Laughter.)

Chairman FITZGERALD—The order has been passed.

Coun. TAYLOR—Yes, it seems to have been rushed through, but I would like to have a reconsideration.

Chairman FITZGERALD—It is only a request, after all, so that no harm will be done.

Coun. TAYLOR—Well, even in the case of a request for acceptance of a donation of this kind, I think we should know something about what we are acting upon.

Chairman FITZGERALD—Well, of course, the Mayor can, if necessary, exercise the veto power.

Coun. TAYLOR—I don't believe we should accept a pig in a poke.

The order stood passed.

FLOODING OF MCCONNELL PARK, SAVIN HILL.

Coun. HUTCHINSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Park Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange for the flooding of McConnell Park, Savin Hill, for skating purposes and to also arrange to keep the field house open so that skaters may change their shoes and use the lockers.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

USE OF W. P. A. ARCHITECTS IN HOUSING PROJECTS.

Coun. WILSON and CHASE offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to avail itself of W. P. A. facilities in the matter of architect services on further housing projects.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, I think it is only proper at this time to call the attention of the Council to the fact that on previous housing projects there has been a cost of in the vicinity of hundreds of thousands of dollars for architectural services. These housing projects, as proposed by the Federal authorities, are supposed, as I understand it, to benefit the unemployed in Boston, the unfortunate, and still we have here hundreds of architects in Boston out of work, walking our streets, who might be placed at work and benefited by such work. As I understand it, the architectural jobs on these projects are given to architects who in many cases do not even live in Boston, and their fees run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. I think it is about time that we, as representatives of the people of Boston, should make an honest effort to see that these unemployed architects are given an opportunity to go to work in preference to outsiders, who are frequently wealthy men. I believe this Body, in so far as it can do so, should insist that all housing construction be done through relief work and not through private contract, and it seems to me if we are to carry out that idea we should give our unemployed architects a chance to do this work. I feel that one of the reasons why housing projects have been railroaded through this Council has been because of the pressure put on the Body by contractors and others who are simply interested in housing because of what they got out of it. With the housing projects already contemplated and in process, it is easy to see that there is a great deal of benefit to be derived by others than the unemployed and poor, particularly with architects' fees in connection with Federal housing in Boston which will probably run up to $1,800,000 or more. Certainly, the Housing Authority has power to urge Congress to have architectural work on these projects done under W. P. A. by unemployed architects, and I believe the opportunity thus presented to the Government should be availed of. I hope, therefore, that Congress will be urged and that the Federal Housing Authority will be urged to take steps in this direction, and I trust that this Body will pass this order.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I also urge the passage of the order for a number of reasons. I have in mind first of all that one of the primary reasons back of these housing projects is worry concerning the unemployed. I understand that there is a large number of college graduates, well educated architects and draftsmen, who are on W. P. A. who would be eligible for such work and who might properly expect their services to be employed on work carried out by public authorities. In the second place, if architects' fees on these housing projects are anything like the architects' fees on private construction, the usual 6 per cent when applied to $31,000,000 of housing would result in an expenditure of $1,860,000 for that one item alone. And remember, that this does not apply merely to housing projects that may be carried on in Boston, but that, if the principle suggested is adopted, it would cover architectural services throughout the country, resulting in greatly improved employment conditions for architects and draftsmen and in properly carrying out the theory upon which this whole housing movement has been based. For these three reasons, therefore,—first, to help in the unemployment situation, second, to reduce the cost of housing projects from the architectural angle, and third, to remove a persistent and growing suspicion that the naming of architects has a great deal to do with the movement to further these housing projects, I would urge the passage of this order.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, while I appreciate the sympathy that these two gentlemen have for the unemployed and for the poor, as shown in several directions in the past, nevertheless, I feel that we must look at the matter from another angle, as is the case in all these W. P. A. projects, dealing with the unemployed, and that is that some of these unemployed architects, men unable to secure a job for themselves, might well be unable to perform such a job as would be contemplated in these projects. It might well be that many of these men would lack the experience that would make them capable of handling projects of this kind. We can hardly expect young men who have not had experience, who perhaps have been but a short time out of school and who have not had the requisite training that would come from long experience in their profession, to properly handle the difficult problems that might present themselves in such work. Then, there is another important proposition. How about those men on W. P. A. who have been able to get only from $50 to $80 a month and who want to get back to a point where they can make a decent living for their families, in regular style? There are thousands and thousands of men on W. P. A. who have been earning practically nothing, men who have been connected with the building trades, draftsmen and others, who are looking for a chance to get back to real work, to have a real job. If these men who are doing expert work on these projects are thrown into W. P. A. they will not have that opportunity to get to work on a real job. I cannot see how we can ask Congress to do something that they have already decided not to do elsewhere. There is work on these housing projects that does not belong to W. P. A. but is supposed to give people an opportunity to get back to real jobs and make a decent living for their families. I believe, therefore, that this order ought not to pass.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, no doubt the gentlemen in his remarks has endeavored to set forth a consistent and convincing line of argument, but, if so, I certainly have failed to follow him. The order before us, as I heard it read, did not call for the construction of housing projects by W. P. A. labor, but simply aimed at having architects who might be on W. P. A., people who are now unemployed, draw the plans, following the same line that is now pursued in many lines of work in the City of Boston. The gentleman's reference to my interest in and sympathy for the poor of the city, I simply take for what it is worth. But I would here repeat what I have said before in this Body, that if we are really desirous of helping the poor, in the matter of housing, we should favor anything looking to economy in construction, which certainly has a bearing on low-rent projects. Let us keep the cost down, and the best way I can think of to keep the cost down is to strike out items aggregating one or two million dollars that will go to expensive architectural concerns if the work can be done by some other method. In other words, the way to make rents low for the poor is to reduce the cost of building, and one important way to reduce that cost is to cut out the architectural racket in Boston and everywhere else. Reference has been made to eminent firms of architects as possibly being behind some of these housing efforts. As far as I am concerned, I can assure the members of the Council that there is no firm of architects in whom I am interested in the slightest degree, in connection with these housing projects or anything else. I have not the slightest doubt that there are many able architects today who are out of work, who do not have the good fortune to occupy such offices, with Oriental rugs and fine furniture, as we may see over here in the Waterman building or in other buildings of this city. That does not mean, however, that they are not competent and able to complete these projects that are now in process of going up and that are costing the City of Boston from 2 to 6 per cent in the process. But if you really want to get away from that sort of thing, I would make this suggestion. I understand that the type of building that is now being erected for housing purposes is one that can be used in case of emergency for War Department purposes, and I would make the point that those in charge of such work might well cut out the present expensive architectural services and let the War Department engineers draw the plans for these projects. To my mind, that is something that should have been done from the beginning.

Coun. NORTON—Mr. President, to my mind the order that has been offered is a good one. These expensive architectural fees have been referred to. There is no question in my mind that there are many competent, well-trained architects walking the streets of Boston today, unemployed. I could easily round up a room full of them. In any event, this is merely a request, and I think a pretty good one. I would like to find out how Mayor LaGuardia would handle this problem. This is merely a request for consideration of the employment of competent architects who may be on W. P. A. and if we can save money by this means it is something worth looking into.

Coun. SHATTUCK—Mr. President, I would approach the matter in a somewhat different way. I agree with a good deal that Councilor Taylor of Ward 12 has said. We should have competent, experienced architects. But I am wondering if they could not give us a special price on these large housing projects, not charging the 6 per cent fee that would be expected on the ordinary building, when they are carrying through work of this sort, largely standardized, on projects involving millions of dollars. Where there is a great deal of standardization in design and in the work that is carried out it would seem to me that the architectural work should be regarded very differently from what it would be on the ordinary small development. I don't know whether they are charging 6 per cent or not on work of this kind, but if they are, I wonder if they would not reduce their percentage and give a special price on these housing developments.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, I think the order has a great deal of merit, and I would move its reference to the Executive Committee for more careful and thorough consideration. I think it would be well, judging from the experience we have had in the past in this and similar matters, to have those who are concerned with such projects in an executive capacity through W. P. A. state administration or otherwise, come before us and give us information as to whether or not such an order is possible of accomplishment. I don't want to spend $1,860,000 on architectural fees on a $31,000,000 project, unless it is necessary. Of course, we all want to have the work done well, and I think we would all like to hear from people who are dealing with such work in an executive capacity and who can give us worthwhile information about it. I think this is a good time for us to go into such details, and I would therefore move to refer the matter to the Executive Committee, where we can get the benefit of such advice and experience.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. NORTON, at 3.25 p. m., to meet on Monday, December 18, 1939, at 2 p. m.

CORRECTION.

At the Council meeting of December 4, 1939, in the debate on the new draft of housing agreement between the City and the Boston Housing Authority, on page 483 of the City Council Minutes, first column, beginning with line 4, Coun. CHASE said:

"Mr. President, in answer to the councilor from Hyde Park (Coun. Norton), let me say that I recall not so long ago that he was in my district with other potential office seekers, and he raised the issue of housing at that time against me."

Coun. CHASE should have been recorded as saying, in addition, that the councilor from Hyde Park was in my district "speaking in behalf of James Michael Curley."

THE NOISE NUISANCE.

That city officials are serious about eliminating noise is noted from studies of new anti-noise ordinances enacted by a growing number of municipalities listed in the "United States Municipal News," bulletin of the American Municipal Association and the United States Conference of Mayors. Among the more important of these cities are Philadelphia, Gary, Ind., Louisville, New York and Boston.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz., 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

REDUCTION IN QUOTA OF PUPILS

The Superintendent offered the following two orders:

ORDERED, That for the time being, the quota of pupils to a teacher for Grade I is hereby reduced from forty to thirty-five, provided that an excess of ten pupils shall permit of the appointment of a temporary teacher.

ORDERED, That for the time being, an excess of ten pupils in Grades II to VI, inclusive, shall permit of the appointment of a temporary teacher.

Mr. Lee: I would like to make an amendment to the second order by striking out the word "ten" and substituting the word "seven," on the Grades II to VI.

Chairman: You have heard the motion. Is the motion seconded?

Mr. Lee: That would make a top of forty-nine.

Chairman: I do not hear anybody seconding your motion, so I declare it lost.

Dr. Foley: I would like to make a statement on the first order: I am very glad to vote for this reduction in quota. It is a particular satisfaction to me because of the fact that since October, 1937, I have consistently advocated this change. At that time I wrote to the Superintendents of Schools of the larger cities of the United States and the replies showed them to be uniformly in favor of lower quotas for the first grade.

At that time I urged the reduction on the basis of the 14 per cent retardation record of our first grade children. Grade I is conceded by educational experts to be the most important grade in the life of the school child and failure in that grade is bound to have far-reaching effects.

In reply to my questionnaire, Frank W. Ballou, former Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Boston and at present Superintendent of Schools in Washington, D. C., wrote: "The first grade is likewise educationally, perhaps more important than any other grade, because in the first grade the child is likely to adopt habits and attitudes in his school work which will control and possibly seriously condition all of his future education. It is, therefore, of paramount importance that the child shall get the right start in the first grade."

This matter was given serious consideration in connection with the 1938 and 1939 budgets. However, because of the financial situation, it was felt unwise to adopt the new quota. Now, however, a lowered school population makes it possible to give to our pupils without additional expense to the city, the advantages acknowledged by experts to result from smaller classes in the first grade. That the present situation permits the continued employment of certain temporary teachers is incidental but pleasing in that it retains in the employ of the schools experienced teachers who, instead of seeking other careers, will be available for permanent appointment as vacancies occur in our school system.

I feel that the Committee is to be congratulated on its action in this matter.

Mr. White: Thank you, Doctor.

Chairman: Four in favor, the Chairman dissenting. I declare the two orders passed under a suspension of the regulations.

Mr. Lee: I would like to say a word complimenting Dr. Foley on the success of his long fight for reducing numbers in the first grade.

Dr. Foley: Thank you, Mr. Lee.

The Superintendent offered the following:

ORDERED, That for the current school year, the Superintendent, in his discretion, is hereby authorized to continue permanent teachers in excess of the number allowed by the regulations, until such time as the membership may warrant their retention or their transfer may be effected.

The regulations were suspended and the order passed by unanimous vote.

ASSIGNMENT OF KINDERGARTEN TEACHERS FOR EMPLOYMENT IN REMEDIAL WORK IN ELEMENTARY GRADES

The Superintendent offered the following:

ORDERED, That for the current school year, the Superintendent is hereby authorized in his discretion to arrange for the part-time employment in remedial work in the elementary grades of regularly appointed kindergarten teachers who, because of the present emergency, are not rendering full-time kindergarten service; the employment in the grades to be without change of rank or salary.

The rules and regulations were suspended and the order passed by unanimous vote.

REPORT OF BOARD OF SUPERINTENDENTS ON REDUCTION IN QUOTA OF PUPILS

A communication was received from the Board of Superintendents, under date of Dec. 4, 1939, reporting that, in compliance with the instructions of the School Committee, the Board has made a city-wide study for the purpose of determining the results of the agreement of the School Committee to reduce the quota for the first grade from forty to thirty-five and to provide that an excess of ten pupils in any of the first six grades shall authorize the employment of a temporary teacher.

The Board of Superintendents finds that this change will make possible the assignment of fourteen additional temporary teachers.

With regard to double grades; the study shows a total of fifty-two, the smallest number of double grades in the history of the city. Of these, forty-seven are thirty-four or less in number. The largest number in any double grade is thirty-nine. For the five double grades in excess of thirty-four, there is a definite special reason. In other words, there never has been a time when the number of pupils per teacher was smaller than at the present time.

Placed on file.

Chairman: The Chairman would like to comment briefly on this matter:

The reason the Chairman dissented on the two votes lowering the numbers in the elementary grades, was for the very reason that is brought out in the last sentence of the report of the Board of Superintendents.

Before this change in quota was put into effect, there never has been a time when the number of pupils per teacher was smaller than at present. That is true now; it was true last week, and it was true a month ago. That is why the Chairman dissented.

Dr. Foley: Before placing that report on file, let me say that I brought out upstairs in conference that of the 52 double grades, and that is the smallest number of double grades we have had, at least 47 have numbers of 34 or less, and I wish we would spread upon the records here that of those 47, the numbers of Grade I children are practically 18 and 20. Where there are 34, for instance, it is not a case of 32 Grade I children, and two of Grade II, but in classes where there are Grade I children, the number of these is less than 20. Isn't that true, Mr. Superintendent?

Superintendent: That is right.

Mr. Sullivan: I would like to bring out that acting under the instructions of my order, the Superintendent and the Board of Superintendents are to eliminate wherever possible throughout the school system, double classes as now existing.

Dr. Foley: I wish to go on record as substantially favoring Mr. Sullivan's statement.

Mr. White: That was agreed on in conference.

Dr. Foley: I bring that out so that the public will not misconstrue that last paragraph and understand that there are often less than 20 in our double grades.

Chairman: The public has been misconstruing this whole picture.

Mr. White: I would like to make a statement now, if I may, and I do not want to take one single bit of credit from Dr. Foley for the fight that he has put up for lowered numbers.

This reduction to 35 came on the recommendation of the Board of Superintendents and the Superintendent of Schools, for which the majority of the Board has voted and the Chairman has dissented.

Dr. Foley: When you speak about the public, I believe the public had in mind that there were some first grades in our system that had 45, 46 or 49 pupils, and that is what they were talking about, and that is what they were positively against.

Chairman: Conditions were different this year as to numbers than in any other year. In fact, the situation as to number of pupils to a teacher has been better this year than it has ever been in the history of the School Department.

Dr. Foley: The public felt that their children were attending first grade classes where there were 49 pupils. When you average the entire system you will hit about 32, and you might hit 30. They were not criticising the entire system. They were criticising the grades that their children were attending where these classes numbered 49 or 50, and I think they had a perfect right to criticize where a child was attending a class containing 49 or 50 pupils.

Mr. Lee: As the disposition of this matter is being made a point of record; was it brought out that as far as the combined grades are concerned we have now thirteen less than last year, and three less than a week ago?

Superintendent: That was not brought out, but that is true.

Mr. Lee: That will be a part of the record?

Chairman: Yes, that will be a part of the record.

BUREAU OF CHILD ACCOUNTING

ORDERED, That the Superintendent is hereby authorized to assign Paul V. Donovan, Principal, Continuation School, without change of rank or salary, to organize the proposed new Bureau of Child Accounting, as now approved by the School Committee.

Placed on file.

The following was offered:
ORDERED, That Section 336, paragraph 4 of the Regulations is hereby amended by striking out 4 (b) and inserting the following:
ADJUSTMENTS OF THE ANNIVERSARY AND OF THE SALARIES OF TEACHERS AND OTHERS ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE WITHOUT PAY FOR A CONTINUOUS PERIOD IN EXCESS OF TWO MONTHS IN ANY SCHOOL YEAR.

(b) Teachers, members of the supervising staff, school physicians, school nurses, librarians, secretaries, clerical assistants, bookkeepers, telephone operators, head supervisor of attendance, supervisors of attendance and supervisor of licensed minors absent from duty on leave without pay for a continuous period in excess of two months shall have the dates of their anniversaries advanced by that period of time for which the absence is Placed on file and leave of absence without pay granted for the period specified.

PLAN FOR RE-RATING TEM- PORARY TEACHERS

Mr. Sullivan: I would like to talk for just a minute on a proposal which I want to submit to the Board of Superintendents for immediate report back to this Committee.

I think in our rating system we have lost sight of the most important factor, in that we have not given enough attention to the experience of substitute teachers.

For that reason I would like to submit a proposal, which I have not got in detail, but in general it is this: That where temporary teachers are assigned to a permanent position, besides the regular method of marking, we have a point system.

For instance; if we set 50 points for some sort of a permanent position which might be an intermediate step to permanent appointment, for each year that that teacher worked she would be given ten points, or if she worked a portion of a year, she would be given a proportionate number of points, so that when she reached 50 points she would receive permanent work in the School Department.

I think that would give the temporary teacher something to look forward to in the way of security in her job. If she is giving temporary service for a period of years, she is actually needed in the system and she is high enough and active enough to be called on every year.

When that is taken up by the Board of Superintendents I would like the opportunity, in the immediate future, to be notified, so that I can go in and discuss it with the Board.

Chairman: You are asking for a study by the Board of Superintendents, to report back to the School Committee.

Mr. Sullivan: Yes.

Mr. Lee: I agree with Mr. Sullivan in saying that this thought, as I get it, need not upset the present way of appointing permanent teachers. I think that Mr. Sullivan brings in a needless mechanism in proposing this 50-point proposition. It seems to me that all we would need to do is to follow the present list which establishes different degrees of excellence for the teachers, and let appointments come from the top of that list, going down as far as may seem fitting and proper.

How far you went might depend on several things. You might say you would go half-way down the list of those who were receiving steady work. You might say that a teacher who had proved herself by three years' work in the schools and who stood, let us say, in the first half of the list, should automatically be given some status which would comport with her experience and usefulness to the schools.

Mr. Sullivan: My thought is that candidates are sometimes high on the list one year and in another year they may be lower on the list, and at the time of making the appointment a girl who had been working for a number of years might slip so far in her position on the list in that one year that she might lose out on an appointment. However, that is a detail that I will be glad to sit down and discuss with the Board of Superintendents in the hope that something may be worked out.

Superintendent: Do I understand we are to make permanent appointments without reference to school population?

Mr. Sullivan: You are now using these temporary teachers in schools?

Superintendent: We are using them according to the rules and regulations.

Mr. Sullivan: What I would like to do if we can is to give them a permanent title and take away some of the temporaries.

Mr. Lee: You would leave the same mechanism operative for appointing and designating teachers in accordance with the school population and pupil numbers. Then you would go into the fringe of teachers who are classified as temporary on the present basis and, leaving their duties as they are and the machinery of their assignment as it is, you would nevertheless give them a status which affected their salary and their title, taking recognition of the fact that they had served a certain number of years in the schools and during that period they had achieved a certain degree of excellence.

Dr. Foley: I am rather at sea on this.

Mr. Sullivan: I am willing to discuss with the Board of Superintendents any provisions they want to suggest on that.

Mr. Lee: Then as each year came along you would still proceed to assign temporary and permanent teachers as you do now? That is, for purposes of assignment you would still regard these teachers as temporary teachers, and they would be assigned when there were excess numbers in certain classes.

Superintendent: That is, you would freeze the list in any year?

Mr. Sullivan: You would not be doing that.

Superintendent: Mr. Lee said those who in any given year had achieved permanent status. What about the young people who come up through the years and gradually work up to the top?

Mr. Lee: It seems to me that at some point you have tried out your merit system long enough. If a person has been working three or four or five years and during that time has come out with a high rating, I think by that you have safeguarded the selection of a good teacher, and it is no more unfair to make that teacher permanent in status than to make any of our teachers permanent in status.

Mr. Sullivan: In such a system you would be giving credit for experience in the schools. I should think one who had had an experience of a number of years would be a better teacher.

Superintendent: That is true when you ask all of them to take the same sort of an examination, but you do not ask these people to take any examination.

Mr. Sullivan: They have a regular rating system.

Superintendent: You do not ask them to take any examination. The others who took a written examination have to be supervised and are rated.

Dr. Foley: Isn't there a process of elimination where they are supervised, visited at least eight times by the supervisors and receive four marks from the principals of their respective schools? Isn't that examination enough?

Superintendent: No.

Dr. Foley: Wouldn't you think that would be enough?

Superintendent: I do not.

Dr. Foley: Don't you credit something for practicability?

Superintendent: Of course I do, but I also demand some basic knowledge and some evidence of it.

Mr. Lee: What are the purposes of an examination? It is first to have some uniform test which is open to all comers?

Superintendent: Right.

Mr. Lee: And second you have a test to find out who seems to be good?

Superintendent: Correct.

Mr. Lee: As it is now, as you have pointed out, our examinations are in a sense dual. We have paper work which I think usually counts for 600 points out of a thousand?

Superintendent: Correct.

Mr. Lee: And a classroom demonstration which counts for 400 points?

Superintendent: That counts 300. There are another hundred points distributed for extra education and unusually fine work.

Mr. Lee: Keeping that in mind, I would like to offer this suggestion through Mr. Sullivan, before this conference which he suggests—that for the first or second year, or for the years in which a candidate is first aspiring for a position in the school system, have the examination exactly as it is now, with 600 points for the paper work and 300 for the classroom demonstration, and then, as you go into the fourth and fifth years you might give 100 less points for paper work and 100 more points for the classroom demonstration, so that you would have a sliding scale examination.

Superintendent: I shouldn't object to credit for a reasonable amount of experience, but I am thinking a little bit about those who have graduated since 1934 and have been compelled to take the written examinations as well as being required to be supervised.

Dr. Foley: Would you penalize the girl who graduated in 1929 and 1930?

Superintendent: I am not penalizing the girl who graduated in 1929 and 1930.

Dr. Foley: I feel there would be a penalty inasmuch as I believe they could not compete in a written examination with the girl who came out in 1934 or 1936.

Superintendent: The results of the examinations have not proved your contention, because some people who have been out a long time come to the head of that list.

Dr. Foley: From a practical standpoint I would say the young lady who has been out since 1929 and 1930 would be a better teacher.

Superintendent: You would not say that as she advanced in her teaching experience she got less and less intelligent?

Mr. Sullivan: My proposal was that this idea be given to the Board of Superintendents for study. I do not think we can discuss any definite plan here because I have not proposed it in detail. I would like to have the permission of this Board to give any general thought on this that I have, to the Board of Superintendents.

Chairman: This Board has given you that permission, and any of the members who wish to discuss this with the Board of Superintendents are, of course, at liberty to attend those meetings.

Superintendent: We are to take into consideration the question of written examination with the idea of giving credit for experience?

Mr. Sullivan: I will discuss it with the Board.

Dr. Foley: I would say it was a question of qualifications and requirements, and if there was any possible way of giving credit for experience it would seem good.

Chairman: I do not know what could be done without lowering numbers. I am opposed to lowering numbers any further.

Dr. Foley: I do not think that enters into it.

Mr. Sullivan: There is unnecessary wrangling here because we haven't got a definite proposal before us.

Mr. Lee: There is another matter that I would like to take up and before doing so will pause a minute to compliment you on the progress you have made in the plan for reorganization of departments, in setting up a more centralized bureau to take care of the welfare of the children.

PRACTICAL POLITICS AND PRACTICAL CIVICS

Mr. Lee: The matter I want to take up is the matter of teaching politics and practical civics in our schools.

In a meeting a month or more ago, some suggestions which I had made along that line were voted down by the Committee, and they were voted down, I think, on the basis of an adverse report from the Board of Superintendents.

However, the Board of Superintendents in that report pointed out that what I originally suggested was a course of study, not merely a set of 12 questions. I agree they were 12 questions or points which might be answered by such a course of study. Because of the suggestion that they were merely questions, I then submitted answers to those questions, and the Board of Superintendents then treated the questions and answers as a very brief text book. Since the Board of Superintendents told me that they were somewhat at a loss as to how to make up a course of study which answered the questions that I had in mind, I submitted the answers, and I proposed those answers because I had been asked by members of the Board of Superintendents.

I would like to go back to the question of a course of study dealing in practical civics. I think the events of recent weeks show absolutely that we are turning out a citizenry that does not successfully handle its own local government, and I think it is time we went right into that matter of what I call a course in practical politics.

If my answers to those questions were not well presented, or were not satisfactory material, that is that; but we still have the whole field in front of us of trying to get a more effective sense in the growing boy which will be useful to him when he becomes a man and is given a vote and must run his government well or allow his government to decay.

I think we ought to again request the Board of Superintendents to do something along that line. I think there were remarks made at the other meeting to the effect that the man in public life who did not follow the book of rules perfectly was the exception. I think that idea has been rather disproved now. We saw our clerk of courts and our erstwhile sheriff, who had very important, cornerstone positions in our government, both performing acts entirely inconsistent with the will of the people.

As I said in my outline, this is all part of certain forces that are always latently there and that must be understood and must be met by a more intelligent approach in the classroom. I can pull that thought together by quoting from Thomas E. Dewey, and drawing a parallel which I think will bring out just what I have in mind:

"If I was a racketeer the first thing I'd try to do would be to see a man elected to the office of district attorney who was respectable but stupid and incompetent.

If he happened to be old and to have occupied at one time a seat on the bench, so much the better. For nothing adds to the appearance of respectability so much as ermine once worn.

"I would see that he was a man who had long been in public office and could not earn a real living as a lawyer if he had to. His fear of being out of a job would make him quite willing to accept 'suggestions' as to the conduct of his office. Above all, I would avoid letting a real trial lawyer who mounted to anything hold that place.

"I would then see to it that this prosecuting officer should appoint assistants whose names had been suggested to him by district leaders, some of whom are intimate friends of gangsters, I would also like to see him choose some three or four assistants from members of the opposite party, to be used as window dressing, but who would never be permitted to take part in the prosecution of any of the real racketeers.

"With this kind of a set-up, no matter what racket I headed, I should know I was safe in carrying out my plan. It would not matter if I decided to hold up any industry or get rid of any of my rivals. I could go along sure that I would be immune against the law."

So much for District Attorney Dewey commenting on district attorneys.

Making the same reference to the School Committee, I say that it is not enough to have just a respectable School Committee. No one questions the respectability of this Committee, all the way from Miss Mellyn up to Chairman Smith. I think exactly the same thing holds true of a school committee and is apparently holding true of this School Committee, which holds true of the figure which Mr. Dewey describes. In other words, the mere demeanor of respectability of a committee does not relieve the committee of its duty to put some teeth into education in the direction of a study of these key political problems, and I think we ought to request the Board of Superintendents to draw up an outline of a course of study which gets at these very things.

Mr. Sullivan: Isn't something being done along that general line now?

Superintendent: Yes. A committee is at work. But we do not agree with the material that Mr. Lee presented. He presented 13 propositions to the Board of Superintendents to answer, but their answers did not correspond with the answers that Mr. Lee submitted.

Mr. Sullivan: Have we committees now working on the question of government?

Superintendent: Yes. That will eventually come to this Committee.

Mr. Lee: I understood that our committees were working on courses in economics.

Superintendent: That is a part of the work.

Mr. Lee: My request for an outline for a course of study in practical politics has been turned into a discussion of my own suggestions as though they had been a text book.

Superintendent: Didn't you offer them as a text book?

Mr. Lee: I offered those answers because the members of the Board of Superintendents were at a loss as to how to proceed.

Superintendent: The Board of Superintendents answered the questions. You submitted that as a text book.

Mr. Lee: I never heard of the answers of the Board members.

Superintendent: You talked them over with me and I told you what their answers were and I told you what your answers were. I told you there were subjects there that I would not think of having in the schools if I had anything to do about it. I told you that definitely and positively. I said the whole basis of your course of study was not such as to put before young, immature children in our schools.

It is all right to quote Mr. Dewey, but you were proposing something for the children in our schools, and they are children, even though they are in the high schools.

Mr. Lee: Did the members of the Board of Superintendents draw up their specific answers?

Superintendent: Yes, they did.

Mr. Lee: Those answers were not brought to my attention and I do not believe they were brought before the Committee.

Superintendent: I know you submitted your answers very early and kept pressing to have us make a report on them, and we made that report.

Mr. Lee: I understand that report was made and that decision was made. The question I am opening now is the original question, namely: should there be a course in practical politics or practical civics?

Superintendent: I can answer that briefly as far as the Board of Superintendents is concerned. Do you consider the course of study that you offered to us a course of study in practical politics?

Mr. Lee: I consider it as a suggestion towards a course of study in practical politics.

Superintendent: If that is a course of study in practical politics I should say the Board of Superintendents would be very much opposed to it.

Dr. Foley: What was the substance of that? Can you give us any idea of the substance of it?

Superintendent: You remember the questions—what services do racketeers perform?

Mr. Lee: I am urging here that the Committee nevertheless proceed to call on the Board of Superintendents to take up the matter of teaching politics and practical civics in our schools.

Superintendent: I would like to know what you mean by practical politics.

Mr. Lee: I submitted 12 questions and answers to show what I mean.

Superintendent: The Board of Superintendents do not agree with that at all.

Chairman: You quoted Mr. Dewey of New York.

Mr. Lee: Anyone will agree that we are not doing very well in our City government and any thinking person will agree that you can't wait till people are grown up and harried by the responsibilities of working for a living and raising a family and then blossom into examples of political wisdom. You have to give them the instruction in the formative period of life, the same period of life in which we teach them arithmetic, geography, and the other things that stand them in good stead in later life.

Superintendent: You are assuming that is not done now. It is done now and it is done very effectively. I have tried to get you to visit some of these teachers and I have not been able to do so. I think you will find real enlightenment as to what they are doing.

Mr. Lee: When I suggest that which the Superintendent says they are doing, apparently that which they are doing is regarded as something to shrink from.

Superintendent: I agree with you right now that we are not doing in our schools what you propose in your text book of practical politics. We are not doing that and I do not believe the parents of the children would stand for it.

Mr. Lee: I believe they would welcome it.

Superintendent: The ones I have talked with would not welcome it.

Mr. Lee: I think we ought to go further in this direction in such form as the Board of Superintendents thinks well of. I think we ought to stop pussyfooting on a matter as important as how to run our own government.

Imagine the practices of the sheriff's office, which had apparently been going on for years, being complete news to nine-tenths of the citizenry. The collection of fees by deputy sheriffs and the condition of things just brought to light was all news to the citizenry. If you have a citizenry that does not know how its county government is operated, I do not see how you can expect people to govern.

Superintendent: Do you think that in our civics classes in the high schools the question of county government is not taken up?

Mr. Lee: Apparently it has not been learned.

Superintendent: What grounds have you for that?

Mr. Lee: It came as news to most of our citizens, and newspaper editorials commented on the fact that it was news to most citizens of Boston how the sheriff's office had been working for years, and it apparently took a scandal to inform the people as to how their own institutions functioned. That seemed to be the universally accepted belief.

Superintendent: Even so, if a specific detail in the conduct of an office were not known by the people of the community, you cannot expect the children in our schools to know the specific details of each office in the city. There is not time enough for them to learn it, and our teachers would not know the facts themselves.

I do not believe that you knew the facts of the sheriff's office any more than I did. It has not affected your life very seriously.

Dr. Foley: Where are we going? Are we getting anywhere at all?

Chairman: I am going somewhere soon.

Mr. Lee: I do not think it is any matter to fool with. I think the action of the Board of Superintendents in shrinking from meeting these questions, as they have, questions which are the heart of the problem, indicates that they are not giving the child going through school a chance to come out as a young man able to cope with those problems. And I tried to parallel that with Mr. Dewey's remarks about district attorneys. It is not enough to have merely a respectable district attorney or a respectable school committee. You have to consider the main difficulties which a city administration or a state administration gets into, the main forces which tend to undermine your government, and see what their relation is to the government. They must see what the relationship is to the government of those who are engaged in politics, as well as the relationship of lawless individuals and the general citizens, so that the child grows up knowing what to look for, so that he is not rendered paralyzed in dealing with his government but has an idea how to evaluate his candidates and to know what the situation is that he is trying to grapple with.

Mr. Sullivan: Wouldn't it be a good thing for Mr. Lee to take that up with the Board of Superintendents or the group who are arranging the course of study, and if they do not agree with whatever views you might have, they can submit their course to us and you can bring in amendments to their course.

Mr. Lee: Where the Board of Superintendents have shown such aversion I do not know whether that is a good idea.

Superintendent: We have not shown such aversion. The Board of Superintendents has undertaken to prepare what it thinks are the very best courses of study for the children in our schools.

You are talking about a very small minority and you are approaching it from a totally different angle. You want to acquaint them with all evil. Some of us have a belief or have an idea that children should be acquainted with the good, that they may continue to do good.

Chairman: Are you an educator, Mr. Lee?

Mr. Lee: I am trying to learn to be, but at this stage I cannot say that I am.

Chairman: It seems to me the Board of Superintendents have given an emphatic disapproval of that course of study.

Superintendent: Yes, we have, unanimously.

Mr. Lee: That course of study was designed to meet this question which seemed to me paramount. Many details could be changed. I am glad to see any number of details changed, but it did try to come to grips with the paramount questions of our city government and with the problems and functions of our city government, and I think this Committee ought to instruct the Board of Superintendents to reopen that matter, not with a view to accepting my suggestions, but with a view to looking further along these lines and at least looking at the questions, even if they are going to come out with their own answers.

You can't go on this way, bringing up generation after generation with no real knowledge of the forces that tend to undermine city government and operate on the man in public life. It is time the boy and girl understood how the machinery works. It is the same in any city. It is a science as clear as botany. It is not a sporadic thing. It happens right along, and we have the instances of the Governor's Council, your City Council, and your sheriffs' office.

Superintendent: Granting that there are wrongs in the municipality, who is going to correct them?

Mr. Lee: The younger generation, educated in the schools to grasp the problems.

Dr. Foley: Who is going to instruct these children in the schools?

Mr. Lee: The teachers in the schools.

Mr. White: In practical politics?

Mr. Lee: Yes.

Mr. White: If you are going to name the individuals who are good legislators or who are poor individuals, that is quite a responsibility. Are you going to place on the teacher the responsibility of suits for libel? The newspapers try to do a pretty good job in exposing those things. They have to be certain of what they say. So would every teacher in the public schools.

Mr. Lee: I am willing to leave out names. It isn't necessary to mention any person's name.

Mr. White: How are you going to get down to practical politics without telling who is right and who is wrong? If they spent the rest of their lives studying the matter they wouldn't know who was wrong on the bills presented in the legislature. There are only two forces,—those who live a righteous life and those who do not. The teachers try to lead them by example to lead a righteous life.

Mr. Lee: There is a failure to connect the child's impetus to rightness with the practicalities of modern life. A child is born, as far as my beliefs are concerned, with a tremendous impetus to rightness. The question is one of applying that rightness to the complexities of city government. No names need be mentioned. Certain things follow through in any city, county or nation. We keep our children in ignorance of those factors and then we wonder why we do not handle our government with satisfaction and we have to be housecleaning through the newspapers or through court action.

Dr. Foley: It is going to cost us considerable money for the stenographic reporting and the printing of this public meeting. We are trying to economize. Why couldn't this be taken up in conference?

Mr. White: Regardless of the stenographic report I think Mr. Lee is entitled to say what he wants to say in this public meeting.

Chairman: You made these suggestions once before, Mr. Lee, and your suggestion was answered unanimously by the Board of Superintendents and the Board of Superintendents' report was accepted by four of the School Committee, who said the report was an excellent report. Now you are asking for reconsideration of that?

Mr. Lee: I am abiding by the decision of the Board of Superintendents and this Committee on my particular version of what I had in mind. On the outline of a course of study dealing with that problem I say that the Board of Superintendents should go to work and bring out something which would be more effective to this present generation than what was taught 15 or 20 years ago.

Chairman: What you mean is something along the same lines?

Mr. Lee: Yes.

Chairman: I am sure the Board of Superintendents would answer that in the same way.

Superintendent: I know in the first place we could not get any teachers who could teach rackets. I am sure I couldn't. I do not believe that Mr. Lee knows what constitutes a racket. I do not believe you could pick out a racket and give a detailed analysis of it so you could teach it to a group.

Mr. Lee: I define a racket as that which gets something for those who promote it, by being what it does not appear to be, or not being what it is represented as being.

Superintendent: And present that to children and expect them to understand it?

Mr. Lee: When you have an outline of your course of study you can get people who are prepared to teach it. You have a few outstanding men in this vicinity who have spent their lives in the field of government.

Superintendent: And we have some good women.

Mr. Lee: Those men could teach our teachers at Teachers College how to teach government. We have men like former Governor Curley, who knows how Boston's government works. You have Eugene C. Hultman, our greatest office holder, who knows how that element of government works.

No one thinks it is funny to have a person who can add, go into a school and teach arithmetic. No one thinks it is funny to have a person who can spell, go into a school and teach spelling. Yet we have no one experienced in government teaching government. Let this course be drawn up in conjunction with those who have shown dexterity in government. Why is that absurd? Isn't it sensible? Let us get at this problem of government and go after it and not start talking about the eternal virtues with which everybody agrees.

I think you ought to ask the Board of Superintendents to give further thought to that matter. They can abandon the suggestions I have drawn up, but this Committee ought to have more responsibility about equipping the child to understand the everyday practices of his government so that he can come out of school able to deal with those things and understand what is happening in government circles. I think we ought to reopen that proposal. There is some compromise that can be made along that line.

You cannot sit here and watch the developments of the last month and say that the situation is satisfactory. You have to do that work in your schools and that is the only place you can do it. I think the Board of Superintendents ought to ask in outside people who are proven in government, who really know how it has been done.

Mr. White: How it has been done?

Mr. Lee: How our government has been operating.

Mr. White: Good or bad?

Mr. Lee: Whichever way it has been, I am not raising the question of good or bad. I am saying, How does the alarm clock work? How is the machinery put together? Where is the mainspring? Where are the cogs? Where is the face and what goes on behind the face?

Chairman: Does anybody second Mr. Lee's suggestion? (No response). I do not hear the motion seconded, consequently I declare it lost.

METROPOLITAN WATER WORKS. STATISTICS FOR YEAR 1936.

The Metropolitan Water Works, controlled and operated by the State and costing, since inception in 1895, about $45,100,000 for construction and about $1,100,000 for maintenance, supply ten cities and ten towns of the Metropolitan District (including Boston), covering an area of 174 square miles, the distribution pipe lines being 175 miles in length. Total gallons of water in the nine storage reservoirs on January 1, 1937, 57,681,274,000, or 8,141,174,000 more than on January 1, 1936; total capacity of same 82,544,600,000 gallons. Of all used, about 80 per cent comes from Wachusett reservoir in Clinton. There are also twelve distribution reservoirs with capacity of 2,400,680,000 gallons and five distribution pumping-stations in which 23,392,071,229 gallons of water were pumped during the year 1936, an increase of 249,491,815 gallons over 1935.

FINANCING SEWAGE WORKS BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT IN IOWA.

The cost of constructing sewage disposal plants in a number of states, and in Iowa in particular, may be levied against the various lots, parts of lots or parcels of ground draining to, or susceptible to drainage to, the site of the disposal plant. Such assessments must be in proportion to the benefits to each property and must not, in any case, exceed one-fourth of the air value of the property in question. These special assessments are payable in the same manner as other municipal improvement costs; that is, in ten annual equal installments, paid at the same time and place as the March 1 installment of ordinary taxes in Iowa. Any property owner may pay off the unpaid portion of such tax at any time. Interest on the deferred payment must not exceed 6 per cent.

The population of the United States increased 16.1 per cent since 1920; that of New England 10.3 per cent and that of Massachusetts 10.3 per cent.

MAYOR TOBIN APPROVES TUNNEL RATES AND SCHEDULES FOR 1940 REMAINING UNCHANGED FROM 1939 — MAKES DECISION FOLLOWING COMMUNICATIONS FROM PUBLIC WORKS COMMISSIONER HYLAND AND RECOMMENDATIONS BASED ON DATA GATHERED AS TO USE OF TUNNEL UNDER VARYING YET COMPARABLE CONDITIONS OVER PERIOD OF YEARS — APPROVAL OF PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION SOUGHT.

Following a report from Public Works Commissioner George G. Following the approval requested, the Commissioner of Public Works has, as required by law, requested this approval also by the Public Utilities Commission. The decision of Mayor Tobin was based on findings contained in the following communications from the Public Works Commissioner:

FINDINGS OF COMMISSIONER.

BOSTON, December 20, 1939.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—This is in reference to the advisability of increasing, from fifteen (15) to twenty (20) cents, the tolls charged to passenger cars that use the Sumner Tunnel.

The tunnel was opened on June 30, 1934, at which time a twenty-five (25) cent toll was charged. This toll was continued until January 13, 1935, and was reduced to fifteen (15) cents on January 14, simultaneously with the closing of the Chelsea North Bridge. At that time, due to the reduction in the toll charges and the closing of the bridge, the number of vehicles using the tunnel immediately increased. In order to decide just what part the closing of the bridge played in this increase, I have compiled the following data:

Average daily number of vehicles using the tunnel for the ten (10) days prior and subsequent to the decreasing of the rates and the closing of the bridge:

January 4, 1935, to January 13, 1935 . . . 4,249
January 14, 1935, to January 23, 1935 . . . 11,316

Average increase . . . 7,067

Average daily number of vehicles using the tunnel for the ten (10) days prior and subsequent to the opening of the Chelsea North Bridge on December 24, 1935:

December 14, 1935, to December 23, 1935 . . 17,850
December 24, 1935, to January 2, 1936 . . . 11,961

Average decrease . . . 5,889

Average daily number of vehicles using the tunnel during the same periods of the year, one year later:

January 4, 1936, to January 13, 1936 . . . 9,712
January 14, 1936, to January 23, 1936 . . . 8,342

Average decrease . . . 1,370

December 14, 1936, to December 23, 1936 . . 12,449
December 24, 1936, to January 2, 1937 . . . 12,828

Average increase . . . 379

After analyzing the data, I have concluded that the decrease in the toll rates accounted for a daily increase in vehicles of 6,075 and the closing of the bridge accounted for 6,000 more, or a total daily increase of 12,075 vehicles over the year 1934. I am basing this assumption on the fact that the opening of the bridge on December 24 resulted in a loss of 5,889 vehicles, whereas, in the following year (1936) no such loss was experienced. In other words, if the toll rates had been decreased on January 14, 1935, and the bridge remained open, the daily average for 1935 would have been 12,001 vehicles, which certainly is not unreasonable to assume when you consider that the daily average in the year 1936 was 14,292 and has been increasing every year since.

SUMNER TUNNEL RATES AND SCHEDULES FOR 1940.

With these facts and assumptions in mind, I have compiled the following data, in order to determine whether an increase in the rates should be considered, at this time:

YEAR.	Number of Vehicles that Actually Used Tunnel. (Daily Average.)	Theoretical Number of Vehicles that Would Have Used Tunnel if Rates Were Reduced to $0.15 on January 14, 1935.	Theoretical Number of Vehicles that Would Have Used Tunnel if Original 25-Cent Rate Were Maintained up to Date.	Theoretical Number of Vehicles that Would Have Used Tunnel if Rates Were Reduced to $0.20 January 14, 1935.
		BRIDGE REMAINING OPEN.	BRIDGE REMAINING OPEN.	BRIDGE REMAINING OPEN.
1934.....	5,926	5,926	5,926	5,926
1935.....	18,101	12,001	7,900	8,900
1936.....	14,292	14,292	8,200	9,900
1937.....	14,660	14,660	8,300	10,200
1938.....	15,187	15,187	8,400	10,500
1939.....	16,213	16,213	8,500	11,000

From the foregoing table it will be seen that if the twenty-five (25) cent rate had stayed in effect, the revenue for the year 1939 would have been approximately $775,000, whereas, the actual revenue that will accrue in the current year will be approximately $892,000.

On the other hand, if the rate had been reduced to twenty (20) cents instead of fifteen (15) cents, the revenue that would have been derived in 1939 would amount to approximately $803,000 as compared with the $892,000 under the present toll rates.

In compiling the data for this table, I had to assume certain things, although I feel that the assumptions that I have made are reasonable and logical. When considering the average daily traffic, I based my estimates on the trend as shown by actual conditions under the existing schedule of rates.

If the present fifteen (15) cent toll were increased to twenty (20) cents, it would, unquestionably, result in a considerable and alarming loss of traffic. It would set the tunnel back five years and would result in losing the ground that has already been gained in selling this facility to the public. As shown on the inclosed tables, the daily average number of vehicles using the tunnel has increased every year since 1935; the biggest gain being made in the present year.

It is my unqualified opinion, after studying the problem with care and deliberation, that the existing rates should not be increased.

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

HON. MAURICE J. TOBIN,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The Board of Park Commissioners respectfully asks your approval to renew a lease for a period of ten years from January 1, 1940, with the Puritan Canoe Club, South Boston, for the sum of $120 per year, said lease to expire on December 31, 1949.

The present lease, which has just expired, was for a ten-year period at the same rental as mentioned above and is for the land located on Columbia road, South Boston, bounded as follows: Northwesterly on Columbia road, 80 feet; northeasterly by land now or formerly leased to the Columbia Road Yacht Club; southeasterly by Boston Harbor; and southwesterly by land now or formerly leased to the Boston Yacht Club.

The buildings and all fixtures and equipment on the land are the property of the Puritan Canoe Club, the city only leasing the land on which the building stands. For many years this club has been a very satisfactory tenant for the City of Boston, pays its obligations on time and keeps the premises in and around the Yacht Club in a clean and satisfactory condition.

Therefore, the Board of Park Commissioners respectfully requests that this extension be granted.

Respectfully yours,

GREATER BOSTON'S 1940 COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN.

I have asked Fire Commissioner William Arthur Reilly to act as Campaign Chairman for the City Employee Group, and he has accepted. J. J. McCarthy, City Treasurer, will act as Group Treasurer, and William L. Dowling, Chief Pay Roll Clerk, will act as Group Associate-Treasurer.

In order to outline plans for the participation of the city employees in the 1940 Community Fund Campaign, I am calling a luncheon meeting of all city department heads at the Roof Ballroom, Parker House, at 12.30 p. m. on Wednesday, January 3, 1940.

To this meeting I want each city department head to bring with him the principal assistants who will act with and for him in the 1940 Campaign. I urge you to select these individuals with special care. In the smaller departments the number of such assistants might be one to four; in the larger departments, a dozen or more. I want all these individuals to attend this meeting.

I shall attend and speak at this meeting, and I request your fullest cooperation in assisting Chairman Reilly and myself.

Important.—Please notify in writing Commissioner Reilly at Fire Headquarters, Bristol street, not later than December 30, 1939, of the number of assistants that you will bring with you to the meeting and of their names. I expect the luncheon room to be filled to capacity.

FLOODING OF McCONNELL PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 18, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the chairman of the Park Department relative to your order of December 11, 1939, concerning the flooding of McConnell Park, Savin Hill, for skating purposes and also arrange to keep the field open so that skaters may change their shoes and use the lockers.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, December 14, 1939.
William T. Doyle,
Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Sir,—I have your memorandum of December 13, with inclosure, order from the City Council, to arrange for the flooding of McConnell Park, and to keep the field house open.

Please be assured that every attention will be given this request. At the present time it is too early to flood as there is no frost in the ground. I might add that McConnell Park has been flooded for many, many years.

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM P. LONG, Chairman.

GUARD RAILS ON BRIDGES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 18, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith letter from the Public Works Commissioner relative to your order of December 4, 1939, concerning the arranging for the installation of guard rails on the Alford Street Bridge and the Prison Point Bridge for the safety of motorists using these bridges.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
December 11, 1939.

William T. Doyle,

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—This is in reference to the following order that was passed in the City Council on December 4 of the current year:

"Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to arrange for the installation of guard rails on the Alford Street Bridge and the Prison Point Bridge for the safety of motorists using these bridges."

A W. P. A. project for the installation of additional curb guards at the Alford Street and Prison Point Bridges was submitted some time ago. Up to the present time, however, this project has not been approved by the W. P. A. authorities, although it is my understanding that it will be approved within the next week.

Due, however, to two recent skidding accidents that have happened at the Alford Street Bridge, which very nearly resulted in fatalities, the department decided not to wait for the approval of the W. P. A. project to start this work. The work of placing additional curb guards on the Alford Street Bridge was started last week by department forces, and at the present time approximately 400 linear feet of 12-inch by 14-inch timbers have been installed on top of the existing 6-inch curb, thereby providing for an 18-inch curb, which should give motorists adequate protection and prevent any vehicles from plunging over the sidewalk into the Mystic river.

The work on both the Alford Street and Prison Point Bridges will be prosecuted diligently, in order to complete it as soon as possible.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

VETO OF ORDINANCE RE WATER RATE LIENS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 18, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—I return herewith disapproved and without my signature a proposed amendment to the ordinance concerning liens for water rates passed by your Honorable Body on December 4, 1939.

At the present moment the entire method and system of water rate collections is being studied by both the officials of the Public Works and the Municipal Survey Committee. As a result of this study an ordinance will shortly be presented to your Honorable Body which will make certain amendments to the ordinances concerning the Water Division of the Public Works Department.

In view of the proposed changes in the forthcoming ordinance to be presented, I deem it necessary to veto the proposed amendment concerning liens for water rates as recently passed by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
December 15, 1939.

William T. Doyle,

Chief Clerk, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Doyle,—This is in reference to your communication of December 11, inclosing a copy of the following proposed amendment to the Revised Ordinances of 1925, as passed in the City Council on December 4:

"Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston as follows:

"Chapter twenty-seven of the Revised Ordinances of 1925 is hereby amended by inserting after section twenty-six the following new section:

"26-A. At least sixty days before filing for record in the registry of deeds, under section 42-B of chapter forty of the General Laws, of a lien against any particular parcel of real estate for unpaid water rates the commissioner shall send a notice of his intention to file such lien with a statement of the amount due, to the owner of record as of January 1 in the year of the proposed filing."

It is not desirable nor necessary, from any point of view, to include the above paragraph in the city ordinances.

The proposed amendment would add materially, and, in my opinion, without sufficient justification, to the work necessitated by the accounting procedures now in effect in the business office of the Water Division.

The placing of liens on real estate, because of unpaid water bills, is to be done but once yearly. The ordinary practice will be to file such liens immediately subsequent to March 1 for unpaid water bills of the previous year. By adopting such a policy, some bills will have remained unpaid for as long as eleven months and in no case will they remain unpaid for a shorter period than sixty days. I feel that this is as much consideration as should be shown to persons who do not pay water bills, particularly when all bills now sent out by the Water Division show the amount of the arrearages owed. There is no reason why a person owing a water bill does not know exactly what he owes and for what quarter he owes it.

Section 42-A of chapter 40 of the General Laws as amended by chapter 415 of the Acts of 1938 states, in substance, that water bills remaining unpaid sixty days after the due date, shall, after the filing by a municipality, such as Boston, of a statement, in accordance with section 42-B of chapter 40 of the General Laws as amended by chapter 415 of the Acts of 1938, be a lien upon the particular piece of real estate. This statute law affects all cities and towns in the state that accepted aforementioned sections 42-A and B, and also sections C, D, E, and F of chapter 40 of the General Laws. These sections were accepted by the City Council in September, 1923, and I see no reason, at this time, for supplementing their provisions by requiring the Commissioner of Public Works to notify delinquents sixty days before filing a lien.

I have no documentary evidence to substantiate my statement, but Boston is probably more lenient and more considerate to persons who owe water bills than other large cities throughout the country.

The Water Division of this department should be considered as much of a business establishment as any public utility company. Business procedures have been adopted, under the present city administration, and the present efficiency should not be impaired by adding amendments to the ordinances that are nothing but a lot of red tape. The adoption of the proposed amendment might act as the opening wedge to other amendments of a similar nature.

I respectfully recommend that his Honor the Mayor veto it.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE G. HYLAND,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Placed on file.

APPROPRIATION FOR ARMORY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 18, 1939.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen,—Under the provisions of section 31 of chapter 33 of the General Laws, the Commonwealth reimburses cities and towns for payments made from municipal funds for the rent and maintenance of armories other than those provided by the state. This year the amount paid to Boston for this purpose has been increased seven thousand dollars. It now develops that this increase was made for the purpose of meeting additional rental and maintenance expenses at the armory located at the corner of Arlington street and Columbus avenue, occasioned by the expansion under War Department orders of the militia detachment stationed therein. The Superintendent of Public Buildings has received a bill for these additional charges, but before payment may be made it is necessary that an appropriation be provided. I submit herewith an order providing for an appropriation to meet this expense, said appropriation to be met from the additional payment already received from the Commonwealth.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of seven thousand dollars be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, from the income received from the Commonwealth under the provisions of section 31 of chapter 33 of the General Laws, said sum to be expended for the following purpose:

Public Buildings Department.
F. Special Items.....$7,000 00

Real Property Inventory Project, now employing about 270 persons with a total pay roll estimated at $150,000 and other purposes of the Authority as set forth in the accompanying order appropriating said sum of $15,000.

I recommend prompt consideration and passage of said order by your Honorable Body, and I withdraw the appropriation order in the sum of $25,000 to be expended by the Boston Housing Authority, submitted to your Honorable Body on May 22, 1939.

Respectfully,
MAURICE J. TOBIN, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated, to be expended by the Boston Housing Authority, for the purpose of defraying initial costs and administrative expenses of the said Authority in connection with its proposed projects, including participation in W. P. A. projects for Real Property Inventories and Surveys, said sum to be transferred from the Reserve Fund.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRISONS.

Coun. FITZGERALD, for the Committee on Prisons, submitted the following:

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 126 of the General Laws, the Committee on Inspection of Prisons of the City Council submits herewith its annual report.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

The customary semi-annual inspections of the Suffolk County Jail were made. No complaints were received by the committee concerning the food served at the institution and the cells were found in a clean and sanitary condition.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

Your committee made the usual number of visits to the House of Correction and conditions at this institution were found to be very satisfactory, particularly along the lines of sanitation and cleanliness.

For the Committee,
JOHN I. FITZGERALD,
Chairman.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President and members of the Council, in presenting the report of the Committee on Inspection of Prisons on the Suffolk County Jail, I wish simply to say, as is stated in the report, that the committee made its customary semi-annual inspections of the jail, and that no complaints were received by the committee concerning the food served at the institution and that the cells were found in a clean and sanitary condition. Our main concern is the treatment of the prisoners, and that is in line with what the committee has done in past years when it made a visit, looking into the matter when complaints were received from the prisoners or making an investigation when there was some outbreak at the jail, or at the House of Correction at Deer Island. It now seems, however, that the committee is being subjected to severe criticism by the newspapers and by the State Department of Correction as being lax in the performance of its duties, in view of occurrences that have now come out. Of course, we made our first visit to the jail after the Sheriff, a former member of the City Council, was installed as custodian. As would be natural, having served with the man in this body for many years, and his having been elected by a large majority of the voters of the county, when we went down there we were in a friendly mood toward him and were given a very hospitable reception. We were treated very well, and naturally were inclined to extend to him every consideration and privilege, as a man who had been a fellow member of the Council with us for years, who had enjoyed a good reputation here, and who had been elected sheriff by a large majority of the voters of Suffolk County. Naturally we had such feelings toward him as we visited the institution. We spent a short time going over it and found everything in perfect order and in apple-pie condition. Since that time, however, as we all know, certain things have taken place, and the committee has been criticized and treated unfairly by the press and by a committee of the state department conducting an investigation. On November 16 the committee went to the jail, and we had with us the official stenographer of the City Council. We held a hearing there at the jail and interviewed a great many of the officers and employees. Everything said on that occasion was taken down verbatim, and we intend to file a verbatim report of what was said there at that time and have it made a part of the record. It is a complete record of what was said at that time before the committee. In interviewing the officers, something was said about the visits to Mr. Dolan. Well, Mr. Dolan was admitted to the jail, charged with contempt of court. He was not charged, as I understand it, with a great crime, but was simply held for contempt of court, and when that is the case, when a man is simply being held, until the court releases him of the contempt and he apologizes to the court, it is a question how far the ordinary privileges he might have in the way of visits, and so forth, should be curtailed. We feel that our committee did everything that should be done, that we went farther than committees have in other years. In previous years there have been investigations for which large sums of money were allowed, in which there was counsel, and where the matter was gone into in great detail. That has happened in the past. But there is no getting away from the fact that when the Sheriff went in there as a new official, we felt as a committee that he should be accorded privileges that would perhaps not be accorded if he had not been a member of our body and if he had not gone into that office surrounded by a great halo, an office he had attained after a campaign six years long, and following apparently sincere promises that he would give a good administration. Personally, I wonder why the Bar Association has not shown more interest in the management of the jail in the past. When we look back through the minutes of 1937, we remember the escape of Simpson at that time, when it was claimed that the then sheriff had not done his duty. But apparently no interest on the part of the Bar Association was aroused, and nothing was done. There was even a statement that I made here in this Council at that time which appears in the minutes as a matter of public record, and of which no notice was taken. At that time it seemed that the management had been delinquent in its duty, but it was never properly investigated, and nothing was done. The attention of the Bar Association was called to the matter at that time, but three years elapsed before they did their duty. And I don't even think that action was taken in this matter by the Bar Association as a whole, but that there was simply one man there who started to do something. When he did so they tried to pull him off, but he persisted. I question even now whether they desire to back him up. He still wants to do something, but the Bar Association does not want him to go through, but if he does act, they want him to act as a private citizen. Mr. President, the Committee on Inspection of Prisons has done everything possible in this matter. They have performed their duties in a proper manner, and should be given credit for what is contained in this verbatim report, word for word.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, there is one statement the gentleman made that I did not quite understand. Perhaps I misunderstood what he said. I understood him to say that, because of the reason that the Sheriff was a former colleague of ours in this body he was given privileges that would not ordinarily be given to a person in charge of the jail. I suppose the gentleman did not mean that as it sounded. Although I am not a member of the Committee on Prisons, I cannot quite understand why privileges should be extended recently to the Sheriff because he was a former member of this body.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I think the councillor misunderstood what I intended to say. I think on our first visit, not long after the Sheriff took office, when we accepted his hospitality and shortly after he had been a fellow member of ours in this body, our feeling towards him may perhaps have been somewhat different than if that had not been the fact. We stayed there only a short space of time, and we found everything in apple-pie order, as we have reported.

Coun. AGNEW—Mr. President, I would like to ask the chairman of the committee whether or not the committee talked with an officer named Greer, who has recently given statements to the press that were not only damaging, but which should have been brought out long, long ago. I would like to know if that officer was talked to by the committee on their visit to the jail and whether he then gave such information as he has recently given to the press.

Coun. FITZGERALD—We had a statement of a man named Greer before the committee. The members present being Councillors Taylor and Rosenberg, with myself, and he did state certain things that appeared in the papers in his statement as reported before the Grand Jury the other day. He was the one who informed us that Mr. O'Hare visited the jail, the race man who was killed. I saw the picture in the paper the other day, and he did appear before the committee. He said a lot of things, to the effect that the jail was not what it should be.

Coun. TAYLOR—In reference to Greer, I cross-examined him at length, and he appeared to me to be a man with an axe to grind. He never answered questions directly, never knew directly what was going on, but only from hearsay or what he imagined. So I think that if the statement he gave to the Grand Jury was similar to what he gave to the Committee on Prisons, it didn't amount to much.

Coun. AGNEW—May I have again the date of the visit of the committee to the jail?

Coun. FITZGERALD—November 16.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, the gentleman from Ward 3 (Coun. Fitzgerald) has made some derogatory remarks about the Bar Association. I don't care to subscribe to those remarks, because I think the Bar Association merits a compliment from the City Council for the fine work which it did in this matter.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Councillor Chase's expression of opinion in regard to the Bar Association.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I would simply say that the condition of affairs under the former régime was brought to the attention of the Bar Association. I will say further, that last year I introduced a bill into the Legislature making certain charges, and the Bar Association did not take the trouble to appear before the committee in regard to it. Also, the Senator from the Second Suffolk District made charges on the floor of the Senate, which were not looked into at that time. As a matter of fact, the Bar Association woke up pretty late.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, we have law-enforcing agencies in Boston, and the Bar Association is not a law-enforcing association, but simply an association of lawyers. I feel that if there is any investigation to be made in a matter of this kind, it should be made by a law-enforcing agency, and that such agencies should be condemned for not taking appropriate action, and not the Bar Association.

Coun. SULLIVAN—Mr. President, the councillor from Ward 3 takes issue on the attitude of the Bar Association in this matter, although only a few moments ago he admitted that the Committee on Prisons did not, on their first visit, make such a careful inspection as they should have made.

Coun. FITZGERALD—Mr. President, I don't think the gentleman understood what I said. I said that the Bar Association woke up rather late, and I said also that I had put a bill into the Legislature in regard to this matter which they did not back up; also that the Senator from the Second Suffolk District last year had made charges to which no attention was paid. I simply say that the Bar Association woke up pretty late, that they had plenty of opportunity to act long before they did.

The report was accepted.

POSTPONEMENT OF W. P. A. FURLOUGHS, ETC.

Coun. CAREY offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor immediately request President Roosevelt to issue an executive order that further furloughs from W. P. A. be postponed until after the New Year, and be it further Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor immediately request President Roosevelt to issue an executive order to the effect that the apparent discrimination against single men and women on W. P. A. be stopped at once.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, the first order speaks for itself. This is no time of the year to fire any one from his job. The Christmas holidays are here, a time when each and everyone of us needs whatever employment he can get. I sincerely hope, therefore, that immediate action will be taken by the Mayor on that request. Relative to the second order, the constant demands to which we are subjected to help so-called single people to get W. P. A. employment are terrific and altogether too often we have been refused merely because they are described as single. It has furthermore been a constant nightmare to those who are now on W. P. A. in the so-called single class worrying about just when they might be released. Many of the single people are those who have been married and who have since been left alone in the world because of the death of either the husband or wife. All of them are in great need and must have employment, and it is not fair for Washington to discriminate against anyone simply because they are single. All W. P. A. funds, as I see them, are in the same basket. W. P. A. as I understand it, was originally set up to provide employment for those who needed it, and I do not believe personally that at the present time the original intent of the act is being carried out by Washington. There is absolutely too much politics in the W. P. A. and I think the President would be doing very well by having an investigation made of the matter from top to bottom. I believe, for one, that many in the higher brackets on W. P. A. in Washington, receiving $50 a week and $7,500 a year, and who themselves are single, might well take a furlough, but they are not forced to do so due to the fact that they are acting in an administrative capacity. We have a great many single people, some alone in the world, with nobody upon whom they can depend, and others who have family burdens who are utterly in need of W. P. A. employment. They should not be discriminated against, and I sincerely trust that the action suggested in this order be taken immediately.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

INSPECTION OF TAXICABS.

Coun. TAYLOR offered the following:

Ordered, That the Police Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to inspect every taxicab for mechanical fitness, and to suspend the licenses of all taxicabs which are mechanically imperfect.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I think this is a very important order so far as the safety of citizens of this city is concerned. There are too many taxicabs on the streets now. Many of them are old boxes such as you will find in ordinary junk yards, in awful condition, cars that should not be operating on our streets, and yet they are continually employed carrying people for hire from place to place. Citizens riding in such contraptions are placed in a very difficult and dangerous situation, and I know what I am talking about when I say that many of these taxicabs are utterly unfit to be on the streets of Boston. Recently there was an accident in the East Boston tunnel in which two people were seriously injured, rendered unconscious, one still in the hospital and one at home recovering from the injuries, because a certain taxicab, a 1931 Nash, nine years old, being operated through that tunnel at 45 miles an hour, in attempting to stop was unable to do so because the brakes on the wheels became locked, and the car collided with another one coming from the opposite direction. A police officer questioning the operator after the accident received the following information,—"I told my boss that the brakes were not good, and that the steering apparatus was out of line, but the boss said, 'Go ahead anyway.'" There are no doubt many such instances on the streets of Boston today because the managements of some of these taxicab companies are totally unfit to conduct the business of transporting passengers about our streets. I believe, therefore, that it becomes our duty as city councillors to do what we can to safeguard those who hire these vehicles to ride about our streets. I believe it is imperative that we should have inspection of every taxicab on our streets with a view to its mechanical fitness, and if an inspector finds that any one of them does not meet proper safety requirements, the license should be suspended.

Coun. CAREY—Mr. President, I think it might be well to amend the order so as to refer to all automobiles on our streets. I don't know why the order should be limited to taxicabs.

Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I might say that taxicabs come under the Police Commissioner, while other automobiles do not.

Chairman SHATTUCK—The Chair would rule that such an amendment would be out of order, as being outside the jurisdiction of the Police Department.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CLAIMS.

Coun. LANGAN, for the Committee on Claims, submitted the following:

1. Report on petition of Bernard F. Glynn (referred November 13) for reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of motor vehicle belonging to Water Division, Public Works Department—recommending passage of accompanying order, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of twenty-seven dollars and sixty cents ($27.60) be allowed and paid to Bernard F. Glynn in reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of a motor vehicle belonging to the Water Division, Public Works Department.

Report accepted; order passed.

2. Report on petition of Edmond A. Marks (referred November 20) to be reimbursed for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of motor vehicle belonging to Water Division, Public Works Department—recommending passage of accompanying order, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of twenty-six dollars and eighty-three cents ($26.83) be allowed and paid to Edmond A. Marks in reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of a motor vehicle belonging to the Water Division, Public Works Department.

Report accepted; order passed.

3. Report on petition of Neil M. Murphy (referred November 13) to be reimbursed for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of motor vehicle belonging to Sanitary Division, Public Works Department—recommending passage of accompanying order, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) be allowed and paid to Neil M. Murphy in reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of a motor vehicle belonging to the Sanitary Division, Public Works Department, said sum to be charged to the Contingent Fund.

Report accepted; said order passed.

4. Report on petition of Max Levine (referred November 20) for reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of motor vehicle belonging to Sanitary Division, Public Works Department—recommending passage of the accompanying order, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of sixty-two dollars and fifty cents ($62.50) be allowed and paid to Max Levine in reimbursement for judgment issued against him on account of his acts as operator of a motor vehicle belonging to the Sanitary Division, Public Works Department, said sum to be charged to the Contingent Fund.

Report accepted; order passed.

APPROPRIATION FOR SOCIAL LAW LIBRARY.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to the proprietors of the Social Law Library the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) for the maintenance and enlargement of said library, said sum to be charged to the appropriation for County of Suffolk, Social Law Library.

The question came on the passage of the order. Coun. TAYLOR—Mr. President, I do not quite understand the order, and I would like to have the councillor explain it.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I understand that by law each county is supposed to subscribe annually $2,000 to the County Law Library, although I believe the amount appropriated in Suffolk has only been $1,000. While I personally believe that the Social Law Library should not be the recipient of an appropriation by the city, that is the law. I believe also that the Social Law Library is a valuable adjunct to the work of the courts and the Council and that the city should pay at least $1,000 of the $2,000 which it is supposed to pay annually.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

RESURFACING OF ST. GREGORY'S COURT.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to resurface St. Gregory's court, from Dorchester avenue to Avondale place, Ward 17.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

NAMING OF MONSIGNOR DOLAN COURT.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to change the name of St. Gregory's court, Ward 17, to Monsignor Dolan court.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I offer that order because I think it represents a well deserved recognition of the services to the community rendered by the clergyman in question.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

INVITATION TO REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Coun. WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to invite the Republican National Convention to meet in the City of Boston in 1940.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, I take great pleasure in presenting this order, particularly in view of the urgent invitation extended by the Mayor of Boston to the Democratic National Committee to hold the Democratic Convention in this city. I feel very strongly that the Mayor should and will gladly invite any great convention to our city, with the substantial business value that it carries with it, even although members of the particular party concerned are not supposed to be eligible for employment by the Federal Government. I feel also—and I believe this is something that will appeal to our present presiding officer—that the holding of this convention in Boston may result in the recognition by the Republican National Convention of one of our local favorite sons upon the national ticket.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

ARCHITECTS ON FEDERAL HOUSING PROJECTS.

Coun. CHASE and WILSON offered the following:

Ordered, That the Boston Housing Authority submit a list of the names and addresses to the City Council of all architects awarded contracts on Federal housing projects in Boston and the total amounts of fees paid or already agreed to be paid.

Coun. CHASE—Mr. President, inasmuch as this Honorable Body saw fit to vote in favor of Federal housing in Boston, I think we are entitled to any piece of information we may desire on housing. A while ago, during the summertime, hundreds of Boston residents were complaining that they could not secure employment on the Federal buildings going up in sub-standard areas where Federal housing was going into effect, while members of this Body got information that men from Nebraska, New York, Alabama and other sections of the country were coming to this city and were employed on manual labor in tearing down houses, and so forth. Now, Mr. President, you know as well as any other member of this Body the things that Federal housing was sponsored for in the arguments presented to the Body. You know the picture that was painted of unemployment conditions in Boston and the benefit that our citizens were to receive in the way of employment through these projects. I think it is high time that we should find out who these architects are who have benefited through these contracts. I understand that outside architects have received a million dollars on the present and prior housing projects while we have had hundreds of unemployed architects and draftsmen in the City of Boston. Such being the case, I think this Council, if possible, should do something to help these unemployed men in our own city. I understand that certainly a good many of these architects have come here from outside the City of Boston, and I say it is an injustice to the people of Boston and the taxpayers who are paying the welfare bills of this city. I say that it behooves this Body to do all it can to make sure that everybody in the City of Boston is given an opportunity to obtain work, and also that the Boston taxpayers, who are paying the bills, should receive proper consideration.

Coun. WILSON—Mr. President, the Boston City Council was today put in its place, as one might expect, by the Housing Authority, to whom a majority of this Body have voted the right to do a lot of housing here, to the tune of $50,000,000. The Council in so voting, however, has thereby divested itself of any measure of control over the Housing Authority, whom we might consider a branch of the city government under the circumstances, and yet who absolutely ignore the Council when information is even desired or requested. The Boston Housing Authority, as long ago as last Tuesday, was requested to attend the meeting of the Council today, and still they have paid no attention whatever to that request; that, too, despite telephone calls today, when one of the members was on another line and the Chairman of the Board was still at lunch at ten minutes past three. And they are still to be heard from. I listened on the radio—not being invited because I understand that only those in favor of housing were invited—to one of the meetings held at one of Boston's hotels last week. As I say, only those in favor of housing were invited, and I understand that all the residents of Old Harbor Village were urged to be present, and all the employees of the Boston Housing Authority were requested to be there, to make up the cheering section. I listened to some of the remarks on the radio, and heard some of the statements made, to the effect that the only criticism that had been made of the work of the Authority was in connection with doorbells and a slight damage caused by the dropping of rain now and then. The speakers claimed that the critics should drive at more vital things than doorbells and rain, which are only side issues, as the Housing Authority puts it. Well, we all know the real grounds for just criticism of the work of the Housing Authority, as they have been set forth in this Body from time to time, but which naturally were not brought out at that meeting, and that there were such grounds of criticism the Housing Authority, of course appreciates. And on top of that, Mr. President, the fact that no member of the Housing Authority has come here, devoting only a few minutes of his time to this Body, is merely a repetition of the strange reticence we have seen on the part of that organization, controlling $50,000,000 or more, to disclose any information whatever concerning their dealings. I still feel that this failure of the Housing Authority to disclose to the City Council any facts or figures in regard to its operations, shows an astounding indifference to this Body and to the taxpayers of Boston, especially when they do not even give any explanation of failure to come here or to give information. That has been their attitude up to the present time, in spite of the fact that they have been so well treated at our hands, and on top of that we have had an order introduced from them here today and referred to the Executive Committee asking an appropriation of $15,000 for a W. P. A. project sponsored by the Housing Authority. I personally fail to follow the logic of an argument which says that the City of Boston can spend $15,000 for a spot survey of real estate in this city, but that somehow it is out of order for us to suggest that the employment of Boston draftsmen, engineers and architects should be sponsored as a project by the Boston Housing Authority. I do hope, therefore, that the chief executive of the city, so far as may lie in his power, will urge the representatives of the Housing Authority to at least appear before the City Council of the City of Boston and furnish the perfectly proper information that we desire.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. McMAHON, at 4.08 p. m., to meet on Saturday, December 30, 1939, at 11 a. m.

"RELIEF" DECLINING.

Two-thirds of the nation's relief expenditures in recent years has been centered in ten industrial states, the "Year Book's" section on Financing Relief and Recovery points out. Half the Federal Work Relief Funds and two-thirds of all available funds have been expended in the fifty largest cities, including about 25 per cent of the population. Industrial urban population is more vulnerable to unemployment. In addition, living costs are higher, requiring greater relief allotments, and the cost of giving employment to a city group is higher than in rural areas.
